ndon by Darby A. Day, Chicago millionaire, that asking a pardon for Mrs. Bernice Lunstrum, who is serving a term in San Quentin prison, yesterday met with a sharp refusal by the ches received here last night from Sacramento. rdon for the girl as a New Year's gift.

The Governor's statement setting forth his reasons for refusing to consider the applications by the Days and rebuking them for "scarcely-hour applications for pardon that are made too late to permit complete investigations of the facts" was read to young Day at his Beverly Hills home last night. He expressed regret that he and his father had failed in their attempt to get his former wife pardoned "as a New Year's gift to her mother and sisters."

MAKE ANOTHER TRY

"We were not informed as to the proper procedure to pursue in applying for the pardon," he said, "and that we know how to make proper application we undoubtedly shall make another and formal one. Both myself and other members of my family feel that she has suffered enough."

Mrs. Day was convicted in Los Angeles county and the Supreme Court upheld the conviction. Gov. Richardson's statement was in the nature of a comment on telegrams received from the Days, urging the pardon of Mrs. Day. The telegram explained that plastic surgery has removed most of the scars from the son's face, that he has obtained a divorce from Mrs. Day, and that they believe she has been sufficiently punished.

The telegram from Day, Jr., requested an audience with Gov. Richardson today. The executive dispatched a reply advising Day to remain at home, explaining he considers pardon matters only on the written record and on formal application.

The Governor's statement follows:

"I cannot consider eleventh-hour applications for pardons that are made too late to permit the complete investigation of the facts. Moreover, notice must be published and served upon the District Attorney before I will consider an application for executive clemency.

"Darby A. Day cannot expect to receive more consideration than any other person interested in a contest confined in the penitentiary of this State.

DOES NOT UNDERSTAND

"Neither is the fact that Mrs. Day's parents are influential a matter to be considered by me. Mr. Day apparently has very slight conception of the purpose of our penal laws or the theory of punishment of crime, and does not understand the proper function of a Governor's duty as to the exercise of the right to pardon.

"Apparently he feels that because his son has obtained a divorce and that his facial appearance will not be permanently marred that the woman, regularly convicted in the courts, should immediately be turned loose. I assume from the verdict of the jury and the action of the court that she was guilty of the crime charged. Therefore she should be punished, not so long as her divorced husband and father-in-law desire to remain in prison and not as restribution for an impulsive act of throwing acid in the face of her husband, but as a warning to others that the law must be enforced without regard to position or social standing.

"The purpose of imprisonment after conviction is the protection of society, the prime intended effect is to deter the commission of other crimes. To obtain the desired result punishment must be meted out equally to all convicted of crime."

EDGEWATER CLUB BOARD FORMS PLAN

Trust Fund Proposed to Buy Up Beach Building at Creditors' Sale

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 30.—The committee appointed by Ingle Carpenter, Los Angeles attorney, to formulate a plan of action on the part of members of the Edgewater Club, now in a friendly receivership, tonight presented a plan for the reorganization of a $750,000 corporation. It was stated that $400,000 must be raised to be placed in a trust fund in readiness to buy up the club building at the expected forced sale.

Pledges for stock subscriptions to the proposed corporation were made tonight. About 1000 members attended the meeting.

Carpenter said objection had been made to the committee's plan by J. Connors, original promoter of the club, who is said to own three of the 60 per cent of the original $250,000 Club Corporation stock. Connors favored operating the club on the rental basis, but this was not regarded as feasible, Carpenter said.

"We are just pawns in a commercial juggle of affairs," Carpenter declared. "Under present conditions certificates of membership are a joke."

The committee, Carpenter announced, charged extravagance in the past management.

Carpenter said that two of the largest creditors, the Winter Construction Company and the Brothers Furniture Company, had signified willingness to co-operate in the plan advanced.

Members of the committee, in addition to Carpenter, who acted as chairman, are J. E. Brakeman, F. C. Worthington, W. F. Mitchell, Jarmin Wesley, B. A. Bishop, Mrs. Bishop, M. Law, Maj. Stoneham, H. Howard and J. Loeb.

J. Livingston of 2348 West Pico street. According to University detectives the victim was riding a bicycle and observed in front of Livingston's machine. At the County Hospital Police Surgeon Dunsmoor reported that Johnston suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries. The body was removed to the County Morgue.

SPECTER OF WAR RISES

Italy Reported Mobilizing

Lightning Stroke Against France Declared to be Aim of Fascists

Preparations Along Alpine Frontier Described by London "Sketch"

Copyright, 1926, by N. Y. Herald-Tribune.

LONDON, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—Premier Mussolini is preparing for a lightning stroke against France, and a situation has arisen on the Franco-Italian frontier which calls for the immediate intervention of the League of Nations, "The Daily Sketch" declares in a sensational article which is to be published tomorrow.

Declaring that its information comes from a correspondent who saw personal service as an intelligence officer in the World War, the newspaper's communication in part the correspondent says flatly: "The need be no sensation monger to say that a first class war is gradually coming to a head between Italy and France," and that any situation which the League was intended to hinder—the spectacle of two states arming openly one against the other—is in full swing all over the world to see."

LEGIONS MOBILIZED

According to the Daily Sketch's correspondent, six Black Shirt legions are in skeleton formation only, but are mobilized along the French frontier from Mondane down to Ventimiglia. The layout of the force as given by the correspondent is as follows: The legions are spread over an area of roughly 60 miles between Aosta in the north and Ventimiglia on the Mediterranean. Legion No. 1 is based at Aosta and stretches debouch toward the Greater Valley. (The hub of the war, manufacturing and industrial France around Lyons and St. Etienne, it must be noted, lies barely 100 miles from the most advanced legionnaires.) Second legion is in the Valley of Susa and based at Bard. The third is in the Valley of the Lanzo and based at Turin. The fourth is at Mt. Cenis neighborhood and based at Bardonecchia. The fifth is posted along the railroad between Modane and Susa, and the sixth extends from Savona down to Ventimiglia, with its headquarters at Savona.

SKELETON ARMIES

At present, according to the correspondent, each legion numbers approximately only 1400 men—mostly officers or noncommissioned officers—and possesses only three machine gun sections and three rapid-fire batteries mounted on armored cars. In case of a conflict, however, he says, three additional regiments, totaling 9000 men, will at once be called for service with each legion. The armament simultaneously will be increased to eleven mobile batteries and fifteen machine gun sections of heavy mobile guns. In general, the correspondent says flatly, "the Fascisti are not naughty naves of every form of heavy industry working night and day, while their observation posts in the Alpine heights report each new battleries being moved up, new concrete emplacements being built, new machine-gun sections arriving on mules, new strategic roads

MEXICO ON EVE OF TAKING OVER VAST OIL INTERESTS

Impasse of Foreign Companies and Government Persists, With New Laws in Effect Tomorrow

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 30. (AP)—The Mexican government theoretically will become one of the greatest owners of oil lands in the world on January 1 unless there is a last-minute alteration in the situation brought about by promulgation of the new petroleum and land laws and the failure of the oil companies thus far to accept the laws.

Under the terms of the new regulations, all oil lands under foreign title, the holders of which have not applied for confirmatory concession before January 1, will revert automatically to the Mexican government. President Calles has refused to grant an extension of time for making these regulations effective.

Neither government officials nor representatives of the oil companies here have accurate statistics regarding all the property involved, but unofficial estimates are that many thousands of acres with a potential value of perhaps billions of dollars are affected.

Fundamentally the deadlock between the Mexican government and the most important foreign oil companies continues apparently unchanged, with much uncertainty as to the specific developments after the new year. There is a feeling among some that although the law provides that the titles shall revert to the Mexican government, the government may not actually take over the lands at once, thereby affording no grounds for direct complaints from foreign interests of confiscation. Thus the present status of uncertainty might remain indefinitely.

Senor Morones, Secretary of Commerce and Industry, has announced that the government will not turn over to third parties the leases on the oil lands reverting to the government because of failure of the present title-holders to apply for new confirmatory concessions. The oil interests were fearful that concessions to their properties might be granted to other individuals or companies which would accept the new laws and make formal application.

OIL OFFICIALS FAIL TO ACT ON NEW LAW

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—A special meeting of the association of producers of petroleum in Mexico to consider President Calles's refusal to grant an extension of time in which to comply with the new Mexican oil law, was adjourned today with a statement that no action was taken. Officials of the association declined to state whether oil interests concerned will file applications for confirmation or their rights, as required under the new law. The time limit will expire at midnight tomorrow.

Officials also indicated that whether another meeting will be held tomorrow night might depend on advices from the representatives in Mexico City.

The American oil interests have refused to comply with the law, association officials explained, because they consider the term "confirmation of rights" a misnomer. Enforcement of the law, they contend, would be tantamount to confiscation. It was contended further that forms of application which have been prepared by the Mexican government have been "ambiguous" and "conflicting."

Actions against the law appealed by certain companies from lower courts, now are pending in the Mexican Supreme Court. The lower courts ruled against the oil interests on the ground that the suits were premature.

It was intimated in some quarters that certain companies might permit their rights to lapse under the law and attempt to recover their properties by action through State

OVERTURES TO SOVIET?

Approaches by America Told

Moscow Says United States Offered to Talk Terms of Recognition

Capital Mum on Statement But Indicates Russian Affairs Studied

MOSCOW, Dec. 30. (AP)—An important government official declared here tonight that "tangible and palpable" approaches were made to Russia from the United States during the summer respecting recognition. Whether these approaches were made in Washington or elsewhere, and by whom and through what means, this official, who generally reflects the views of the Foreign Office, would not disclose.

"I can only say," he declared, "that the American government definitely abandoned its intransigeant attitude to us and was ready to discuss privately, if not officially, terms of recognition. Then suddenly, something happened, and this will always be a mystery to us. The conversations terminated abruptly. Whether it was the American cotton crisis, the American elections, quarrels within our Communist party or other factors, we do not know, but the State Department again climbed on the high horse and refused to treat with us."

FURTHER TALK PLANNED

While the soviet was unable to accept all the terms proposed as conditions precedent to recognition, the Russian government spokesman said, it was prepared, as heretofore, to send an official or unofficial delegation to Washington to discuss all questions in dispute between the two countries.

Further information vouchsafed was that Gregory Pyatkoff, formerly vice-president of the Supreme Council for National Economy, will embark within a fortnight for the United States. He is proceeding to America in a purely commercial capacity as head of the soviet purchasing organization in New York.

Reviewing the soviet's international position, the official admitted frankly that the Bolsheviki had a rather unsatisfactory year. The only appreciable success was the soviet's achievement in provoking the Chinese to throw off what he termed "the foreign yoke" and realize their own national aspirations.

DARKEST CLOUD

He alluded to the recent overturn of the government in Lithuania as "the darkest cloud" on the Bolshevik international horizon and confessed that the soviets felt the greatest uneasiness over Poland's hand in this affair.

"Poland's machinations and designs constitute the most disturbing factor for ourselves and the peace of Europe," he said. "There is ever present the menace that Poland, encouraged by other European nations, will exert renewed pressure on our western border, having always as an objective extension of her territory in Ukraine."

WAR SEEN IN SUN SPOTS

Great Upheavals Forecast

Russian Scientist Traces History for Dire Prophecy of Next Two Years

Solar Activity Asserted to Excite People to Insanity as Well as Greatness

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30. (AP)—Another great war within two years, caused by the culmination of a period of sun-spot activity, is among the possibilities, according to Prof. A. Tehijovsky, of the University of Moscow, in his paper, sent from Russia and read today before the meteorological section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The paper was read by Prof. V. P. De Smitt, lecturer on meteorology at Columbia University.

The Russian declared that all great wars had followed periods of intense sun-spot activity.

"The events of history repeat themselves," he said, "and this makes possible the deduction of certain generalizations. Inefficiency in finding out the laws of history makes some people assume the hand of providence guides the destinies of men. Others think that chance and accidental facts, with no general law, are essential in history. And yet others regard the human will as the principal factor in changing the flow of historic events, whereas the acts of this will never could be accounted for nor classified.

COMPARES HISTORY

"I undertook a research of the successions of historical events with relation to the periodical activity of the sun. I have been impressed by a most surprising fact. The fluctuations of history are synchronous with the fluctuations in the physico-chemical processes of the sun's substances. Investigation shows that human life reaches its fullest development at time of maxima of sun spot activity.

"During the first period or the minimum of excitability there is a lack of unity in the human masses and an indifference to political and military questions. People are tolerant in the second period, when excitement has grown.

"The people begin to unite. New leaders appear. Political and military orators make their stand. It all results in the masses of people becoming impatient and nervous. This is the period of maximum excitability of the cycle, which gives solutions of the greatest problems of humanity.

INSPIRES TO INSANITIES

"This period inspires nations to the greatest insanities as well as the greatest achievements. The most prominent events in human history occur in this period. The last period is the subsidence of this excitability."

Some of the great events which the writer declared had occurred during the periods of sun spot activity included the fall of the Moorish empire in Spain and the discovery of America in 1492; the French Revolution in 1789; the Russian Revolution in 1917 and a long series of insurrections from 1905 to 1916; all of the crusades, the great migrations of nations; the early persecutions of the Christians.

St. Bartholemew's Massacre, the downfall of Byzantium, the French Reign of Terror; the rise of Alaric the Gaul in 395, of Cromwell, Richelieu, Washington, Lenin, the great battles of the world; the great epidemics from cholera in Persia in 1370, when the sun spots could be seen with the naked eye, were also included as events which occurred during periods of intense sun-spot activity.

"In 1927 and 1929," said the writer, "when the seven-year period of sun-spot activity attains its maximum and when this maximum will coincide with the maxima of two other periods of sixty years and thirty-five years, there will be a great human activity of the highest historical importance, which may again change the political chart of the world."

"How Do You Like Our New Number?"

IMMORTALITY DEFENDED

Scientist Declares Lifetime Study Proves That Soul of Human Lives After Death

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30. (AP)—A lifetime spent in studying astronomy and allied sciences has led Dr. Heber D. Curtis, director of the Allegheny Observatory, to believe that the human soul exists after death.

In addressing the American Association for the Advancement of Sciences here today, he said physical and chemical processes seem to be the same throughout the universe and time, and he added:

"I personally find it impossible to regard Handel's "Largo," Keats's "Ode to a Grecian Urn" and the higher ethics as mere by-products of the chemical interaction of a collection of hydrocarbon molecules. With energy, matter, space and time continuous, with nothing lost or wasted, are we ourselves the only manifestation that comes to an end, ceases, is annihilated at three score years and ten?

"What we crudely call the spirit of man makes new compounds, plays with the laws of chemical action, guides the course of the atom, changes the face of the earth, gives life to new forms and takes it away from millions of animals and plants. Here is a flame that controls its own flaming, a creative spirit which cannot reasonably be less than the continuity it controls.

"This thing, soul, mind or spirit, cannot well be an exception. In some way, as yet impossible to define, it, too, must possess continuity."

The Einstein theory of light reflection is disputed by Dr. Charles Lane Poor, physicist and astronomer of Columbia University, and Dr. R. F. Moulton, professor of dynamic astronomy at the University of Chicago. Dr. Poor said that Einstein's theory is "not in accordance with the facts," and Dr. Moulton asserted that it is "impossible for Einstein to have spoken with anything resembling finality." He said there was a percentage of error in Einstein's calculations varying from 50 to 200 per cent.

The new president of the association, elected today, is Dr. A. A. Noyes of the California Institute of Technology. Vice-presidents elected include: Astronomy, W. S. Adams, Mt. Wilson Observatory, Pasadena, Cal.

DR. NOYES AMONG EMINENT SCIENTISTS

PASADENA, Dec. 30.—Dr. Arthur A. Noyes, elected to the presidency of the American Association for the Advancement of Science today at Philadelphia, has been director of the Gates Chemical Laboratory of the California Institute of Technology since 1915, and is one of the country's most eminent scientists.

Dr. Noyes, who is 61 years of age, formerly was editor of the Review of American Chemical Research and is a member of the National Academy of Science, the National Research Council, the American Chemical Society and many other scientific societies.

Dr. Walter S. Adams, also of Pasadena, who was elected vice-president of the association today, in charge of the astronomy section, is director of the Mt. Wilson Observatory of the Carnegie Institution of Washington and is an internationally known astronomer, especially as an authority on the sun. He became director of the observatory in 1923, upon the retirement of Dr. George Ellery Hale.

BRUCE CITES NAVY STAND FOR BRITAIN

Premier States Adequate Sea Force Will be Kept as World Peace Factor

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—Great Britain will continue to maintain an adequate navy so long as naval power is a dominant factor in world peace, Premier Stanley M. Bruce of Australia today told a group of American naval officers.

The officers were among many who were entertained by the Premier and Mrs. Bruce when the American fleet visited Australia two years ago. The Premier is en route home from London, where he attended the imperial conference.

The British navy, Sir Bruce declared, never will go into action except to protect civilization and he added his conviction that such a conflict would find the British and American navies fighting side by side.

This country's appreciation of Australia's hearty reception of the fleet two years ago was expressed by Secretary Wilbur, Admiral Coontz, who commanded the fleet at that time, and Vice-Admiral Wiley.

NONPOISON RUM PLAN

Alcohol Not to be Lethal

Mellon Says Chemists Seek Denaturant to Make It Only Unpalatable

Senatorial Combat Starts as Result of Deaths Over Holidays

BY KYLE D. PALMER
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Whether Uncle Sam shall constitute himself a sort of modern Lucrezia Borgia and distill quick and effective poisons for denaturing alcohol that may later be used for beverage purposes by Eighteenth Amendment scofflaws or devise some method for making alcohol extremely unpalatable—vile in taste and smell, but not necessarily lethal—became in Washington today a question around which centered much Senatorial strong language and a certain amount of official inquiry and explanation.

Precipitated by a considerable number of deaths from alcoholism during the holiday season and undoubtedly aggravated by the somewhat indiscreetly cynical remark of Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, that those dying from the effects of illicit liquor are "deliberate suicides," the subject came up for discussion in such form today as to indicate an angry and extensive review of this phase of prohibition next week.

SUBSTITUTE SOUGHT

While Senatorial ire was being given free rein at the Capitol and Senator Edwards, wet New Jersey Democrat, began preparation of a bill that would prohibit the introduction of poisons into commercial alcohol, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and government chemists outlined the government's policy in the matter and made public interesting details of chemical research designed to discover nonpoisonous substitutes for the poisons now in use.

Secretary Mellon obviously is not unseemly perturbed by the situation, he proposes, he said, to do all that he can to bring about maximum enforcement of the prohibition law. He also acknowledged a conviction that prohibition cannot be enforced 100 per cent, as all laws are violated. The Secretary believes the progress of prohibition enforcement has been "slow but gratifying" and that room for improvement exists in many localities, notably in New York.

CAUSE NOT UNUSUAL

Drawing attention to the fact that deaths from alcohol were common before prohibition became a law, Secretary Mellon indicated his belief that denatured alcohol probably did not cause as many deaths as did wood alcohol and alcoholic concoctions.

He said, however, that nonpoisonous substitutes will be used if found adequate for the purpose desired.

That this "if" bulks rather large upon the horizon of chemical research was indicated by Dr. J. M. Doran, chief chemist in the prohibition unit, who said that wood alcohol, specified in an act approved in 1906 as a denaturant, is used in but five of the twenty denaturing formulas approved by the department.

"If a nonpoisonous element is found more suited to the purpose than wood alcohol," he said, "it will be used."

The race between government chemists charged with the duty of devising denaturants difficult of removal through re-distillation and the efforts of bootleggers to remove the foreign element has been keen, and courtly. In a race in which the denaturing experts have been slowly forging ahead.

LAW NOT NEW

When Senator Edwards, angrily retorting to Mr. Wheeler's "deliberate suicide" theory of illegal drinking charged the United States government with practicing "legalized murder" in the adulteration of grain alcohol, he did not take the fact into account that the law providing for denaturing alcohol was put into effect twelve years before prohibition and not primarily for the purpose of discouraging the consumption of alcohol.

BASEBALL PLAYER IN OPERA

Semi-Professional Scores at Metropolitan Debut Singing King's Role in "Aida"

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—A voice that once shouted "Are you blind?" when sand lot umpires called a strike, boomed through the Metropolitan Operahouse today. The voice was that of Joseph MacPherson, who four years ago was playing semi-pro baseball on vacant lots in Nashville, Tenn. MacPherson, 26 years of age, and with only three years of vocal training as preparation for the test, made his debut, singing the king in Verdi's "Aida" at a benefit matinee.

Tullio Serafin, metropolitan conductor, under whose agile baton the performance was given, said of MacPherson's voice:

"It is pleasing and rich. There is much promise. He sings with security even under the strain of a debut."

Members of the cast called the debut a success.

Back stage, in a two-by-four dressing-room, MacPherson sat, completely relaxed after the second act, the last in which the king appears.

"By golly," he said, "that was worse than coming up to bat with the bases loaded, two out and the score tied in the ninth."

Gaetano DeLucca, Nashville vocal instructor, who snatched MacPherson from a minstrel show organized to earn money for his team to buy balls and bats, trained him and put him in the "major league" in three years, dashed into the dressing-room to find his pupil in a predicament.

MacPherson, king's whiskers, regal robes, sandals and crown still on, was being unharnessed, but he didn't know how to get the paint off his face. It was his first time in make-up, and DeLucca had to borrow a box of cold cream and supervise the removal of the king's whiskers and monarchal wrinkles.

"I am sure glad that's over," MacPherson said when he got his six feet something into street clothes. "And now I'm going home to see my wife and baby."

Mrs. Louise MacPherson, his wife, was confined to bed with a broken hip that made it impossible for her to attend her husband's debut. Bulletins on the debut were given Mrs. MacPherson by telephone, friends acting as announcers.

War Lords See Foreign Unity End; Six American Gunboats Move to Patrol Shanghai

CHANGHAI, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—Agitation against foreigners suddenly flared up throughout China today as a result of the growing belief among the Chinese that the powers are weakening in their attitude toward this country. Because of the threatened attack upon Shanghai by the Cantonese army, the American gunboats Asheville, Ford, Sacramento, Hart, Peary and Rizal have been ordered to be prepared to land marines to act jointly with other foreign forces to protect the lives of the 35,000 foreigners here in case antiforeign riots attend the invasion by the Cantonese.

Outside of Shanghai 100,000 northern troops are encamped in a battle line extending from Nanking to Hangchow in the final hope of defending the lower Yangtse provinces against capture. The foreigners are determined to protect Shanghai against looting.

In Peking events are occurring which are exasperating the powers. After seizing control of the Peking government, Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian war lord, authorized the Chinese officials everywhere to collect customs and surtaxes regardless of treaty obligations. Chang Tso-Lin's action is a challenge to the right of the powers to control Chinese internal affairs and undoubtedly was inspired by Britain's recent note which the Chinese interpret as an admission by the powers that the situation in China has gone beyond foreign control.

TERRIBLE SIEGE ENDS

Simultaneously the Cantonese government announced from Hankow that it intends henceforth to ignore treaty obligations and will impose such taxes as it sees fit. Chang Kai-Shek, leader of the Cantonese government, thus virtually defied all of the powers by asserting that the revolution already has progressed to a point where China is independent of foreign control.

Chang argues that the Japanese also Britain have been humbled by the Chinese because the Cantonese are now in a position where they can call a general strike, ruining British and Japanese trade.

From far-away Sianfu, capital of the province of Shensi in Western China, comes the story of the relief of 1,000,000 persons, including Catholic missionaries, who have been besieged within the country since last April. Undergoing frightful suffering for eight months, the inhabitants of Sianfu subsisted on dogs, cats, rats and even were reduced to cannibalism before Feng Yu-Hsiang, the Christian general, succeeded in battering down the walls and routing the defenders. The survivors said that more than 100,000 persons died during the siege. Fifteen thousand deaths were attributed directly to starvation and freezing.

ANGERED AT BRITAIN

The Catholic missionaries, on their arrival at Peking, reported that human endurance had never undergone greater hardships as the thousands imprisoned within the walls of the city frantically attacking one another and some, becoming insane, ate human flesh.

Nothing in recent years has caused so much commotion in China as the British proposals urging laxity in the enforcement of the treaties. The Japanese press has come out squarely in opposition to the British suggestions, asserting that Britain is encouraging the Chinese to indulge in an orgy of antiforeignism, which may precipitate intervention in China.

Japan asserts that she never will surrender her treaty rights and hints that the British stand may result in a development among the powers concerning Chinese questions. France and the United States are believed here to oppose the British suggestions. The belief prevails throughout the Far East that if Britain isolates herself by recognizing the Cantonese government independently, unity among the powers on policies affecting China will be destroyed.

ALCOHOL TO BE NONPOISONOUS

alcohol as a beverage, but to make tax free nonbeverage alcohol available for the arts and industries.

Only a new act of Congress can modify or repeal the law now in effect and if such repeal or modification should come at this time it would undoubtedly open up or precipitate an attempt to establish a new method for making a distinction between drinkable and nondrinkable alcohol.

Secretary Mellon, in his discussion of the problem today, said without reservation that the government does not want to enforce prohibition by poison methods. The new formula for denaturing alcohol to go into effect Saturday will not be poisonous in fact, he said, unless excessive quantities of alcohol so denatured are consumed.

The new formula calls for the introduction of 4 per cent of wood alcohol into the nonbeverage product.

MUST DRINK LOTS

That four parts of wood alcohol in 100 parts of grain alcohol may render the concoction, even when diluted with water by the bootlegger, unwholesome, is admitted by the chemists, who maintain, however, that an extraordinary quantity of the liquid must be consumed to cause death.

Two kinds of alcohol have been recognized under the law ever since the original act of 1906; one, the pure ethyl alcohol, which can be withdrawn from the bonded warehouses for use in manufactures only on payment of the government tax of $2.30 per gallon. The other is methyl alcohol, otherwise wood or denatured alcohol, which may be withdrawn for legitimate industrial purposes and this pays no tax whatever.

Annual withdrawals of pure alcohol on which tax is paid now exceed 8,000,000 gallons. As against this, the product of denatured alcohol for the fiscal year ending June 30, last none of which paid taxes, amounted to 105,378,826 gallons. Of this amount, 99,494,445 gallons were classified as specially denatured; that is, no poisonous material was used in the denaturing process, but the introduction of large quantities of quinine and other strong drugs made redistillation to obtain a drinkable alcohol impossible. A great deal of the specially denatured alcohol in this class went into the manufacture of hair tonics, barbers' supplies, lotions and the like.

USED FOR AUTOS

But 66,881,442 gallons were completely denatured. That is, wood alcohol poisonous in character, or other poison, was introduced in it in considerable quantity. The largest single item in this poisoned output consisted of antifreeze mixtures used in automobiles. The government estimates that fully 36,000,000 gallons of the poisoned product was sold originally for antifreeze purposes. The expectation is that this quantity which has been rising in recent years with the increase in the number of automobiles, presently will decrease sharply. The reason is that glycerine and other substitutes for alcohol in automobile radiators are coming more and more into use. Several of them already are on the market and the government Bureau of Standards in this city is now at work on one that promises to revolutionize the trade.

Herein lies, perhaps, the greatest chance of reducing the practice of poisoning industrial alcohol. With a cessation of the demand for alcoholic antifreeze mixtures the amount of poison product turned out naturally will be reduced.

PLACED IN CLASSES

The privilege of making industrial alcohol without being required to pay tax on the product is a more valuable one than when the law of 1906 was enacted. Where the tax on other forms of alcohol then stood at 90 cents a wine gallon, it progressively increased to $1.10, $2.20 and $2.30 before the war. Then in 1918 Congress separated pure alcohol into two classes, nonbeverage and beverage, levying a tax of $2.20 on the nonbeverage and $6.40 on the beverage.

So it is today that nonbeverage pure alcohol prices include a tax of $2.30 a wine gallon and nearly 9,000,000 gallons are used a year. This goes almost entirely into the manufacture of medicines for internal use such as tonics and the like. But the tax-free denatured alcohol has been used to an increasing extent in the manufacture of medicines to be applied externally, the denaturing process involved in making them requiring no poisonous substances. There is a still further differentiation here also because it is permissible to use wood alcohol, a poisonous substance when taken internally, in the manufacture of body rubs and other applications.

The question, therefore, is, shall the law-breaking and unwary consumer of intoxicants imperil his life, destroy his vision or impair his health through imbibing poisons authorized by government, or shall he take into his system new and strange potions designed to quicken his conscience, upset his stomach and renew his respect for the Constitution of the United States?

COAST DEATHS FOR YEAR TOTAL 115

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30. (AP)—The insidious, paralyzing and strangling specter of death that hides in the bottle and the flask of the prohibition era has claimed 115 victims in the larger Pacific Coast centers this year to date, with the possibility that the holiday season will add many more to the number.

The nature of the different poisons varied widely, from that found in the supposed "good stuff" peddled by bootleggers, to the concoctions that have been rendered from legitimate alcoholic products meant for anything but beverage purposes. San Francisco and Seattle appeared to be "neck and neck" in the gruesome toll, twenty-eight having been killed in this city and approximately the same number in the northern city. Los Angeles reports fourteen have died in that city from illicit liquor drinking, while the toll for Sacramento was ten. Two of the Sacramento deaths, however, had other contributing causes. Eight drank death out of the bottle and flask in Tacoma and six each in Portland and Spokane. The toll for San Diego shows five killed, while Fresno recorded one liquor death. Alameda and Contra Costa counties reported a toll of seven dead.

The figures were gathered for the most part by coroners and health authorities. They do not include the many fatal tragedies that were caused indirectly by liquor, such as automobile accidents, shootings and stabbings.

BUS SUPREME IN WYOMING

State Record Thought Set as Last Street Car Gives Way to Motors

CHEYENNE, Dec. 30. (AP)—Wyoming, it is believed, has the distinction of being the only State without street car or interurban service.

C. L. Draper, chairman of the Public Service Commission, reported today that the year just closing saw the end of trolley cars in this State. They have been supplanted by motor-bus transportation.

The first electric car in Wyoming was operated in 1907 in Sheridan, where trolleys were discontinued last summer. Cheyenne abandoned them for motor busses in 1924.

NEW YORK'S TOLL WILL EXCEED 900

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—Indications today were that the death toll in New York City from liquor this year would exceed 900, including thirty-four since Christmas.

Health Commissioner Harris announces there were 726 deaths from alcoholism for the first fifty-seven weeks of the year, a figure which he said represented more than twice as many deaths from alcoholism as in the whole of wet England and Wales, with a population of 36,000,000 and nearly four times as many as in wet Australia, with a population about equal th sott this city.

The total of alcoholic deaths in New York so far this year is greater than any year since 1910, the next highest year being 1918 when 687 deaths were recorded. Last year's total was 513.

Reports to New York newspapers tabulate victims of liquor in other cities during the year. Unofficially 300 deaths have been reported in New York State, in Chicago there have been 235.

In Philadelphia, Coroner Frederick Schwartz, Jr., said that while only 150 deaths from alcohol were shown by official records during the year, he had evidence that at least 150 more died from the cause. Reports from other cities were Boston, 145; St. Louis, 56; Detroit, 121; Pittsburgh, 130; Baltimore, 71; Los Angeles, 14; Minneapolis, 39; Seattle, 38; Cincinnati, 43; Columbus, 8; Omaha, 10.

Orville S. Poland, head of the legal department of the State Anti-Saloon League, has offered the services of his organization to relatives of persons dying from alcohol poisoning with the aim of obtaining legal redress for them from bootleggers.

CONFLICT SEEN IN SUN SPOTS

Frost, director of Yerkes Observatory here, said today.

Two months ago four of the vast sun spots were visible at one time, and each month one or more have been observed.

Whether the sun spots affect the earth's temperature has not been determined, said Prof. Frost, and the only known influence exerted upon the earth is magnetic.

To be visible to the naked eye, shielded of course by a smoked glass, Prof. Frost said that the sun spot must be nearly 100,000 miles long and approximately half as wide, although some have been seen when they attained a length of 80,000 or even 50,000 miles.

MOSCOW TELLS OF OVERTURES

made to Russia by the United States last summer regarding recognition, there were indications that Russian affairs are being studied by the government.

Members of the Senate who recently have discussed Russian affairs with high government officials expressed the opinion that no formal conversations between the United States and the soviet government regarding recognition have occurred in the past six months.

However, some Senators, cognizant of foreign affairs, indicated that because of several significant shifts in the international situation in Europe and Asia a background regarding Russia has been prepared to the State Department which is essentially different from the situation that was presented when the last Russian diplomatic advances were rejected by Secretary Hughes. From the State Department there was no official or unofficial comment forthcoming on the situation.

Chairman Borah, Republican, Idaho, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, also declined to make any statement on the reported advances to the soviet government, saying he had "no official information of such conversations as had been suggested."

Senator Borah, however, indicated his belief that Russian affairs were receiving consideration by the administration.

CENSORSHIP REMOVED

Radio Ban Off in Nicaragua

American State Department Admits Having Had One But It's Over Now

Termination Told in World from Admiral Latimer on Present Status

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—The dispute whether an American censorship had been established on radio stations in the Nicaraguan neutral zone was settled today when the State Department announced that one had been in effect but had been lifted.

The department said it had just been informed by Rear-Admiral Latimer, in command of American forces in Nicaragua, that a censorship had been established at Puerto Cabezas and Rio Grande Bar "to maintain the neutrality of the zone by preventing the sending out of military instructions or information by either side" in the factional strife in that country.

"The admiral reported further," said the departmental announcement, "that all censorship on radio stations in the neutral zone has been removed by his direction."

Until the announcement was made, State Department officials had insisted they were without information of any censorship, as charged by Dr. T. S. Vaca, representative here of the Sacasa Liberal faction in Nicaragua.

PROTEST HEARD

Vaca called at the State Department today, but was told by officials that Secretary Kellogg could not receive him inasmuch as he was not the representative of a government recognized by the United States.

He said he called because he had heard the department had not received the censorship protest, which he delivered yesterday to a messenger in Secretary Kellogg's office. He learned, however, that his protest had reached the Secretary.

Vaca has been insisting for several days that he could not get radio messages through to his superiors at Puerto Cabezas, and had been informed that no radiograms in code would be transmitted.

In addition to informing the State Department regarding censorship, Admiral Latimer advised the Secretary of the Navy that seventy wounded soldiers in the Diaz army and seventy-one in Sacasa's had been taken into the Bluefields neutral zone from Pearl Lagoon.

MEXICO ACCUSED

The Nicaraguan Legation tonight made public a cablegram from Cuadra Pasos, Foreign Affairs Minister in the Diaz Cabinet, in which the charge that the Mexican government has been giving assistance to the Sacasa Liberals was reiterated.

"The diplomatic ministers of Mexico in Central America," the message, dated yesterday, said, "without concealment are the agents for the revolution, to foster and pay for a hostile propaganda against this government and the United States, whose beneficial policy of pacification in Central America upsets the plans of the Mexican government and arouses its anger.

"At this very moment a new Mexican military expedition is on its way trying to land on the Pacific Coast."

Declaring that Central America has been disturbed by the "Communist and aggressive Mexican policy," the cablegram continued:

"The government of Nicaragua, which has obtained the moral sanction of recognition by the United States, is strong and possesses the necessary efficiency to repress all revolutions that may arise with elements purely Nicaraguan, but it needs must call the attention of the civilized world to the insistent attacks of the Communistic government of Mexico, which in its desire to bring to us its pernicious doctrines does not cease in its aggression, supported by the resources of a country which, as has been remarked by President Diaz, is twenty times larger and richer than Nicaragua."

DR. SACASA GIVES OUT OFFICIAL STATEMENT

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—The Associated Press today received by radio a statement from Dr. Juan Sacasa, president of the Liberal Government set at Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, protesting against the landing of American naval forces there and denying that American lives or property need protection.

The message was in answer to a request by the Associated Press on the 27th inst. that Dr. Sacasa state his attitude on neutralization of Puerto Cabezas by Rear Admiral Julian Latimer, in command of American naval forces in Nicaraguan waters.

The statement, timed 6 p.m., the 29th inst. asserted that the declaration of a neutral zone for protection of foreign interests was only apparent and that the real motive was for protection of the Conservative government of President Adolfo Diaz at Managua.

"Foreign capital is not and has never been in danger," Dr. Sacasa added.

Charging that landing of American Marines was begun precisely at a time when Liberal forces were defeating Conservatives at Pearl Lagoon, Dr. Sacasa declared that the obvious purpose of American authorities was to obstruct operations of the Liberal army.

He also asserted that all his movements have been impeded, that he is prohibited the use of code in messages and that a censorship was imposed by the American officers, adding that his messages to the Associated Press also would "suffer censorship."

NICARAGUAN LIBERAL REVIEWS ACHIEVEMENTS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 30. (AP)—Dr. Juan Sacasa's Liberal army, having defeated the Diaz forces on the east coast of Nicaragua, is, according to Pedro J. Zepeda, Sacasa's chief representative in Mexico City, preparing to march upon Managua with absolute confidence of capturing the capital. Zepeda is receiving news from Nicaragua by special couriers this is necessary, he explained, because of American censorship.

The Liberal envoy declared that Dr. Sacasa's two army corps of 3000 men each, have inflicted a vital blow on Adolfo Diaz, who thus would be unable to oppose the march of the Liberal armies on Managua.

Herman Robles, Undersecretary of Education in Dr. Sacasa's Cabinet, who recently arrived in Mexico City after commanding a fighting unit on the Nicaraguan front, said today:

"The Liberals have defeated Diaz, even though Diaz has the assistance of the United States. The landing of American marines in Nicaragua to assist Diaz only made the Liberals fight harder.

"Our victories are withheld or diminished in importance by the American authorities, who have established a strict censorship against the Liberals. However, it does not matter how much assistance the United States gives Diaz, the Liberals will win, and, furthermore, even if thousands of American marines are launched against the Liberals by way of Wall street, we still have a long supply of American-manufactured guns with which to defend the sovereignty of our country."

The charge that Sacasa is virtually the prisoner at Puerto Cabezas of Rear-Admiral Latimer, American naval commander, was also made today by Zepeda.

SPANISH NEWSPAPERS CRITICISE UNITED STATES

MADRID, Dec. 30. (AP)—Spanish newspapers, which have been following developments of the Nicaraguan situation, today began to express unfavorable opinion on the policy adopted by the United States.

El Debate says: "The North Americans believe that America, with its progress, continues economically free in theory, but not in practice, as has been illustrated with Panama converted by a recent treaty into a colony of the United States. We do not refer to any new fact, but to a very old one, although now there are new phases of it."

The paper declares the North American policy is opposed to Spanish interests and that Spain, therefore, must be vigilant.

El Sol accuses the United States of provoking the Nicaraguan disorder by having assisted, with economic ends in view, the "violators of the constitution, this being the actual cause of the civil warfare."

SALVADOR PAPERS TAKE RAP AT DIAZ

SAN SALVADOR (Republic of Salvador) Dec. 30. (AP)—The local newspapers have decided to send a message to Senator Borah, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, urging him to exert his influence with the American Department of State to reconsider its recognition of the Diaz government in Nicaragua.

"The message declares that American's recognition of President Diaz is causing grave injury to all Central America.

The Nicaraguan colony here also sent a message to Senator Borah saying that Nicaraguans are struggling to re-establish constitutional order in their country and that Wall street is aiding "the usurper Diaz, wishing to continue its exploitation of Nicaragua."

SILK TO BE MADE FROM GARBAGE

Guncotton Also Will Be Manufactured From Table Refuse

BERLIN, Dec. 30. (AP)—Guncotton or artificial silk may be manufactured from the garbage of great cities, it is claimed, under a method evolved by Jurt Gerood, a Berlin engineer. It is done, he says, by sifting and subjecting all the cellulose ingredients to a special treatment.

By distilling the remaining refuse, such as potato peelings and pieces of wood, he claims to produce tar, charcoal and acetic acid. A large plant is being constructed here under his specifications.

DEATH ROPE DEFENDED

Governor Calls It Bar to Crime

Richardson Says Hanging Has to Go on if Efforts to Stem Evil Succeed

Executive Clemency Held to be for Use Only When Justice Has Erred

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30. (AP)—One hanging is worth a hundred imprisonments in society's war against crime, and the criminal's fear of the noose is the honest man's shield and protection. Such is the conclusion advanced by Gov. Richardson in a message on executive clemency he will submit to the California Legislature next week.

Pointing out that he has granted executive clemency in only five cases during the past two years, the Governor declares it to be his theory that "executive clemency should be supplemental to the law and should not be so exercised as to defeat the purpose of the law."

IDEAS ADVANCED

However it may be defined in the layman's dictionary, the word "pardon," Gov. Richardson believes, should not be used by a chief executive as a synonym for mercy or forgiveness. "My conclusion," he says, "is that the pardoning power is given to the Governor solely to prevent a miscarriage of justice.

"I feel that the Governor of a State in the discharge of his duty and in keeping with his oath of office to support the Constitution and laws of the State has no right legally or morally to pardon one convicted of crime, either during or subsequent to his incarceration in a State prison, for reason of sentiment or pity, or because pressure has been brought to bear upon him by 'sob sisters,' relatives or politicians."

California law places too little restraint on the pardoning power of the Governor, the Governor's message adds, and the Legislature should prescribe that certain proof or showing be required in the application, and limit the acts of executive clemency to cases of miscarriage of justice.

JURY RANKS FIRST

"The jury system has come down to us from antiquity and has become such a time-honored part of the law that the opinion of the executive should not be substituted for the opinion of the jury.

"It has been my practice to sustain the verdict of juries. If the jury, which has seen the witnesses and heard the evidence, is satisfied of the person's guilt, I have declined to set the verdict aside."

Of his five sets of executive clemency in the past two years, four were pardons issued to persons convicted in Los Angeles county, the Governor reports, "and in each case the trial judge recommended pardon."

"In three cases the District Attorney of Los Angeles county admitted he had made a mistake, but was loath to admit his error in the last case of pardon issued by me."

The other act of clemency was a commutation of sentence from five years to life to five years, in the case of a young convict who turned State's witness.

In reporting that thirty-seven men were hanged during his term, the Governor observes that "the death penalty is a needed protection to the peace officers of the State." In conclusion he remarks that "The execution of one criminal is a greater deterrent of crime than the confinement of 100 in prison. The fear of the noose on the part of the criminal element is a measure of protection to every citizen."

CRIPPLED SHIP IN NO IMMEDIATE DANGER

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—The British freighter Clearton, which sent out an SOS last night when its rudder was gone and its engine disabled, today was reported in no immediate danger and drifting between 200 and 300 miles off the Virginia coast, the Independent Wireless Company reported. The company said that the steamships Berlin and Martha Washington had answered the Clearton's call, but that the captain of the freighter had refused their offers of aid, due to the heavy expense involved in a tow.

The conference, however, went on record as explaining that its action was not the result of any action against the movement but because it is the policy of the conference not to adopt any resolutions.

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Dec. 30. (AP)—The National Student Conference at its general session tonight voted to table a resolution condemning compulsory military training in colleges and which also would put the conference on record as opposing "the imperialistic policy of the United States government."

The 3000 delegates devoted the entire day to the subject of militarism and the best manner in which they as Christians could further the outlawry of war and the cause of universal peace.

A note in the menace of war was brought to the conference by Shoso Kobe, Japanese graduate student at the University of Washington. Coming from Japan three months ago, Mr. Kobe asserted that despite interesting statements in diplomatic circles to the contrary the anti-American sentiment in Japan as a result of the immigration exclusion is increasing, and threatens war between the two nations.

"I know that the rank and file of the Japanese hate America," he continued. "There is a great war danger here which I hope you students will do your utmost to relieve."

NASHVILLE IN NEW PERIL AS RIVER RISE CONTINUES

Waters of Cumberland Rapidly Extending Over Last Street Linking Two Sections

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) Dec. 30. (AP)—The Cumberland River, in record flood stage at Nashville, continued a very slow rise today in its expansive trail through Nashville, as the slow current glistened against a clear sky. The official reading today was 55.7 feet, a rise of only one-tenth of a foot in seven hours. The Weather Bureau's latest prediction was a crest for Nashville of above 56 feet by Saturday or Sunday.

Revised official estimates of 4000 homeless in Nashville lowlands, six city blocks inundated and 1000 persons out of work, were not found to materially.

The Cumberland was a mile wide at Fifth avenue west of the river in East Nashville and its back water extended for three miles over North Nashville and Edgefield proper, submerging hundreds of homes and inundating industrial plants and business blocks.

ONE STREET LEFT

Sand bags used to dyke the waters on Woodland street at First street, East Nashville, so far have saved the main approach to the eastern section of the city, over Woodland-street bridge. The water, however, tonight is approaching the street-car rails on Woodland at that point.

Eight thousand dollars has been raised in relief funds for the needy and appeals continued for $7000 additional.

Practically every city agency able to furnish assistance is called upon and the police and city employees and other departments in rescue and relief work.

Workers in automobiles at the relief ships frequently became "flood pirates" when uniformed officers removed marooned families from boats to motor cars and ordered the drivers to "carry them home."

Gen. Pea, offered for relief service the Highway Department trucks, the National Guard and resources of the State Health Department.

CHURCHES REFUGES

Both negro and white churches have tendered their buildings for use as refugees. The hungry are being fed where necessary from canteens and soup and coffee shops, now functioning regularly.

The Union Stock Yards temporarily discontinued live-stock quotations today and the opening date of the Bush Davidson county criminal court was postponed a week because of impassable flood conditions.

Only one railroad rail service on the Tennessee Central Railway out of Nashville was still tied up and water was reported in the offices of the depot. Highway traffic, however, was improving with the use of detour routes.

The Nashville property damage is expected to exceed $3,000,000.

AUTOISTS' BODIES FOUND

In Mississippi, in the Big Black River swamp, near Jackson, more than a dozen automobiles were reported under water by a flood-inspection party, which returned to Jackson from the flood area tonight. With Mississippi's flood death list standing at eight, two bodies having been recovered from Big Black River, members of the party said the death list might be increased when the water subsided enough to reach the automobiles.

The bodies of two negroes were found recently in an automobile in the big Black River swamp when the top of the machine was cut open by divers.

SPEECH POWER HELD ACQUIRED

Intricate Vocal System Laid to Inhibitions

First Reactions of Mankind Purely Muscular

Chicago Professor Explains Theory to Teachers

CHICAGO, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—Prof. Edward Sapir of the University of Chicago in an address yesterday before the National Association of Teachers of Speech, declared that speech was never intended for man.

The intricate vocal system by which human beings make known their thoughts has sprung up through inhibitions he asserted. Prof. Sapir, an international authority on words and languages, held that nature failed to equip man with organs of speech, that the guttural utterances of the first man were different in function and intention from the denotive words of today, and that a successful interracial language of the future must be a step farther removed from any expression of emotion.

Using a simplified version of the theory, Prof. Sapir explained that the first reactions of men were purely muscular. If anger was aroused the natural thing to do was strike out and punish the offender. Inhibitions g. w. Sometimes the man was not strong enough or brave enough to swat the person or thing that offended him. He made gestures instead. These varied from violent movements of the arms to twitching of the toes or a rise of temper throughout the body of the angered person.

Another step removed from the natural reaction was the emission of sounds from the mouth, through action of the lungs, larynx, throat, palate, tongue, teeth and lips. This, the theory is, was the first speech whose function was purely to express emotion.

"Properly speaking," said the professor, "there are no organs of speech. The lungs are to breath with, the tongue, teeth, palate and lips are part of the digestive system, the nose is to smell with. Man can use the lungs for other purposes without interfering with them. The nose is not always at work smelling and the mouth and the other organs mentioned are not always taking care of food. They are idle a good deal of the time."

DEATH TAKES UNION "CZAR"

Robert P. Brindell, Who "Closed Up Millions" and Went to Prison, Dies Broke

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—Robert P. Brindell, who held the New York City building trades in the hollow of his hand, is dead. Brindell, whom Samuel Untermyer convicted of playing the game of graft both ways from the middle; Brindell, whose name was whispered in connection with scandals even while prison walls inclosed him.

The body of the great hulk of a man who fought his way up from a dock carpenter to the somewhat doubtful name of "Czar" of the building trades lay on a hospital cot tonight, shrunken by illness from its former 196 pounds to hardly more than 100 pounds.

And just as he was broken in health during his life's end, so his friends said today he was broken financially.

In an investigation after his release from prison, Charles Johnson, who succeeded Brindell in the Dock Carpenters' Union, testified the former union leader had once remarked that he had "cleaned up" as much as $3,000,000.

Brindell was sued by the government while he was in prison on the ground that in 1920 he reported income of only $21,287, instead of $108,680. A settlement, never made public, ended this action.

Brindell had ability for selecting henchmen who would give him unquestioning loyalty, and by arranging their appointment as minor officers of the Building Trades' Council, he was eventually able to install himself at its head. His tempestuous reign was brought to an end six years ago with the Lockwood housing investigation. Samuel Untermyer, appointed special Attorney-General, prosecuted Brindell in a sensational trial which ended with the union leader's sentence to a term of from five to ten years in State prison for extortion.

Brindell made the workers, Untermeyer said, pay for the privilege of working; made the builders pay for the privilege of building, and made the material men pay for the privilege of buying and selling supplies.

After three years and nine months Brindell was unconditionally paroled "in consideration of his perfect record for good conduct in prison."

Broad rumor was rife that Brindell was fast resuming his old control of the building trades. Investigations were demanded and for a time Brindell was "banished" from New York to his summer home at Schroon Lake in the Adirondacks by the parole board. At a formal meeting later the parole board unanimously dismissed the charges as unfounded.

He was 47 years of age and was born in Quebec. His widow, a daughter and three sons survive him.

LOW VOICES TO SPAN SEA

Quiet Tone Heard Best in Talk Over Atlantic; Many Vie for First Use of Radiophone

LONDON, Dec. 30. (AP)—When you talk across the Atlantic don't shout, but use quiet, even tones. Publication of this advice by British postoffice officials, together with the drilling of telephone girls here in the names of the New York exchanges, indicates the proximity of the opening of the new trans-Atlantic radiophone service, which is to be made available to the public early next month.

Much time and care are being devoted to details, to the end that the service shall be given a good send-off. The operators will be girls chosen from the existing staff of Great Britain's trunk telephone system.

VOICE TESTS MADE

Tests are being made to find those with the most suitable voices. The aim being to use those having a low, steady intonation, so as to avoid excessive variation in the frequency of the sound waves.

In addition to learning the names of the New York exchanges, the girls are being instructed in the differences between American and British telephone routine.

The proposed cost of telephoning across the Atlantic, about $75 for first three minutes and $25 for each additional minute, is popularly regarded as a bar to merely friendly chats between acquaintances, but the newspapers and big business men are keenly interested, and the postoffice officials have had to answer many questions pointing to a considerable demand for the service as soon as it opens. Many applicants wished to book calls for the opening day, newspapers and business men vying for first places.

MAY AFFECT STOCKS

It is understood the first call has been reserved for Sir Alexander Roger, chairman of the Telephone Development Association, who will speak to W. S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

It is predicted in financial quarters that one result of the new service will be the return of American stocks and shares to the London Stock Exchange, reviving the American business which disappeared at the outbreak of the World War.

The soldiers were placed there the day before Christmas and are reported to have already caught three smugglers, who are said to have been shot.

States' Motion to Dismiss Tax Cases Opposed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—Motions of Oregon and Washington urging the Supreme Court to dismiss cases challenging the validity of their laws imposing gasoline taxes upon dealers and license fees upon operators of automobiles were opposed today by motor companies and individuals who brought the suits.

Briefs were presented contending that the court in consolidating and advancing cases for hearing on January 3 had decided that the controversy was within its jurisdiction.

Canada's Liquor Use Falls Off Since War Days

OTTAWA (Ont.) Dec. 30. (AP)—Canadians are consuming less alcoholic drink than before the war. In fact, both liquor and tobacco have lost popularity since 1914, figures released by the Dominion Department of Statistics reveal.

During the last fiscal year, ending March, 1926, the average consumption per person in Canada was: Spiritous liquor, .270 gallon; beer, 5.617 gallons; wine, .074 gallon; tobacco, 3.458 pounds. In the fiscal year ending in 1914 the figures were: Spirits, 1.016 gallons; beer, 7.2 gallons; wines, .124 gallon; tobacco, 3.711 pounds.

MEANS SIGNS PAUPER'S OATH IN LIEU OF FINE

ATLANTA (Ga.) Dec. 30. (AP)—Gaston B. Means has signed a pauper's oath to swear off a $10,000 fine and has begun serving at the Federal penitentiary thirty days additional time on his sentence of two years for conspiracy to violate the National Prohibition Act. Means was convicted with the late Thomas B. Felder in a bribery case involving Federal officials. He is serving the extra thirty days in lieu of the $10,000 fine and will appear January 27 before United States Commissioner L. S. Ledbetter to swear off the fine. Mean's sentence in the bribery case expired yesterday.

WOMEN CLASH ON FEMINISM

Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers and Miss Butler Differ

Just Begun Its Battle, Says Leader of Party

Work Outside of Politics Told in Detail

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—So long as there is in any part of the world any discrimination, whether legal, educational or otherwise, against women, the National Woman's party will remain "proudly feministic," Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers asserted today.

Mrs. Rogers, who is a member of the National Council of the party, made the statement in reply to the recent plea by Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler that women in active politics "drop their feministic attitudes and get down to practical political work," starting with ward and district work for their political parties.

Feminism, instead of being out of date, has "just begun its battle" with the initial victory of a woman's suffrage in this country, Mrs. Rogers said.

JUDGE BY RESULTS

Miss Butler, daughter of President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University and prominent in woman State Republican politics, had asserted it was her belief that the day of the "feministic crusader" was over.

"We believe that there exists at the present day differences between men and women which make it necessary for women to organize for their own interests," Mrs. Rogers said. "We are practical and definite, and we want to be judged by results, as Miss Butler suggests."

The National Woman's party, she added, is only too glad to have women exercise their ability in the political field, as Miss Butler suggested, or in any other, but she said she felt that the party has greater issues at stake than those of party politics.

"In the last five years," she continued, "the National Woman's party has been working on the problem of gaining legal equality for women in all the States of the Union. During that time the passage of sixty alterations of unfair laws has been obtained, directly affecting 26,000,000 women. This cannot be called a small thing, yet much remains to be done. There are still States in which a married woman has no legal identity apart from her husband."

BILL FOR CONGRESS

Even lawyers, Mrs. Rogers said, do not realize how much the statute books discriminate against women, and the National Woman's party is trying to take a short cut to desired ends by introducing in Congress a bill for a constitutional amendment, which will provide that women, all over the United States, shall have "equal rights with men."

"When this object is reached," she added, "we shall proceed to the international aspect of the problem. To gain this we shall work as we now do through whatever political party is in power. Politicians have learned in the past that we have a certain number of votes behind us. It is not, however, that we feel any sex antagonism, simply that we do not expect men to interest themselves in problems which concern women alone."

AMERICANS DUE IN MEXICO CITY TODAY

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—"Our one purpose is to understand Mexico better in order to interpret Mexico to the American people," said Hubert C. Herring of Boston, head of the social-service activities of the Congregational churches of the United States, who is directing the party of forty American investigators due here tomorrow. They will meet for ten days, being scheduled to interview President Calles, Cabinet members and leading educators, artists, scientists and business men. The party includes four rabbis, three Protestant clergymen, college professors and feminist leaders.

SEASON TICKETS FOR TAXI FARES PLANNED

BERLIN, Dec. 30. (AP)—Season tickets for taxicab service on a mileage basis is the latest wrinkle proposed in Berlin. The chauffeur will detach the proper amount in coupons and turn them in at a central office. The convenience of the plan is expected to do much toward popularizing the taxi. The largest of the Berlin taxi companies is behind the scheme.

Italian Flyer, Sets Record in Loaded Plane

SESTO CALENDE (Italy) Dec. 30. (AP)—Alessandro Passaleva, Italian aviator, who established a world altitude record for an airplane carrying a useful load on the 22nd inst. today established what is claimed to be a new world speed record for a plane also carrying a useful load.

Piloting an S-62 hydroplane, carrying 2200 pounds, Passaleva averaged 190.389 kilometers (about 119 miles an hour.)

Examination of the instruments of the machine in which Passaleva established his altitude record showed he reached a height of 6137 meters, or about 20,450 feet, instead of the 8930 meters originally announced.

GROWERS LOSE STOCK PERMIT

Olive Association Charged With Irregularities

Order Issued as Result of Fresno Investigation

Steps Being Taken to Test Issue in Court

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—Charging irregularities and violations of its stock-selling permit, Clifford J. MacMillan, State Corporation Commissioner, today revoked right of the California Olive Growers' Association of Fresno to sell stock in California. This action by Commissioner MacMillan was the result of investigations and a hearing held by the department in Fresno lasting from November 30 to December 15.

Irregularities and permit violations charged to the association by MacMillan are:

The California Olive Growers sold and had taken subscriptions for approximately 6850 shares of its capital stock without having first obtained a permit from the Commissioner of Corporations authorizing such sale.

That the company failed to comply with the condition of its permit in not canceling several hundred shares of its capital stock in accordance with the provisions of its permit.

That the company accepted as consideration on unauthorized subscriptions taken prior to April 8, 1925, promissory notes on its subscriptions aggregating $17,319.50.

That the company sold nine shares of its capital stock without having first obtained a permit, for which it received no consideration.

The persons to whom the shares are said by the commissioner to have been sold are George M. Colley, Frank D. Lewis, B. A. Harbour, H. F. Miller, H. S. Cairns, Ben H. Hayes, C. E. Wellhart, T. P. Horning and C. J. Koopman.

Criticising methods used by the association to obtain agreements from growers, MacMillan said:

"In connection with said agreements, certain other agreements were entered into by and between said company and subscribers, the subscribers being also olive growers, wherein and whereby said subscribers and olive growers became obligated to do certain things and further agreed that such obligations should be a lien upon the lands described in the said agreements and the descriptions of lands (being the lands upon which olive trees were growing) were placed in and made a part of said agreements by writing the descriptions of such land on pasters or slips attached to the first pages of the said agreements.

LIENS CREATED

"The said company has followed the plan and engaged in the practice of examining the records in the offices of the county recorders of the counties in which such lands are situated, and when it is ascertained that such olive-growing lands were part of larger pieces or parcels of land owned by the said subscribers, it, without the authorization, consent or knowledge of the said subscribers and olive growers, inserted slips or pasters containing the descriptions of the entire pieces or parcels of lands (and containing lands additional to those described in said agreements) on the third pages of said agreements and recorded said agreements in the offices of the county recorders in which the said lands are situated so as to create liens upon the entire pieces or parcels of land owned by the said subscribers and olive growers and containing lands additional to the olive-growing lands described in the agreements when they were executed by the said subscribers and olive growers."

ASSOCIATION PLANS TO TEST REVOCATION

FRESNO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Steps will be taken immediately by the California Olive Growers, Inc., to appeal from the decision of the State Corporation Department through filing a civil action seeking a review by the courts of the commissioner's action, it was announced today by A. M. Drew, attorney for the association, when informed of the Corporation Department order.

In the absence of complete information on the text of the commissioner's order and the grounds set up for the revocation of the permit of the association, Drew declined to comment on the decision, other than to say that compliance by the association with the provision of the permit calling for release of the growers who signed up prior to the issuance of the State permit was an impossibility.

"It was an impossibility, because the contracts had been signed and about 500,000 pounds of olives had been delivered and placed in cans," Drew said. "We also owed the government money and were obligated in such a way that we couldn't comply with that clause of the permit.

"I so informed the Corporation Department upon whom I called, and the chief deputy to Commissioner Daugherty apparently waived that clause when I explained the situation to him."

Plans which were laid early in 1922 for the organization of the Olive Growers' Co-operative, were consummated September 28, 1922, when Henry Miller of Bakersfield was elected president and C. E. Weikert of Fair Oaks was named secretary. Weikert was elected secretary and general manager of the association at a directors' meeting July 24, 1925, which he has held continuously since that time.

Miller resigned as president of the association on September 4, 1926, and at the quarterly meeting of the directors, March 3, 1924, B. A. Harbour of Hemet was elected president, and he has held the office continuously since that time. He previously had been a vice-president.

The association received a permit from the State Corporation Department in September, 1924. Its head office is in Fresno.

WHO WANTS A NICE WARSHIP?

BRUSSELS, Dec. 30. (AP)—Ten torpedo boats are for sale cheap by the Belgian government. They are expensive little warships that came out of the Kaiser's private stock after the Armistice. They are, like a stable of race horses, rather costly luxuries in these piping times of peace, and Belgium is economizing.

SHIFTING STATE OFFICIALS BEGINS

Young Appoints Keith Carlin to Secretaryship

Office Holders Easing Way for New Chief

Resignations of Three More Reach Capital

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Appointment of Keith Carlin, deputy District Attorney of Los Angeles, as executive secretary to Gov.-elect Young, was announced here today. Carlin, an ex-service man, several years ago was assistant clerk of the House of Representatives Judiciary Committee.

The appointment of Attorney Homer R. Spence as private secretary of the incoming Governor was announced several days ago.

Three more State officials eased the way for Mr. Young to name their successors by tendering their resignations to Gov. Richardson today.

George S. Hollis of San Francisco, secretary and member of the State Immigration and Housing Commission, Charles L. Heartwell of Long Beach, a member of the State Board of Control, and Nelson T. Edwards of Orange county, member of the State Highway Commission, are the officials.

Gov. Richardson declared that all three have rendered valuable service to the State. Heartwell, he said, brought "ripe business experience to the board," adding "he is a man of large affairs, whose acceptance of office has been at a personal business sacrifice."

Edwards's resignation followed shortly after that of Harvey Toy, chairman of the commission. The resignation of Commissioner Everding is reported to be forthcoming shortly. In accepting the resignation, the Governor expressed his appreciation to Edwards for his "intelligent service to the State."

Sheriff Gillett of Imperial county, and Earl Warren, District Attorney of Alameda county, today were appointed by the Governor as members of the State Criminal Identification and Investigation Bureau. Gillett succeeds Sheriff Traeger of Los Angeles county and Warren takes the place of Dist.-Atty. Manwell of Yuba county.

Death Rate in France During Year Mounts

PARIS, Dec. 30. (AP)—France suffered 26,892 more deaths in 1925 than in the latest census figures show, although the mortality of infants under 1 year of age contributed only slightly more than 4 per cent of the total.

The hygiene department, which has been much behind with its figures since the war, attributes the increase to the consequences of war wounds and exposures and the fact that 1,800,000 men perished on the battlefields from 1914 to 1918, leaving an unusual proportion of old people among the population.

Paris appears to have been fairly healthy, in comparison with the rest of France, with 42,790 deaths in 1925, as against 41,639 in 1924. Intensive social hygiene through the efforts of the public authorities and private organizations in the capital helped to hold down the figures.

New Reports of Ship Sinking Fail to End Mystery

ODESSA (Ukrainia) Dec. 30. (AP)—Dispatches received here today confirm the sinking of the vessel Astoria in the Black Sea near the Rumanian coast with the loss of twenty-one lives, but fail to identify her as an American ship.

The sinking of the Rumanian freighter Propus with her crew of eight, is also reported.

Heavy snowstorms accompanied by violent winds are menacing shipping on the Black Sea, and scores of steamers have canceled their sailings.

PARIS, Dec. 30. (AP)—The mystery over the reported sinking of an American steamer named Astoria in the Black Sea was further complicated today by the receipt of a message from Vienna saying:

"The loss of the Astoria is not reported here, but the foundering of a reported American vessel from Batum named Kaukasus, with the loss of forty-five lives and fifteen saved, on the Bulgarian coast, is reported. No other particulars are obtainable.

Shipping registers do not list a vessel named Kaukasus.

Divines to be Under State's Accident Law

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30. (AP) Clergymen in California will share equally in the protection which the State Industrial Accident Commission accords those employed in dance halls, theaters and other places, it was said here today by Frank Lord, secretary of the commission.

Lord said a letter had been sent to every church corporation in the State asking that a full report be made of insurance carried so that the commission can ascertain "in the event of an injury of a clergyman, who is an employee, while performing his duties, just who is entitled to compensation."

ROYAL BELGIAN PAIR TRAVEL AS TOURISTS

ROME, Dec. 30. (AP)—President Ahmed Zogu of Albania has sent a message to Premier Mussolini conveying the thanks of the Albanian government for Italys action in sending a Red Cross detachment of two officers and ten men to aid in relief work at Durazzo, which was shaken by an earthquake last week.

Golden Gate's Bridge Sure by Court's Ruling

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—The last legal step in the formation of a bonding district for the bridging of the Golden Gate was taken by the State Supreme Court today in a ruling holding valid a petition of Mendocino county voters. Although the petition was withdrawn after its filing, the judicial body held that the withdrawal was illegal, restoring the petition to a status of legitimacy.

In accordance with the court's action, Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan, prepared notices announcing the formation of the district, which includes Mendocino, Marin, Napa, Sonoma, Del Monte and San Francisco counties. The bridge, it is estimated, will cost about $50,000,000 but will provide uninterrupted motor travel from the San Francisco peninsula to the mainland north of the bay.

Deputies Favor Amendment to Assist Obregon

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 30. (AP)—The Chamber of Deputies yesterday approved a constitutional amendment permitting a former President of the republic again to hold that office after an intervening term.

The measure represents a movement of friends of former President Obregon to make him eligible again for office. They intend to make him their candidate to succeed President Calles in 1928.

The present constitution forbids a President to serve more than one term. The amendment must be approved 4/7 a majority of the State Legislatures some of which already have acted favorably on it.

Doctor, Fatally Wounded, Gives Orders for Will

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30. (AP)—A dispatch from Susanville says that Dr. R. W. T. Barner, 44 years of age, hopelessly wounded by a self-inflicted bullet with which he attempted to end his life after killing his wife, rallied sufficiently last night to dictate and sign a will disposing of his property.

The will was written nearly five hours after he had, in the afternoon, turned his office into a shambles in an unexplained desire to kill his invalid wife and to end his own existence. He was still alive today, but physicians said he could not recover.

Church Circles Debate Holding Banned Service

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—Ranks of church members of the English-speaking colony here are split over the action of Bishop Frank W. Creighton, Rev. William Watson, both American and Dean Harold Dobson Peacock, British, in conducting services at the American Episcopal Cathedral Christmas Day, despite the provision of the Mexican Constitution prohibiting any foreigners from officiating. The three administered the holy communion in the cathedral early Christmas morning, wearing their full vestments.

English-speaking Catholics investigated the matter following the government's refusal to allow an English priest to conduct mass on Christmas.

CULT CHIEF BOUND OVER FOR TRIAL

Benjamin Purnell Serene While in Court to Answer Charges of Woman

BENTON HARBOR (Mich.) Dec. 30. (AP)—Benjamin Purnell, leader of the House of David colony, was bound over today for trial in Circuit Court on charges of criminal assault made by Mrs. Bessie Woodworth of Benton Harbor, a former member of the colony.

Date of the trial will be determined at the opening of the February term of Circuit Court. Meanwhile Purnell is to be rearraigned January 12 on criminal assault charges preferred by Ruth Bamford Reed and Gladys Bamford Rubel, sisters, and also former members of the House of David colony.

Purnell's bond of $5000 in the Woodworth case, given at the time of his arrest in November, was continued.

Purnell was again borne on a stretcher into Justice Ara Weldon's court by bearded members of his cult. Wearing the same brown fur-trimmed coat and cap in which he appeared last week to hear testimony by Mrs. Woodworth, the respondent appeared undismayed by the throng of curious onlookers who crowded the small courtroom and packed the corridor.

A motion by Purnell's counsel for dismissal of the Woodworth charges on the ground the asserted assault occurred in December, 1920, and not February 5, 1921, as stated in the warrant, was denied by Justice Weldon.

Japanese Prince en Route Home Visits Coolidge

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—Prince Chichibu, heir apparent to the Japanese throne, in an informal visit to the White House late today, paid his respects to President Coolidge and expressed his gratitude for the sympathies America had extended his nation upon the death of his father, the Emperor.

The Prince left Washington tonight for San Francisco and plans to sail January 4 for Japan to attend his father's funeral.

In deference to the Prince's mourning, the call at the White House was without ceremony and lasted about ten minutes.

During the morning Prince Chichibu paid homage to two great Americans, laid wreaths on the tombs of George Washington at Mt. Vernon and of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington Cemetery.

Brief Filed by Hughes Attacks Valuation Plan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—Charles E. Hughes, as counsel for the Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad, devoted 324 pages of a brief filed with the Supreme Court today to arguments against the valuation placed upon the property by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The case, which will be reached for oral argument next Monday, is regarded in railroad circles as a test of the whole valuation plan of the commission which has been proceeding for years at great expense. The railroad was successful in its contentions in the trial court and the government appealed.

The lower court enjoined the commission from using its valuation of $45,000,000 placed upon the property for rate-making purposes.

STATE BILL FOR YEAR INCREASES

Net Cost of Operation Shows Jump of $4,732,482

Gross Expenditure Also Up, Says Riley's Report

Outlay for Administrative Unit Makes Gain

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—California's State government net-cost bill for the year ending June 30, last, totaled $81,383,780.66, an increase over the previous year of $4,732,482.78, according to a financial report made public today by State Controller Riley.

The gross expenditures, which included outlays, transfers, bond funds, Federal aid and other such items, totaled $111,117,403.36, which figure, Riley explains, is comparable to gross costs of $103,725,003.80 for 1925.

"The gross figures," declared Controller Riley, "were accepted as the cost of government until the adoption of the new accounting methods permitted the net-cost totals."

The progressive nature of State expenditures, says the report, is indicated by the following comparative figures:

In 1924, $62,784,350.37; 1925, $76,-631,297.81; 1926, $81,383,780.66.

Riley points out that expenditures of administrative departments of the government increased 8 per cent during the year and those of institutions 10 per cent, while highway and county disbursements represented 80 per cent of the total increase.

Highway expenditures, inclusive of bond and Federal-aid funds, total $18,404,904.12 for 1926 and $17,854,-426.77 for 1925, an increase of $616,-857.35.

"In 1926," says the report, "elementary and high-school costs increased $1,150,837.94, a remarkable decrease in requirements when compared with former years. Average daily attendance dropped to 2.7 per cent increase, the lowest in many years."

NEW FOE JOINS WAR ON CRIME

Government Takes Hand to Gather Statistics

Census of Underworld Aims to Solve Problem

Committee Prepares Plan After Three Years

CHICAGO, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—Crime in the United States is growing at such an appalling pace that the Federal government is to take a more active hand in prevention. The government's contribution to the fight to solve the problem of the nation's growing disrespect for law will take the form of an annual report from all the prisons, courts and police departments, which not only will detail the number of the nation's male convicts, with the salient facts concerning their past records, but will contain detailed statistics on the causes of crime.

These facts came out today in the report of a committee that has been quietly working for the last three years in response to a general demand for more satisfactory statistics relating to crime and criminals. The report says, in part:

"One of the chief difficulties of dealing with crime has been the lack of complete statistics. Until these are available, those having most to do with the problem of crime in this country believe there can be no effective method of dealing with criminal problems in any jurisdiction."

The government will now gather these statistics under the supervision of the Census Bureau of the Department of Commerce and they will be available for study by the public as well as by criminologists.

The committee which has done the preparatory work was headed by Frederick B. Crossley, secretary of Northwestern University law school, with Prof. Sam B. Warner of Oregon in charge of the field work. This committee has prepared all the forms to be used by the government in gathering its annual data. The forms divide the various kinds of violations of America's multifarious laws into but nineteen classifications.

In the committee's report, which has been approved by Secretary Hoover of the Department of Commerce and W. M. Steuart, director of the Census Bureau, it is pointed out that the statistics to be compiled annually will cover Federal, State, county and city prisons and jails, upper and lower courts, hospitals for the criminal insane and other institutions for the feeble minded, together with all penal or places of detention where investigation might throw any light on the causes of crime.

VERA CRUZ ENTERTAINS AIR ARGOSY

Bands Welcome Planes Held Up at Tampico; Puerto Next Goal

VERA CRUZ, Dec. 30. (AP)—Led by Maj. Herbert A. Dargue, commander of the United States Army Pan-American flight squadron, the four planes which were held up for a week at Tampico, reached Vera Cruz this afternoon. They were the New York, St. Louis, San Antonio and Detroit. The San Francisco, in command of Capt. Ira C. Baker, flew to Vera Cruz last week, after futile attempts had been made to recall her on the original start of the squadron at Tampico.

The American aviators swept down to the bay and found a safe mooring place; then the flyers came to shore while bands played the national anthems and the authorities and populace gave them a great reception.

Maj. Dargue said the flight from Tampico to Vera Cruz, a distance of 136 miles, was made without incident. The flying time was two hours and forty minutes. Favorable winds added speed to the American planes for the first 100 miles from Tampico; then came head winds, and for more than thirty miles the aviators had to face powerful air currents. Tonight they were enjoying themselves at the Naval Academy.

Puerto Mexico is the next goal, and, if all goes well, the flyers will hop off at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Slight Quake Experienced in Spokane Area

SPOKANE (Wash.) Dec. 30. (AP)—An earth shock violent enough to be felt without a seismograph and located within 500 miles of this city was recorded at the Gonzaga University observatory here, the director reported today. The tremor started at 9:27 o'clock and continued for two minutes, he stated.

WENATCHEE (Wash.) Dec. 30. (AP) A pronounced earthquake was felt here at 10:05 a.m. today. Buildings shook and many occupants ran into the streets. One old citizen, who has felt them before, said it was the most pronounced in the seventeen years he has resided here.

YAKIMA (Wash.) Dec. 30. (AP)—Yakima residents shortly before 10 o'clock today reported they were shaken by an earthquake. Miss Janet Sharpe of the Indian Service, with offices in the Federal Building, says that her desk and those of other workers were shaken back and forth.

Chinese Bandits Ruin Property of Americans

AMOY, Dec. 30. (AP)—Revolutionary or bandit Chinese soldiers recently held anti-Christian demonstrations in Fukien Province, destroyed considerable American and other foreign property and stoned those who resisted.

The bandit soldiers occupied American mission property, including in some instances private dwellings in Poochow, Haienyu, Yungtai, Shaowu, Kienning, Kienyang and other cities. In Haienyu during anti-Christian demonstrations much American property was destroyed.

Dwellings of foreigners in Shaowu were overrun by soldiers, who stoned those who refused them admittance. Foreign schools and churches there also were occupied by the Chinese bandit troops

AUTO INSURANCE PLAN PROPOSED

Judge Urges Compulsory Protection

Says It Would Act to Curb Accidents

Economics Body in Session at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 30. (AP)—Compulsory automobile accident insurance was advocated here today by Judge Robert S. Marx of Chicago, in an address before the American Economics Association. Such insurance, he said, would largely prevent the heavy death and injury toll, eliminate personal injury suits and provide prompt and certain redress for injured persons.

Experience with workmen's accident compensation, Judge Marx said, has proved that "it is effective in reducing industrial accidents" and similar results could be expected with the general adoption of required automobile insurance.

"Upward of 22,000 human beings are killed annually in America by automobiles," he said. "The total number of injured exceeds half a million. In the majority of cases the automobile owner or driver is not financially responsible and not one cent can be recovered by the injured person or the dependent family of the dead."

Unwise parental discipline develops personalities in children "more destructive socially than criminals," Dr. Miriam Van Waters, referee of the Los Angeles Juvenile Court, told the American Sociological Society, one of the eight economic bodies in session here.

Unjust accusations, ridicule, humiliation and such violations of personal privacy as opening letters and over-zealous and suspicious questions were among causes of antagonism of daughters mentioned by Dr. Van Waters.

She remarked that such antagonisms are common among average families. She inferred that antagonized daughters might become suspicious wives and spiteful old women.

Plane Catches Train Missed by Passenger

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Time and trains wait for no man, as the saying goes, but that isn't saying that a man cannot beat the combination occasionally. That is what T. H. Camp, San Francisco furniture jobber, did last night.

Camp missed a Southern Pacific Company boat which connected with a train on which he had three compartment reservations for Chicago.

"I must catch that train," he told R. H. Hills, Jr., the company's agent at the Ferry Building.

"No sooner said than done," Hills responded.

Camp went over to Oakland on the next boat as the company's guest. He was rushed to Concord, Contra Costa county, also as the company's guest. There he boarded an airplane of the Pacific Air Transport Company and was off for Sacramento "in a jiffy."

He had to wait awhile in Sacramento for the train to catch up to him.

Huge Total of Additional Tax Levies Given

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—While the Treasury refunded $175,000,000 in illegally collected taxes last fiscal year, Secretary Mellon declared today that during the same period it had collected $400,000,000 in additional levies made as a result of mistakes by taxpayers in computing their returns or in failure to make returns.

The bulk of the refunds resulted from regular court orders, the Secretary said, and many of them resulted from mistakes by the government in interpreting provisions of the excess-profits tax, which is not now in existence.

Gigantic Drug Ring Uncovered by Canadians

MONTREAL, Dec. 30. (AP)—United States and Canadian investigators have uncovered what they believe to be the largest drug ring in North America, F. W. Cowan, chief of the narcotic branch of the Department of Health of the Canadian government, said today.

Five asserted drug peddlers have been arrested and more arrests are expected as a result of the investigation extending over three months.

Although $10,000 worth of drugs were seized today when arrests were made, a central plant believed to exist has not yet been discovered.

MENTAL CONDITION OF LOITERER OBSERVED

ROME, Dec. 30. (AP)—James W. Carroll of Wheeling, W. Va., who was arrested several days ago for suspicious loitering near the home of Premier Mussolini was declared last night to be in a mental condition which warranted temporary confinement in a hospital for observation. Mr. Carroll, who is fifty years of age, was employed by Father Keefe, an American Priest. The American Consulate interceded in his behalf.

ADMIRAL STIRLING TO BECOME STAFF CHIEF

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—Recent orders detaching Rear-Admiral Yates Stirling, Jr., from the Washington Navy Yard to take command of a light cruiser division of the scouting fleet have been revoked, and instead he will become chief of staff for the Commander-in-Chief of the United States Fleet. He relieves Rear-Admiral R. H. Leigh, who has been made Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, succeeding Rear-Admiral W. R. Shoemaker.

MANY ISSUES UP TO LEGISLATURE

Forty-Seventh Session Will Open Monday

Highway Financing Becomes Urgent Problem

Colorado River Question Also Important Matter

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30. (AP)—A knotty group of major problems and a jungle of miscellaneous measures, ranging from a bill to make turkey-stealing a felony to a proposal to rewrite the State Constitution, crowd the horizon of the Forty-Seventh Session of the California Legislature, scheduled to convene here next Monday.

Incidentally it will be the diamond anniversary session of the Legislature in Sacramento, for it was seventy-five years ago next month that the lawmakers of the Golden State, whose most pressing problem of the moment was to find comfortable headquarters, disembarked from a river steamer and moved in to the Sacramento County Courthouse.

Among the major problems which will be pressing for attention once the Legislature has organized itself and settled the customary fight over speakership of the Assembly, are the financing of new highways, legislative reapportionment, revision of criminal procedure, reorganization and unification of the Department of Education, tax revision, reorganization and simplification of governmental machinery, formulation of adequate programs of forest and water conservation, and the problem of Colorado River development.

The last-named question, because of the possibility of definite Congressional action on the Swing-Johnson Boulder Dam bill within a very short time, and the fact that the Arizona Legislature has been called into special session to consider the Colorado River situation, is expected to play a prominent role early in the forty-seventh session.

Highway financing became a particularly urgent problem when voters on November 2 defeated both the road-building measures on the ballot. Since then a variety of financing plans has been discussed, and it remains to be seen whether the Legislature will be able to reach an early decision on the relative merits of raising the gasoline tax, making direct appropriations, putting a tax on crude petroleum, issuing more highway bonds, and adopting a new system of dividing and utilizing the proceeds of the 2-cent gasoline tax.

The November 2 election also made legislative reapportionment a very urgent issue, for the so-called Federal plan of reapportionment approved by voters calls for immediate redistricting of the State and authorizes a commission composed of the Lieutenant-Governor, Attorney-General, Surveyor-General, Secretary of State and Superintendent of Public Instruction to do the redistricting if the Legislature fails. Since reapportionment according to the Federal plan means cutting down Los Angeles county representation in the Senate from eight Senators to one, and reducing San Francisco's delegation from seven Senators to one, there are legislators and other observers who predict the reapportionment phase of the Forty-Seventh Session will be more than interesting.

And should the task of redistricting be passed along to the commission before-mentioned, these observers point out, there may arise the question of the constitutionality of a commission doing the work of a Legislature.

Indications are that at least 2000 bills will be introduced, many of them providing for minor changes in the fish and game laws and the laws governing agriculture and dairying. There will be at least two bridge-the-bay bills from San Francisco, the Stockton ship channel project vetoed by Gov. Richardson in 1925 will be back; the State Commission for the Revision of Criminal Procedure will submit numerous important measures and amendments designed to speed up the administration of justice, more than twenty changes in the school of public instruction, at least two bank depositor's guarantee fund measures are ready for introduction, numerous changes in the election laws will be proposed, including permanent registration of voters, and, as in previous sessions, there will be a bill to abolish capital punishment.

Mother Reads in Room of Child Who Later Tells About Stories

MUNICH (Germany) Dec. 30. (AP)—A case of mental telepathy is reported by Prof. Carl Gruber, psychologist. A mother read each night in the bedroom of her sleeping child. In the morning the child narrated its dreams, which in numerous cases were found to correspond exactly to the contents of the book or magazine read by the mother.

SHOOTING STIRS PEACEFUL BEACH

Detective Fires Shots After Escaped Prisoner

Former School Man Said to be Defrauder

Surrenders After Break for Liberty

LONG BEACH, Dec. 30.—Gunplay in the downtown section of Long Beach by a private detective this morning created a panic in the vicinity of Fourth street and Pine avenue, this city's shopping center, and led to wild reports that the First National Bank on the southeast corner of the two streets had been robbed by bandits. Investigation by squads of police who hurried to the scene, however, revealed that John Roark, manager of a private detective agency, had been endeavoring to recapture a prisoner who had escaped from him in the bank lobby and who fled down an alley in the rear of the bank.

The fugitive was Louis Reub, 33 years of age, former physical instructor at Polytechnic High School, and now said to be filling a similar position at a local hotel, who was being detained by police this afternoon for investigation.

Reub, according to a complaint made to police by Roark, had represented to a woman that he was connected with Roark's detective agency and accepted money from the woman as a retainer for work to be done by the agency. Today, at his request, the woman met Reub, Roark asserts, to give him an additional $25 for the agency in the belief that the detective agency was making an investigation for her. Then Roark, learning of the transaction, got in touch with the woman and, learning the details, placed himself on watch at the First National Bank, where Reub was to meet the woman and receive the money. As the money was paid over to Reub by the client, Roark stepped up to arrest Reub. The latter broke away and fled, with Roark in hot pursuit. Roark drew his revolver and fired several shots as Reub fled down an alley, police reports state. Reub surrendered, but had thrown the money away, Roark told police.

The District Attorney's office here was to decide today whether or not a warrant charging Reub with obtaining money under false pretenses would be issued. Roark told police that Reub had no connection with the detective agency and that he was unknown to the manager.

Noted Scholars in Residence at Pomona College

CLAREMONT, Dec. 30.—Two internationally known authorities, William Morris Davis, the world's foremost student of earth surface forms, and Dudley Crafts Watson, noted authority on art, will be in residence at Pomona College in January, it was announced here today.

William Morris Davis, who is professor emeritus of geology at Harvard University and one of the ablest scientific lecturers of the present day, will present an illustrated lecture open to the public without charge on "Alpine Glaciers from an Airplane," Thursday, the 6th inst., at 7:15 p.m. in Holmes Hall. Prof. Davis comes to Pomona College from the University of Texas. In February he will be in residence at the University of Arizona and will later lecture at the University of California, Berkeley.

Dudley Crafts Watson will come to Pomona College from the Chicago Art Institute, where he recently returned from several weeks spent in Scandinavia with a group of artists who made a complete study of the art and life of this region. He will lecture on "The Art and Life of Scandinavia," illustrating his lecture with colored slides, in Holmes Hall on the 13th inst., at 8 p.m.

LEG INJURY CAUSE OF MENTAL ILLNESS

SANTA ANA, Dec. 30.—Joseph Hyde, Long Beach school-teacher, arrested for asserted indecent exposure at Los Alamitos, today pleaded guilty in Justice Kenneth E. Morrison's court and was ordered held under observation in the psycopathic ward at the County Hospital for two weeks. Upon the reports from the hospital Justice Morrison will base his sentence, he indicated today. Testifying for the defense today, a Long Beach physician declared that Hyde was a "border-line" insanity case, his moral values twisted by the effects of a severe leg injury received years ago in a motorcycle accident. The leg has never healed, and the poison generated from it, combined with the severe tax placed upon Hyde's mental faculties by his work in college and later in the Long Beach schools, has brought him into his present situation, the physician declared. He said that Hyde should be in a hospital for at least six months, or he will lose his leg and his mind as well.

A Los Angeles woman and a 13-year-old girl also testified in court today, regarding asserted experiences with Hyde.

RETIRED DENTIST DIES

MONROVIA, Dec. 30.—Dr. Walter I. Conkey, 66 years of age, retired dentist, died at his home here last night. Dr. Conkey graduated from the Ohio School of Dentistry at Cincinnati in 1884 and practiced his profession in Appleton, Wis., from that time until October, 1925, when he and his family moved to Monrovia. He was a Past Master of the Masonic Order at Appleton.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. J. V. Whelan, Appleton, and two sons, W. I. Conkey, Jr., of Monrovia, and Carl Conkey of Chicago.

Following brief funeral rites here tomorrow afternoon the body will be taken to Appleton for burial.

MRS. HARRIET HAYWARD

MISSION ACRES, Dec. 30.—Mrs. Harriet Hayward, 86 years of age, widow of Dr. Albert Hayward, California pioneer, died t, the home of Mrs. N. M. Hayward on Van Nuys Boulevard. She had lived in the State for fifty-one years. The body was shipped by the Van Nuys funeral parlors to Orange for interment.

RAID KNIGHTS OF THE JUNGLE

Officers Make Effort to Stop Canned Heat Parties, Long Favorite Pastime of Army of Brakebeam Tourists

VENTURA, Dec. 30.—Out in the wide open "jungles," in the hinterland of Somis near here, stragglers from "Wanderland" have set up a "Georgia republic," where canned heat flows freely and hoboes from the four sections of the earth gather. Constable L. W. Wells of Somis, with co-operation of the Sheriff's office, today launched a clean-up of the itinerants. Stories of the mad gyrations of "dehorners" as canned-heat fiends are termed in the parlance of the police, have been brought to the county law-enforcement officers by residents of the Somis district. "Canned-heat parties" are staged nightly along the right of way of the Southern Pacific near Somis, and hoboes drop off passing freight trains to join the festivities at all hours of the day and night. "There are hundreds of these brakebeam travelers, who make periodical visits to the Somis jungles," declared Constable Wells. "They are ships that pass in the night. They come and go with the passing trains, after spending a night in mad abandon drinking simmering canned heat, which is boiled over camp fires. They crawl into the brush to sober up. When they are again able to amble they catch the first freight that passes."

INDICT POMONA POLICEMAN

Grand Jury Action Clears Way for Return of Long-Sought Man for Trial Here

POMONA, Dec. 30.—With an indictment returned late today by the Los Angeles county grand jury against Dan L. Sullivan, former Pomona policeman who is wanted for asserted assault with intent to do bodily harm against L. E. Wall, 406 East Tenth street, Pomona, on the night of December 24, 1925, the way is cleared for his return to the jurisdiction of California courts to face the charges.

Sullivan was recently apprehended at Plymouth, Mich., where he was employed as guard at a house of correction there. He is now being held in jail awaiting extradition proceedings.

The indictment today followed the failure of Wall to raise the necessary funds to return Sullivan to the custody of the local courts, at which time he would have been reimbursed. Constable Chambers and several witnesses today appeared before the jury with the favorable result. Sullivan was arrested in Michigan one year and one day ago following the issuing of a felony warrant by Justice White sworn to by Wall, who asserted that Sullivan struck him with the butt of his gun after starting an argument. Enmity has existed between the men due to a previous arrest of Wall by Sullivan, while the latter was a night patrolman on the local force. Following his arrest, Sullivan was ousted from the force and at a special hearing in Police Court was fined $50. He immediately left town and has been a fugitive from justice since.

OUT-GUESS LONG BEACH POLICEMEN

Officers Follow Decoy Tip and Supposed Bootleggers Make Getaway

LONG BEACH, Dec. 30.—Police here were convinced today that they have been "outfigured" by a group of rum runners. Receiving a telephoned tip recently that a band of men were engaged in landing a cargo of liquor on the Orange county side of Alamitos Bay, on the city's eastern outskirts, a carload of policemen was dispatched to the scene. There they met a group of officers from Seal Beach, but no rum runners. Search of the beach for a distance of a mile showed the report to be false.

Realizing that the call could have been in the nature of a ruse, the officers hurried to the extreme western section of the city's beach front and there, in the harbor district, they came upon fresh truck tracks in the sand. Investigation revealed that "something" had been dug up out of the sand within the previous hour and that that something had been loaded onto a truck and hauled away. Henceforth, telephoned tips calling police to any one locality along the water front will be responded to by the dispatching of officers to several locations simultaneously, police declare.

Man From East Deplores Waste Seen in Fields

VAN NUYS, Dec. 30.—A. L. Henswing, a St. Louis (Mo.) broker, who is spending part of the winter in Southern California, was a visitor here today and took an automobile ride over San Fernando Valley. He saw the hundreds of acres of matured lettuce that were slightly damaged during the recent cold, making the lettuce unfit as a prime article to be shipped to eastern markets, all of which, within the next week or two, will be plowed under as fertilizer.

"Most of the lettuce I saw," Henswing said, "was in excellent edible condition, some of the white crisp hearts being most attractive from a market point of view. It is a shame to waste such good food because of peculiar transportation conditions. All of the lettuce I saw today would sell for 10 cents a head in the St. Louis retail markets, and people would literally make a scramble to purchase.

"Back home lemons are 40 cents a dozen. Out here you give them away. About this time there isn't a drayload of lettuce in the St. Louis vicinity, while in this valley ranchers are getting ready to plow under hundreds of acres to get rid of it."

CROWN CITY HOTEL MAN GOES TO BEACH

PASADENA, Dec. 30.—M. E. (Don) Olson, assistant manager of the Hotel Huntington here, will assume the position of manager of the Virginia Hotel in Long Beach Sunday. The news was confirmed today by Olson and Charles H. Drake, president of the Seaside Investment Company, which owns the Virginia.

Olson has been a hotel man in Pasadena for the last thirteen years, most of the time with the Lindard hotels. He was formerly manager of the Old Faithful Inn at Yellowstone National Park, and is one of the best-known younger hotel executives in this part of the country.

THOUSANDS VISIT CHRISTMAS TREES

PASADENA, Dec. 30.—The noted "mile of Christmas trees" in Altadena—the twin rows of giant deodars on Santa Rosa avenue which are lighted each Christmas week—have attracted approximately 40,000 spectators each night since they were illuminated on Christmas Eve, according to local estimates.

More than 10,000 cars drive down the celebrated lane every night. The trees are illuminated from 5:30 to 10:30 p.m. and provide a unique Christmas spectacle. New Year's night is the last time they will be lighted this winter.

TO DELIVER AIRPLANE

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 30.—Capt. R. Black, National Guard officer from Baltimore, was scheduled to hop off at Clover Field today with another Douglas airplane for delivery to his unit of the guard. The planes are used by the National Guardsmen for training purposes.

Boy Hikers Spend Night in Mountains

PASADENA, Dec. 30.—Bruised and disheveled and suffering from lack of food, three Pasadena boys who had been missing from their homes since early yesterday, when they left on a hiking trip, were found on Mt. Lowe today by Glenn Regal, assistant boys' director of the Pasadena Y.M.C.A., and Bob McCumisky, who left Pasadena early today to search for the trio. Boy Scouts, forest rangers, the youths' parents and police were also looking for the boys.

The youths were Murray Funke, 542 Mountain View; Robert Henderson, 572 Mountain View, and Robert McGregor, who lives at Euclid avenue and Pleasant street. They intended to hike from Mt. Wilson to Mt. Lowe, but late yesterday, they said, lost their way and were forced to spend the night in the mountains without food or shelter. They suffered no marked ill effects from the adventure.

NEW PASTOR COMES TO SANTA ANA CHURCH

SANTA ANA, Dec. 30.—Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Homestead, Pa., will come to Santa Ana as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church and will assume his duties February 1.

A call was extended and officially accepted by Rev. Mr. McFarland at a congregational meeting of First Presbyterians last night. Mr. McFarland comes here to succeed Rev. W. E. Roberts, who recently resigned to become pastor of the West Adams Presbyterian Church, Los Angeles.

More than thirty applicants were received and considered by the church before a decision was reached by a general committee consisting of some forty members and a smaller investigating group of nine persons. Rev. Mr. McFarland, however, did not file an application for the pastorate, it was announced.

COTTON SHOULD BE ONE OF BASIC CROPS

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 30.—Cotton should be recognized as one of the basic crops in the San Joaquin Valley, according to the arguments of W. C. Camp, agronomist at the United States Experimental Farm at Shafter. "Growers should not be price-chasers," he said, "speeding up production when prices are high and then dropping out when the market is low. Success would come from quality production, with a large yield to the acre," he said, and the cotton industry, even at the present low prices, is as attractive as many other lines of agriculture. He said that conditions are more favorable for the Kern county cotton growers than for the southern grower in many respects.

SLOT MACHINES NO MORE

Fresno City Follows Lead of County in Legislation Against Petty Gambling

FRESNO, Dec. 30.—The final blow at operation of slot machines in Fresno city and county was taken today when the City Commission adopted an amendment to the City Penal Ordinance prohibiting the operation of slot machines which may in any way be considered gambling devices and through which redemption of checks is a part of the operation.

Action of the city authorities followed a similar move last week by the County Supervisors, and is directed specifically at a type of vending machine, which, on cash plays, at times pays metallic slugs in which on their face purport to have greater face value than the amount of money played into them. Both the city and county ordinances will become effective in thirty days.

MOTORIST ON COSTLY JOY RIDE

Seal Beach Judge Gives Fines Aggregating $1250 for Three Offenses

SEAL BEACH, Dec. 30.—C. M. Parkins of Wilmington, motorist arrested here several weeks ago on several charges after Motorcycle Officer Charles Ecker, in pursuing him, had been forced into a ditch and badly hurt, was found guilty on three separate complaints and fined a total of $1250, $400 of which he paid, the remainder being suspended by City Recorder B. B. Brown.

He was found guilty on the first charge of conveying liquor on which he was fined $500, $350 of the fine being suspended. He was found guilty on the second complaining possession of liquor and fined $500, $350 of which was suspended and he was found guilty on a third complaint brought under Section 121 of the State Motor Vehicle Act charging reckless driving. This complaint was reduced to a justice court case when Parkins admitted that he had been drinking and pleaded guilty to all three complaints. He was fined $250 on the last complaint, $150 of the fine being suspended.

Officer Ecker, who had been smashed up in the crash and who said he had fired several shots toward the fleeing motorist in an effort to stop him was in court and suggested clemency in view of the defendant's desire to make every reparation possible.

The court withheld sentence for several days following Parkins's original threat to jail him which time the defendant had paid for the repair of Ecker's motorcycle.

START SEARCH FOR MISSING CHAUFFEUR

GLENDALE, Dec. 30.—Police here have launched a search for Robert Kimball, 109 West Chestnut street, taxi driver, who has been missing since last night, when he picked up a passenger who alighted from a Pacific Electric train at Brand Boulevard and Broadway. When Kimball failed to return to his home today the police were notified and descriptions of him were sent to the police departments of other Southern California cities asking for help in finding him. It is feared that he may have met with foul play, police here declare.

RANCHER TRAPS WILD COYOTE

Animal, Hungry and Cold, Descends Into Paved District of Reseda

RESEDA, Dec. 30.—Notwithstanding Reseda is centered in the midst of a network of paved streets and other modern civic improvements, wild animals still continue to prowl around some of the large chicken ranches in the community.

Clark Howell, who resides on Roscoe street, a paved thoroughfare, night before last heard a strange howl and set a trap for whatever it might prove to be. This morning he found he had captured a coyote weighing forty-five pounds. The animal is the first seen here in a number of years, although bands of coyotes once roamed over this section of San Fernando Valley.

It is believed the coyote, impelled by the cold, wandered out of the mountains on the north to see what he might find in the way of a good supper.

RECORD BROKEN

Injury Retires Faithful Helper of Flost Workers

GLENDALE, Dec. 30.—A record of seven years uninterrupted service in helping to prepare Glendale's prize winning floats for participation in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses was broken today when Mrs. Thomas H. Addison slipped on the freshly waxed floor of her home at 130 South Cedar street, and fractured her left leg near the hip.

She was taken to the Glendale Sanitarium, where the broken limb was placed in a cast that must remain in place for six weeks, the physicians say.

Mrs. Addison and Mrs. Mabel L. Tight, another pioneer resident of Glendale, have had charge of the preparations for luncheon for the workers engaged in decorating the float, a task that she had carried out for the last seven years, and her disappointment at being shut out from her share in the preparation of this year's float is very deep, especially at a time when she and her co-workers are looking forward to another Glendale triumph.

ARMONA, Dec. 30.—Mrs. Susan Viola Blowers, probably the oldest pioneer woman of this county, died this morning, aged 76. She was a resident of California fifty-five years, fifty-two of which were spent on the fine ranch near Grangeville north of here, where she and her husband, generally known as Cash Blowers, for many years prominent in fruit farming and dairying, settled when they were first married.

She is survived by three sons and a daughter, all residents of this vicinity, and two brothers, one of whom, Stilles A. McLaughlin, resides in San Leandro. The funeral takes place tomorrow afternoon from the People's mortuary chapel in this city, with interment in the family plot in the old pioneer Grangeville Cemetery.

THREE DAYS ON BEER DIET

San Diego Aviator Snowbound on Mountain Plateau Consumes Part of His Foamy Cargo Consigned to Tia Juana

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Marooned for three days with his airplane in deep snow drifts on top of a mountain twelve miles southeast of Mexicali, during which he subsisted on barreled beer, was the unusual experience of W. J. Barrows, a pilot of the Ryan air lines, who returned to San Diego today.

Barrows is believed to be the first Southern California aviator to be snowbound. He said one experience was sufficient to last him a couple of winters.

Barrows was one of three pilots from San Diego engaged in the transportation of barreled beer from Mexicali to Tia Juana by airplane. Piloting a small plane, he landed his ship on a plateau 4000 feet above sea level, where the beer was delivered in trucks. At that time, Barrowes said, there was three feet of snow on the plateau, with a snowstorm in progress. Before the trucks could reach him over the almost impassable roads from Mexicali, the snow had piled so thick about his plane he was unable to take off.

The aviator remained with his ship until this morning when the snow had thawed sufficiently to permit him again to take to the air.

FIVE HURT IN ACCIDENTS

Series of Automobile Mishaps Send Motorists to Hospital and Cars to Repair Shops

POMONA, Dec. 30.—Two persons are in the Pomona Valley Hospital and three others are under the care of physicians as a result of a trio of automobile accidents in this city during the past twelve hours. In a crash at the intersection of the new West Second-street extension and Valley Boulevard at noon today, Mrs. M. E. Mansfield, her nephew, Leon Sherman, Los Angeles, and Frank M. Beatty, Perris, were injured when an automobile driven by Mrs. Mansfield collided with that driven by Beatty, hurling the latter's car off the road, demolishing it.

Mrs. Mansfield is in the local hospital suffering from nervous shock, numerous injuries and cuts, while Beatty's left hand and thigh were severely cut and his right arm sprained, his injuries necessitating treatment at the hospital also. Sherman was cut by flying glass, but his injuries will not prove serious.

Mrs. Henry Mayetta, East Holt avenue, suffered cuts and bruises when the automobile in which she was riding home with her husband collided with the car driven by Charles M. Wheeler, Delano, on East Holt avenue last evening. Mrs. Mayetta was the only one injured and today was on her way to recovery.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gibson, 980 West Fifth avenue, sustained a crushed arm and hand besides cuts about the face and body bruises, while Mrs. Sarah Humble, 990 West Fifth avenue, received a broken wrist, bruises and shock when Mrs. Gibson's car was overturned after it collided with one driven by Ben White, 382 West Tenth street, this morning as the intersection of Fifth and Main streets. White escaped injury and rendered all possible aid before the arrival of police, it was stated. Both machines were badly damaged.

VICTIM OF OLD-TIME SWINDLE

Redlands Woman Falls Into Trap of Pair of Successful Bunko Artists

REDLANDS, Dec. 30. — Police through Southern California were searching today for two negroes who are charged by Miss D. Nash, young colored woman of this city, with getting $694 in money and diamond rings from her on a bunko game.

She was accosted by a well-dressed negro in the center of the business section and asked about certain streets. While they were talking a second negro apparently picked up a wallet at their feet and offered it to them. They told him that the pocketbook was not theirs. Upon being opened it seemingly contained a roll of ten $100 bills.

"Since you both saw me pick this up I will divide it three ways," said the man who found the pocketbook. The other two agreed, but here a hitch in their plans arose. It seemed that one of the men said the $100 bills would be hard to change and suggested that the three put up security for their share until a division of the money could me made.

The girl drew $194 out of the bank, handed over diamond rings and a wrist watch, valued at $500 and promised to meet the two men half an hour later when she was to receive her share of the $1000. Two hours later it was apparent that her money and jewelry had vanished with the two men and she reported the transaction to the police.

The same proposition was worked in Riverside about a week ago by two men answering the description.

CONTINUE SEARCH

Glendale Boy Scouts Active in Hunt for Comrade

GLENDALE, Dec. 30.—Search for Emmet Lee Baldwin, the 11-year-old boy who disappeared from his home at 1013 East Maple two days ago, was resumed this morning by the Boy Scouts, of which he is a member, and by other searchers, in the effort to discover a clew to the missing boy. The Scouts, led by Frank Bell, Leroy Sugart, Sam Blake and Dennison Baldwin, his brother, made the Los Angeles River bottoms their objective and started out to comb every foot of this region, especially those places where Emmet is known to have gone before.

Yesterday's search covered the hills of Griffith Park, but no sign of the boy could be found. Emmet is said to have left home on former occasions and he has always returned, safely from such excursions, and the belief is held by some of his friends that he may have ventured off on another excursion this time, without advising his family where he planned to go. Fears that he may have met with foul play are entertained in some quarters and efforts are being redoubled to find some trace of him.

SHIP SHEEP FROM MOUNTAIN PASTURES

Thirty-eight cars of sheep consigned to Edison will be shipped from Lone Pine January 3, fifty-two more cars will follow the next day. Twenty-four more cars for Saco will be shipped from Lone Pine January 5. These sheep will lamb at Edison and Saco and will then be driven back to the mountains, feeding as they go.

PLANT REDWOOD TREES

INGLEWOOD, Dec. 30.—Inglewood is to have specimens of the giant redwood trees of California growing in its municipal parks, it was announced today by City Park Superintendent Louis B. Hardin. He has just received a dozen seedlings of the Sequoia Gigantes sent here by W. B. Lewis of the Yosemite National Park.

The trees were secured through City Trustee John W. Glasgow, who visited Mr. Lewis, who is superintendent of the Yosemite National Park, last summer and made arrangements for obtaining the trees for his home city. Half of the trees will be planted in the rose garden of Oreville Park and the others in Centinela Park.

Redlands Growers Find With

REDLANDS, Dec. 30.—Orange growers here generally approved action taken by the directors of the California Fruit Exchange at their meeting in Los Angeles yesterday in voting to accept the report of the committee which recommended that the exchange not participate for a round-robin movements of citrus fruit, but to hold one a week by auto across the shipping centers.

Although the committee turned down the proposal for "independent" sales of fruit by the exchange, many growers and business men here are hopeful that the exchange will change its policy, as they claim would result in a saving to the growers of thousands of dollars each year. The expense of one man for himself, who claims he is entitled with four or five others getting nothing for his time.

Plan to Tell World About Great Valley

CALEXICO, Dec. 30.—Passage of the Swing-Johnson bill during the present session of Congress will be followed by a nation-wide community advertising program in behalf of Imperial Valley, if plans formed by the Calexico Chamber of Commerce meet with the approval of other towns in the valley.

A tentative proposal was submitted by a national advertising agency providing for the expenditure of approximately $70,000 during a period of three years to induce new investors to come to this district.

It is the opinion of local business men that the passing of Boulder dam legislation providing security for valley lands against both flood and drought will be the signal for a marked influx of new settlers who will want to take advantage of the low-priced land now available here.

The plan for a nation-wide campaign to be conducted through newspapers and magazines was first suggested to the Associated Chambers of Commerce several months ago and was referred back to the individual towns in the valley for approval. If other valley cities follow the lead taken by Calexico today the chamber publicity committee will be authorized to go ahead with the program whenever Congress has given its approval to the impending bill.

THREE HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT IN VALLEY

VAN NUYS, Dec. 30.—Two Glendale men and one from Reseda were seriously hurt in a traffic accident near here this morning. The two former are J. M. York, 37 years of age, 1119 Wilson street, and Roy Watson, 40, of 926 West Colorado street. The latter is P. L. Burr of 18713 Hatteras street. York suffered a wrenched back and cuts on head and right arm. Watson suffered a broken back and Burr a broken collarbone and crushed ribs.

According to police report York is a painting contractor and, with Watson, was driving west on Victory Boulevard, when he came in collision with Burr, who is a tile contractor and who was coming south on Woodman avenue. The former were in a small truck, while Burr was driving a roadster. York told the police Burr was driving at excessive speed and that in the impact Burr's auto was struck squarely in the center, wrecking the lighter car. All three men were taken to the Welbourn Hospital at Van Nuys.

DINUBA MERCHANT IS BADLY INJURED

DINUBA, Dec. 30.—W. E. Saddler, former resident of Dinuba, and prominent merchant in this city, lies seriously injured in a hospital in Tulare as a result of wounds sustained when an angry bull attacked him at the Defoe ranch near Waukena, Tuesday.

The enraged bull charged upon Saddler without warning as he stood talking to a friend. Taken completely by surprise, Saddler was pushed into a barbed wire fence and owes his life to his presence of mind in crawling through the fence between the beast's infuriated lunges.

Saddler is believed to have a chance for recovery. He sustained a badly slashed right thigh and abdomen, several broken ribs, a deep gash in his left leg extending to the knee and numerous cuts and bruises.

Former Trojan, Olympic Star to Handle Poet Track Teams in Future

Roy Evans, better known as "Swede," former Olympic star and captain of the University of Southern California track team in 1920, will be head track coach at Whittier College this season, according to an announcement made by the Poet faculty yesterday. Evans's contract was confirmed by the college board at a meeting yesterday afternoon and it will run over a period of three years or more, it was intimated, although the exact terms were not given out.

Evans should start things moving in the right direction at Whittier so far as track athletics are concerned, as he is one of the best track experts on the Pacific Coast. Whittier has never burned the world up with its track teams, although it has had from time to time an occasional star who attracted more than ordinary attention, but with Evans at the helm things may be different at the Poet institution.

Evans was graduated from Southern California in 1922 and was one of the nine letter men in that institution. He earned letters in track, football and baseball. In 1920 he was one of three Trojans on the Olympic team. The other two were Charley Paddock and Schiller. Whittier's new coach will have some fairly good material to start with in Oak Pendleton, Reece, Adams, Turner and Denny.

TIDE BANKS ON DEFENSE

Supporters of Alabama Team Contend That Stanford Will Bow to Superior Defensive Eleven

BY BRAVEN DYER

Followers of Alabama's Crimson Tide, and there are hundreds of them here now with the arrival yesterday of another train from Birmingham, believe that their team's stone-wall defense will beat Stanford at the Rose Bowl tomorrow. It has been said that a good offense is better than a good defense in football. Coach Wade believes in having both. His record over the past four years indicates that his teams have at least been adamant on defense.

During that period but 120 points have been scored on Alabama, these digits being rung up in thirty-eight games. This gives the Tide a defensive record of but 3.2 points per game. Any time you hold your opponents that well over four years you are certainly entitled to considerable recognition as a defensive team. Alabama's offense hasn't been anything to burst out crying about either, the Tide rolling up 1063 points in those thirty-eight games.

"RED" BROWN.

Last year Washington had little difficulty scoring three touchdowns on Alabama, and this may lead some to believe that the Tide's defensive record doesn't mean so much after all. However, Wade had no opportunity to scout the Huskies. He knew absolutely nothing about their Pacific Coast games, and what information he did pick up later proved to be of little use, as most of it was misleading.

This season Wade had his own personal scout at the California-Stanford game in the person of Claude (Shorty) Propst, frosh mentor. In addition, Wade has followed Warner's system for years and thinks he has built up a defense for the reverse plays which have wrecked most of the teams on the Pacific Coast.

Alabama's secret practice has been featured by strenuous defensive work. What Wade's plan actually is won't be public knowledge until Stanford takes the ball and starts after a touchdown. Warner saw the Tide beat Georgia, 33 to 6. He consequently knows many of Alabama's plays, but he cannot know what defensive plan Wade will elect to employ tomorrow.

LINE STRONGER NOW

Everybody who has seen Alabama's line agrees that it is stronger than a year ago. There is added strength on the ends, with "Mr. Wu" Winslett, the all-American wonder, at one wing and Ben Enis, who performed so well last year, at the other. The Tide is certainly no weaker at the tackles, Freddie Pickhard and "Cupid" Perry being back in their old berths with added experience. If Gordon Hones plays, and Wade says he will certainly get into the game some time, the center position is as strong as last season. Pearce, 205-pounder, is every bit as good as Jones was last year, and Hagler, sophomore guard, compares favorably with Buckler, the

OPEN WAR DECLARED ON A.A.U. BY NATIONAL COLLEGE GROUP

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—The National College Athletic Association's annual convention voted late today to withdraw from membership in the American Olympic Association as a result of opposition to the control exercised by the Amateur Athletic Union in preparations for this country's participation in the 1928 Olympics.

The action of the N.C.A.A., marking the climax of its twenty-first annual conference, was taken by unanimous vote after the delegates had listened to an attack by their president, Brig.-Gen. Palmer E. Pierce, on the alleged unfair tactics of the A.A.U. in gaining control of the Olympic Association.

Gen. Pierce declared that the A.A.U., in seeking control over international intercollegiate competition, had overstepped its authority. In effect, he said, "war has been declared against the N.C.A.A.," adding that "the time has come to challenge the right of the Amateur Athletic Union to govern track and field competition or

START SWIM IN MORNING

The flock of swimmers which will put off from Santa Catalina Island January 15 in an attempt to swim the channel separating the island from the mainland, will start at 11 a.m., instead of 4 p.m., Oscar Reichow, in charge of arrangements, announced today.

With more than 100 entries now in and others arriving every day, Reichow pointed out that scores were bound to collapse after the first few hours, necessitating picking them up in darkness if the start was made in the late afternoon.

The entry list is expected to exceed 150.

SUZANNE LOSES NET RANK

French Tennis Federation Drops Lenglen From List for Turning Professional

PARIS, Dec. 30. (AP)—The name of Suzanne Lenglen, who forfeited her amateur status by becoming a professional, has disappeared from the premier place it held for so many years in the ranking of France's feminine tennis stars.

The men's 1926 ranking, as decided by the French Tennis Federation, shows that Rene Lacoste, Jean Borotra and Henri Cochet will share honors for supremacy.

LA COSTE SHARES PLACE

La Coste, undisputed champion of the United States by virtue of his victory over Jean Borotra at Forest Hills, N. Y., last September, thus will have to divide first place with his defeated adversary, and Cochet, conqueror of "Bill" Tilden.

Paul Feret, who joined the professional ranks with Mlle. Lenglen, likewise was dropped from the tennis federation's lists.

Suzanne's place at the head of the women players will be shared by Didi Vlasto and Helen Contostavlos, French girls of Greek origin.

The official ranking, which, although it became known today, will not be published by the tennis federation until January 1, places Jacques Brugnon in fourth place. He was partnered with Cochet in the victorious men's doubles team at Wimbledon this year. M. Landry and Jean Emile Gouttess are tied for fifth place; M. George and Gentien divide seventh place; George Gouttenotre is placed ninth and Jean Samazeuilh tenth.

Mlle. Deve is given third place in the women's list; Mlles. Descieries and Grassin and Mmes. Golding and Caussard are tied for fourth place and Mmes. Lebesnerais, LaForia and Mlle. Conquet are tied for the last three places.

LENGLEN DROPPED

The elimination of Mlle. Lenglen and Paul Feret from the ranking has aroused much discussion among tennis followers, most of whom feel that they are out of

WHAT a red-letter day. The Cardinal of Stanford battling the Crimson Tide of Alabama in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena! To carry out the color scheme it should be a bloody battle.

Which of the "Scarlet Letters" will win, the "S" or the "A"? Will the boys who fight for their alma mammy at Tuscaloosa? I think they will, but then, I'm probably prejudiced, because I went to Stanford. But I base my belief on these two reasons: Pop Warner, and the fact that I think Stanford has a better team than last year, while Alabama has one not quite as good as the eleven that beat Washington by one point last New Year's Day. In the first place, when Pop Warner points for a specific game, his rivals had better look out. In my estimation he is easily one of the three greatest coaches in the country (yes, Rockne and Yost are the other two); and though Wallace Wade has made an enviable record at Alabama, probably losing fewer games than Pop has in the last five years, yet for all around smartness and coaching genius, the palm must go to Mr. Warner.

As far as this year's teams go, in comparison to last, Stanford has lost the one and only Ernie Nevers, around whom the whole Stanford attack was built in 1925. Hence Stanford is a better team this year; because, paradoxical though it may sound, it has three men nearly as good as Nevers, who give better team play and more versatility than two mediocre halfbacks assisting one truly great player. WARNER WORKS GRIDDERS ON OCCIDENTAL FIELD

Stanford Subs Use Alabama Plays in Strenuous Practice; Reserve Strength Big Factor

BY PAUL LOWRY

"Pop" Warner gave the slip to the newspaper sleuths yesterday and ducked over to Occidental College, where the Stanford varsity engaged the Alabama team, impersonated by the Cardinal subs, in a sort of afternoon preview of the Warner boys' stopping the Tide's plays tomorrow.

There was considerable difference, between yesterday's affair and the ordinary practice affair. "Pop" didn't let any of the scribes know anything about it, which is "comme il faut" in Hollywood press agent circles.

He was supposed to drill his boys in the morning at the Rose Bowl, but the only Stanford persons who appeared on the place were Wallace Denny, the trainer, who came into the stadium carrying a suspicious looking blue denim bag; Graduate Manager Al Masters, and Advisory Coach Boles.

Just to show you the seriousness of this New Year's football business, Boles, who had not been with the team since the evening before, was ignorant of the switch in plans. He arrived at the Bowl with friends, who drove away and were to meet him after practice. He had a nice walk of two hours in the hot sun.

DOUBLE NUMBER OF PLAYERS ON TEAMS

George Cline, S.C.G.A. teams chairman, expects to drop the starting flag for contesting clubs in the new golf league, next Wednesday. The number of players representing respective clubs will be doubled and with sixteen contestants, the Nassau system of scoring will be dropped and each one of the sixteen individual two-man team matches will count one point.

All play will be on one division, four teams to a group, and play has been divided among eight groups. Group winners will play after the home and home schedule is completed. Group winners will play elimination matches over neutral courses for the league championship, which will be more representative this year than ever before.

The team form of competition is the best thing in the world for golf—and golfers, and George Cline is entitled to the entire support of all Southern California golfers. At all play will be from scratch, every member of a club will have a chance to make his home team and the ensuing competition should do much to foster a better spirit in local circles.

Fred Yoakum, Flintridge; Dr. Paul Hunter, Annandale; Tex Schramm, San Gabriel; Otis Hoyt, Virginia; W. H. Johnson, Mountain Meadows; Roy Pickford, San Diego, and Perry Ferguson, assisted Cline in drawing up the forthcoming program. A complete schedule for the 1927 season will be issued tomorrow.

Clubs have been classified as follows:

Group 1—Victoria, Redlands, Red Hills, Redlands, Santa Ana.
Group 2—Del Mesa, Commerce, Long Beach, Virginia.
Group 3—San Fedro, Palos Verdes, Fairview, Elk Horn.
Group 4—Los Angeles, Rancho, Wilshire, Bel-Air.

Shift, Huddle to be Ruled on at Confab

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—While no radical changes in football rules are contemplated or considered necessary for 1927, legislation dealing with alleged evils of the huddle method of calling signals and the shift will be considered by the national football rules committee, its chairman, Edward K. Hall, declared today in his annual report.

Hall's report, submitted to the annual convention of the national collegiate A. A., contained a vigorous defense of the forward pass, to which he said "we are indebted in a very substantial degree for the greatly increased and widely diversified strategy of the modern game."

For this reason the report pointed out "artificial restrictions on its use, which, in turn, necessarily impair its value as a threat, must be approached only with the greatest of care."

The chairman prefaced his report by pointing to the beneficial effects of changes made in the rules last year.

championship he was last year. The field this year will be much faster, and William will have to play better golf—and more of it.

Eddie Loos of Cleveland and Ed Dudley of Oklahoma City are going to be two of the most dangerous challengers in the play. Al Watrous, Joe Turnesa and Johnny Farrell have more than an outside chance of copping the title—and just how it is possible to overlook Leo Diegel, Harry Cooper, Willie Hunter, Cyril Walker, Dick Linares, George Martin, MacDonald Smith, Bobbie Cruickshank, John Golden and Mike Brady is not apparent at this time.

The field starting play early this morning ranks second only to recent national championships. The class of the play will depend much upon the first eighteen-hole round of all contestants, and the weeding-out process will get under way in the second of the scheduled three rounds Sunday morning. Many of the best players in the championship will qualify today, with Diegel and Cooper sharing honors in a smaller field tomorrow.

Revised pairings are as follows:

SOCCER TEAMS TO CLASH

San Francisco Players Headed This Way for Tilts at Loyola Field With Locals

Fifteen San Francisco soccer players will make the trip south for the two-game series with a local eleven to be played tomorrow and Sunday at Loyola Field. Twelve of these are recruited from clubs in the San Francisco League and three from the East Bay League.

The selected players are as follows: Bigarahi, goal; Ackroyd and Logan, backs; Muircroft, Chalmers, English, Zboyovsky, halfbacks; Orr, Forbes, Hay, MacDonald, Davidson, Foster, Moran and Good, forwards.

It is the intention of the visiting officials to play a wholly San Francisco eleven in the first game of the series and to substitute the three players from the East Bay League in the Sunday game.

The local team looks exceptionally good on paper and there does not seem to be a weak spot from goal to vanguard. The home goal will be defended by Southern, Brown and Scholl. Brown and Scholl combine craft, experience and aggressiveness, Brown having the craft and experience and Scholl, youth, strength and fire.

With the exception of Allen, who is unable to play because of injuries sustained in the game at San Francisco, the halfback line will be the same one which stopped the northern forwards in their tracks last Sunday. Its composition is Cook, Coopland and Stewart.

Whatever the outcome, the series gives promise of being the outstanding soccer event of the season. Los Angeles so far holds a slight edge, having defeated the northerners last week, and are ruling a slight favorite. The kick-off in both games is scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

AL MALAIKAH TEMPLE WILL ELECT SATURDAY

Prisoner Wins Baby Handicap at Tia Juana

TIA JUANA RACE TRACK (B. C., Mex.) Dec. 30.—Prisoner, a California 2-year-old, racing in the colors of S. Hunt, won the Expectation Handicap, feature race at six furlongs here today. Architect, owned by Col. Phil T. Chinn, was a length and a half back for the place, with his stable mate, Golden Lux, a close third. Time, 1:13 1-5.

Prisoner was the first away at the lifting of the barrier, but was forced to take back at the first turn, but raced around under the excellent piloting of Jockey Taplin the rest of the way, and rushed through the stretch to head Architect and hold him safely to the wire. First race, five and one-half furlongs, purse $600: Prisoner (Taplin), 5 years old, 107 pounds, S. Hunt, owner, 1; Architect (Mooney), 5 years old, 107 pounds, Col. Phil T. Chinn, owner, 2; Golden Lux (Schaefer), third. Time, 1:07 4-5.

JIM LONDOS SIGNS TO TACKLE PAUL JONES ON OLYMPIC MAT

Lou Daro finally brought Jimmy Londos to terms yesterday via telegraph between Los Angeles and Memphis, Tenn., and the Greek heavyweight will wrestle Paul Jones, the Texan, on the opening card of the 1927 season at the Olympic Auditorium. The lid-lifting wrestling program will be staged on January 13, with Daro presenting an all-star line-up of four matches.

According to Daro, Jones was eager to get a return match with Londos, but the promoter ran into a snag when he tried to induce the Greek to trade holds with the Texan. Londos, it seems, received no little punishment from the hook body scissors and split holds of Jones in their encounter two months ago, and Lou Daro had to make a big financial inducement to get Jimmy to consent to another meeting.

Daro believes he has obtained a real feature for his opening ceremonies. The first meeting of Jones, who is a youngster on his way to the heavyweight championship, and Londos, a veteran, was a pip from the standpoint of action. Each man scored a fall, Jones getting his through use of a hook body scissors, and Londos turning the trick with his well-known headlock. Jones, however, was rendered unconscious from the headlocks and was unable to come back for the third fall and the referee raised Londos's hand in token of victory.

OFFICIALS CALLED LAZY

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—Football officials are getting "too fat and lazy," in the opinion of Maj. Frank Cavanaugh, Fordham gridiron coach. W. B. Alexander of Georgia Tech, supporting Cavanaugh with a recommendation that they keep in better physical condition, has told the American Football Coaches' Association that "in many cases they have been 'out on their feet' before a game was over."

BRUIN CAGERS PLAY IDAHO

Recovering rapidly from their first days after defeating the Oregon Aggie quintet Wednesday night, Coach Caddy Works's University of California at L. A. quintet is working hard perfecting its attack for the University of Idaho game to be played in the Olympic Auditorium at 8:30 tomorrow night. The Vandals are reported to have a peppy team and the Bruins are expected to lose unless they play up to their game against the Farmers.

GOTHAM'S BETS SET MARK

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—New York betting commissioners have contributed a new chapter to 1926 sport reviews with an estimate of $25,000,000 as the total of this year's wagers on athletic events and elections. The Dempsey-Tunney fight, on which they claim $8,000,000 changed hands, led the list.

JUNIORS CLASH FOR NET TITLE

Gotham Tennis Stars Battle on Baltimore Courts

Seligson Defends Laurels in Match With Shields

Coen and Woods After Boys' Indoor Championship

BALTIMORE (Md.) Dec. 30. (AP)—Julius Seligson of New York, title defender, and Frank Shields, who also hails from Gotham, will fight it out New Year's Day on the Fifth Regiment Armory's board court for national junior indoor tennis supremacy. On the same court tomorrow Wilbur F. Coen of Kansas City, who is national boys' outdoor champion, and Sydney Wood, young New Yorker, seeded No. 2 to the Missourian, will battle for the boys' national indoor title.

Seligson today in the semifinal round of the national indoor junior and boys' tennis championships hurled aside his most dangerous opponent in the lower brackets—Eddie Jacobs of Baltimore. Henry Johnson of Boston slipped to the underside of a three-set match when Shields won ten of his own service games. Billy Jacobs, previous to his brother's defeat in the junior division, fell before Wood in the semifinal boys' round, 6-2, 6-3. Henry Clabaugh, Maryland champion, was Coen's victim, Coen's driving service won, 6-4, 6-0.

In the junior event, Eddie Jacobs, after solving Seligson's service sufficiently in the first set to hold the New Yorker to a 6-4 score, broke through in the second to take two games from the champion's racket and clinch the set for himself at 7-5.

In the third set, however, his power apparently ebbing, and his nervousness increasing, he was able to save only one game, the match-ending game was featured by an unerring backhand.

Shields called upon his battering service to defeat Johnson, allowing him only 7 points in the first set. The Bostonian pulled his match out of the fire temporarily in the second, when, with the score 5-3 against him, he out through the New Yorker for five straight games, to win the set 7-5. Shields took the third, 6-4.

Johnson and Malcolm Hill of Boston tomorrow will meet Alphonso Smith of Annapolis and Eddie Jacobs in the doubles finals. Hill and Johnson today defeated Coen, paired with Donald Strachan of Philadelphia, and Jacobs and A. Smith defeated Shields and Everett Smith of New York.

MASK MARVEL ENTERS CATALINA SWIM RACE

Here's a new one for the book. Los Angeles has seen all sorts of mask marvels among wrestlers, boxers and magicians, but a new one loomed over the horizon yesterday in the person of an entrant for the Catalina swim. The new masked individual appeared at the Catalina swim headquarters and offered his entry for the long swim but insisted on wearing a mask while making the attempt. Officials in charge accepted his entry as there is nothing in the rules that forbids one from wearing a mask or even a bathing suit. It was rumored yesterday that the masked swimmer probably punched a whale in the nose some time ago, and is perhaps afraid of being recognized by the mammal or some of its kin while he is heading for Catalina.

EASTERN ELEVEN FAVORED OVER WEST IN BAY CITY SHRINE G

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Scrimmage appeared on today's practice program of the eastern football team which meets an all-star western eleven in the annual East-West charity game here New Year's Day — a benefit for the Shriners' crippled children's hospital.

The eastern squad worked out for two hours and at its conclusion "Navy Bill" Ingram, head coach, expressed the belief that the team from the sunrise side of the Rockies was one of the strongest assembled in years. He said the boys were "full of business" and out to retrieve honors lost last year at the hands of the westerners.

While the visiting team kept up a heavy training schedule, the western delegation began tapering off on their practice sessions and Coach Orin E. Hollingberry called it a day after an hour and a half of work. It included a light dummy scrimmage.

Those who have watched the teams in action favor the easterners by odds of 10 to 8 despite the fact that their rivals will have an average weight advantage of ten pounds per man.

RABBIT PUNCHES

WHAT'S Stanford going to do about tackles next year when Harris and Poulson graduate this coming spring? Put that question to some one on the inside of the situation and listen to the snicker.

Seilman and Artman. Those are the babies. The former hails from the home town of George Bogue, San Mateo, and weighs 200 pounds on the hoof. Artman is from Long Beach and weighs in without his B. V. D.'s at 212 pounds. Seilman stopped the U.S.C. team this year. He and Artman are counted on to make Stanford 50 per cent stronger at the tackle berth in 1927. Poor old "Pop" Warner!

With the New Year's Day game only a day away it may seem somewhat out of line to talk professional football. But on the George Wilson "Wildcat" team, which Champ Pickens personally escorted into town Tuesday, there are several luminaries who performed in first-of-the-year classics at Pasadena in by-gone seasons, and shone with great luster.

The list is quite impressive. Here it is:

George Wilson (Washington;) halfback, played against Navy, January 1, 1924, and Alabama, January 1, 1926. Abe Wilson, his brother (Washington;) guard; played against Navy and Alabama. Chalmers Walters (Washington;) center; played against Navy, January 1, 1924. Jim Lawson (Stanford;) end; played against Notre Dame, January 1, 1925. Harry Shipkey (Stanford;) tackle; played against Notre Dame, January 1, 1925. Walden Erickson (Washington;) tackle; played against Navy, January 1, 1924. Chuck Johnston (Stanford;) tackle; played against Notre Dame January 1, 1925. "Duke" Morrison (California;) fullback of Andy Smith's "Wonder Teams;" played against Ohio State, January 1, 1921, and Washington and Jefferson, January 1, 1922.

Joe Levy wants a soapbox to tell the world that the newspapers are keeping it secret about the fight between Harry "Kid" Brown and Johnny Adams at the Olympic next week. Of course Joe doesn't understand the tremendous interest in football and that while there are 56,000 persons who will attend the New Year's Day football game tomorrow there are 56,000 more who would if they could. All Joe can think of is the licking Brown gave Baby Joe Gans, the conqueror of Mushy Callahan, the junior welterweight champion.

My old friend Jim Dougherty, who always has a tough time remembering names and the way to spell 'em writes Paul Tourney as follows: Bobby Barrett knocked out George Jackson in the second round at Brooklyn. No need for feeling insulted because Jim calls the heavyweight champion Gene Toomey and Paul Berlenbach is referred to as Paul Bertleback.

CARDINALS IN OXY WORKOUT

were in safe and sound and that the warp in the goal posts had been removed.

It seems that the same goal posts have been doing noble duty for so many years at the Bowl that they just naturally became bowlegged from exposure to the elements. This condition might have caused a good-looking goal kick to go astray and as soon as the technicians made this important discovery steps were immediately taken to rectify it.

While he was waiting patiently in the sun for his friends to return and motor him back to the hotel, Brother Bolen went on record to the effect that Stanford will win tomorrow's tussle.

Bolen has been with Stanford this fall not so much because Stanford needed any more coaches, but because he wanted to learn of the Warner system. Bolen coaches at Worcester, but took a year's leave of absence to catch on for a season with "Pop."

"POP" GREATEST COACH

He is leaving Stanford to go back to Wooster, but he does so with the thought that "Pop" is the greatest coach in the country.

He says he doesn't believe Alabama has met the stern competition Stanford has faced this year, and Stanford will be smarter under fire.

He raves about the Stanford material, and particularly the reserves. For example, he points out that Tom Work, the high jumper, is about a seventh-string halfback, and yet on any team where the coach has a chance to work with him Work has possibilities of being a great star. However, this year he has rarely entered a game, but is powerful both offensively and defensively.

SWEDE RISBERG IS CHALLENGED to the commissioner" printed in today's newspapers.

"Landis and the big bosses of baseball don't want to know the facts," the newspapers said Risberg, who was ousted from organized baseball in 1920 along with the other "Black Sox" of the Chicago team of 1919, said. "This is a challenge to the commissioner, let's see what he'll do about it."

The following telegram represents what the commissioner did:

"Papers print statement purporting to come from you to the effect that you can give information that will implicate twenty big-leaguers who never before have been mentioned in connection with crookedness. Assuming that you made the statement, I earnestly request you to come here with the facts. Fair compensation for your time and expenses guaranteed.

"Wire collect when you may be expected, the earlier the better.

TIDE'S DEFENSE MAY WIN GAME

Alabama Fans Place Hopes on Powerful Line

Wade's Team No Slouch on Offense Either

Expect Brown and Taylor to Display Class

big gun of Alabama's defense in 1926. All in all the line is stronger.

Supporters of the Tide contend that this year's game will be even more spectacular than the Washington encounter. It's hard to figure how such things can come to pass, but we're willing to be shown. They figure that Stanford is a more spectacular team than was Washington and they believe that the Redshirts are just as sure in their own minds of winning as were the Huskies. In addition, Alabama fans believe that this year's team is more sensational than the 1925 outfit and that it will accordingly uncork more surprises than Johnny Mack Brown and "Pooley" Hubert did.

NO JOHNNY MACK BROWN

Someone has said that Alabama has no one to compare with Johnny Mack Brown. Maybe they haven't, but there are a lot of folks from the South who confidently expect either Archie Taylor or Johnny's younger brother, Tolbert, to provide the same excitement that the black-haired halfback did a year ago. Taylor, they say, has never failed to deliver at least one touchdown in a game, generally doing his scoring act after receiving a pass or on the return of a punt. When remarking that Alabama has no Johnny Mack Brown, it might be well to remember that few people hereabouts gave Johnny Mack a tumble before the Washington game.

Players like Johnny Mack don't bloom every year and it will indeed be unusual if either Taylor the younger Brown can equal the Alabama star's performance of last season. However, those who have watched Archie and "Red" in their southern game opine that either or both will find Stanford plenty to worry about.

"Blocking and tackling will win the game for Alabama." Such was the word from a former Alabama player last night. "Wade's teams are almost letter perfect in this respect and Stanford players are going to get knocked down oftener Saturday than they ever were before in their lives." It will be recalled that the Tide did some pretty efficient blocking last season. Stories from the South during the past season have repeatedly stressed Alabama's devastating blocking and tackling and the boys must be pretty good in these departments.

SPEEDY BACKFIELD

Much of Alabama's defensive success comes about as a result of that speedy backfield. Teams which have been unable to gain through the line have resorted to passes, much to their sorrow, for Capt. Barnes, Brown and Vines cover a lot of territory and specialize in interception aerial efforts. No team facing Stanford could have a better defensive combination than a stout line and a fast backfield. Alabama's backs are much swifter than U.S.C.'s and Stanford connected for only one long gain in this game, Hyland out-speeding Lloyd Thomas to take the ball and score a touchdown. Of course, Stanford's overhead offense is undoubtedly much more polished now than it was in October and nobody denies that the Tidemen will have their hands full and their legs occupied staving off Biff Hoffman's lengthy tosses.

Wade is not pleased with the condition of his team, but does not mean about it. "The boys are not as good as when we left home," he says. "Why, I don't know. I hope they will improve Friday when we'll hold our last practice."

RED WILL BE ORDER OF DAY

Hyland and Hoffman have developed tremendously over last year, and are probably the equal in all-around play of any three backs on any team in the country.

Opposed to these three wearers of the Cardinal will be three who wear the crimson of Alabama in more ways than one. "Red" Barnes, the captain; "Red" Brown, a brother of the famous "Johnny Mack;" and "Red" Caldwell, all sport the color of hair made famous by "Brick" Muller and "Red" Grange. Foxy players, these three sorrel-tops—which reminds me that, like A. A. Milne's famous foxes, "they don't wear stockings and they don't wear sockses." The Alabama team is a bunch of bare-legged, titian-haired beauties—but they will miss Pooley Hubert, Johnny Mack Brown and Grant Gillis more than Stanford will miss Ernie Nevers.

The end play should feature this game, too, with all-American players like Shipkey of Stanford and Winslett of Alabama opposed to each other. Let's go!

QUINN WANTS "CLEAN SPORTS" BODY NAMED

BOSTON, Dec. 30. (AP)—President Bob Quinn of the Boston Red Sox would like to see Commissioner K. M. Landis appoint a "clean sports" ambassador to instill the ethics of sport in the players of both major baseball leagues, the Boston Herald says.

Quinn's idea, the paper says, involves the appointment of an old-time baseball player of character, ability and personality to make the rounds of the big league cities talking to the players of every club at least once a month on their responsibility of keeping the game on a high plane both on and off the field.

SUDS WILL HAVE FIVE NEW MEN NEXT SPRING

SEATTLE (Wash.) Dec. 30. (AP)—When the Seattle Coast League baseball club starts training at Bakersfield, Cal., February 27, it will have four new pitchers and a third baseman, President Lockard announced here today upon his return from an eastern tour. Deals have not been completed. Gus Redmon, Hollywood catcher, is listed for release.

OBSERVATIONS

POP WARNER of Stanford has succeeded more than any coach we have ever seen in convincing the student body and alumni of the school at which he teaches the fine art of football that he can do no wrong. To a very large degree the late Andy Smith at California was held in the same high regard but we've never seen the equal of the hold Pop has on everybody connected with the Cardinal institution. Of course, there is a very good reason for this feeling. Stanford was pasadenaed from an awful series of beatings sustained at the hands of the Golden Bears when Pop took charge and Pop immediately put himself in right with the home folks by playing a sensational tie game despite the last-minute loss of the one backfield star around whom he had built his entire offense.

The manner in which the tie was scored give rise to a large part of the stories of Pop's miraculous power. As we recollect it the Bears were leading about 20 to 6 with only five or six minutes to play when Pop put Solomon in at quarterback and with Ed Walker tossing passes and Shipkey catching them and then running wild, the score was tied. We heard one excited Stanford enthusiast explaining in hushed tones to some friend of his that Pop, when he sent Solomon in the game, had said, "Here are thirteen plays. Use them one right after the other and we'll tie the score." Well, if you can believe that you can very easily understand why the Stanford folks swear by Pop.

That's why the general opinion of Stanford rooters indicates a sure victory for the Cardinals over Alabama tomorrow. They think that no matter what kind of funny stuff Alabama pulls and no matter how overconfident and possibly undertrained the Cardinals may be, the all-powerful wisdom of the unbeatable Pop Warner will ooze out from the bench in time to accomplish the downfall of the Alabama Crimson Tide.

And the funny part of it to us is that Alabama seems to have exactly the same feeling about Wallace Wade. The southerners point out the fact that after Wade had a chance to give them some instructions between halves, they rushed right out and trampled all over the Huskies and they apparently anticipate that the kind of medicine practiced by Miracle Man Wade is every bit as strong as that put out by the Miracle Man from Palo Alto.

WAR DECLARED ON A.A.U. BODY

other sports over which it claims jurisdiction.

"It is my belief," he asserted, "that the A.A.U. cannot succeed in its efforts to perpetuate its system of control upon amateur sports. It is un-American and out of date. It places responsibility for amateurism upon the individual instead of on the organization he represents. The athletics of the United States have become too well and completely organized to make it necessary or desirable that every athlete should be required by the order of a foreign organization (the International Amateur Athletic Federation, with which the A.A.U. is affiliated) to sign a registration card and pay a fee to the A.A.U. before he can compete in the Olympic Games."

Withdrawal of the N.C.A.A. from the Olympic organization, following upon similar action by the National Amateur Athletic Federation, will result, for the present, at least, only in a policy of "passive resistance," Gen. Pierce explained. Active opposition, he added, would be favored only "if it became apparent that college undergraduates would be harmed rather than benefited by going to the 1928 Olympics."

An echo of alleged misbehavior by American athletes in connection with the 1912 Olympics, at Stockholm, because of "lack of proper supervision" entered the discussion when E. L. Mercer, now of Swarthmore, who competed in the 1912 games, recounted incidents of the trip.

"There was too much gambling among the athletes," Mercer said, "and there was drunkenness among them to a considerable extent after they had finished participation in their particular events." Mercer stressed the fact that he did not blame any individual executive for the conditions he described, but pointed them out to emphasize the need of proper control.

amateur tennis for life, or as long as the present committee rules over the French Tennis Federation. Pierre Gillou, French Davis Cup captain and one of the most influential men of the federation, is known to be absolutely opposed to recognition of amateurs who turn professionals.

In sports circles it is declared to be evident, although the tennis officials failed to go on record flatly on the subject, that the French Tennis Federation waited for a ruling by the United States Lawn Tennis Association concerning Vincent Richards and Mary Browne, American players who turned professionals, before taking a position concerning Suzanne and Feret.

"These players decided to live their own tennis lives," the federation president, M. Canet, said to the Associated Press today. "The French federation must ignore them for the time being."

Asked if this implied future reinstallation in the amateur ranks, M. Canet was silent, but another official remarked that the federation was guided by the United States Lawn Tennis Association motion on Richards.

CAMPAIGN FOR TITLE GO STARTS

Fugazy Makes Overtures to Tunney for Battle in Polo Grounds

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—The long-winded process of building up a championship heavyweight battle for

GENE TUNNEY

Gene Tunney next summer got under way today. Humbert Fugazy made the first formal offer for the battle between the champion and the leading heavyweight contender to be held at the Polo Grounds. Fugazy did not mention the name of Jack Delaney, but this is the fighter he expects will stand out over all the heavyweights and will fight Tunney for his title. Tunney signed no agreement with Fugazy and is open to receive any other offers which may be forthcoming. Fugazy's offer was for a percentage of the receipts, according to the State boxing laws. Fugazy's offer, it is understood, was made on the basis of a $1,500,000 gate, 27½ per cent of which would give Tunney more than $400,000.

At the same time that Tunney was listening to Fugazy's offer and the flashlights of the cameramen were popping at the conference in the champion's suite at the Hotel Breslin, Tex Rickard announced that he had taken a lease on the Yankee Stadium for the season of 1927. It is Rickard's claim that he can provide a greater seating capacity at the home of the Yankees, and will be able to make a more attractive offer than Fugazy when the proper time comes.

LEWIS AND MUNN TO CONFER ON REFEREE

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Ed Strangler Lewis, heavyweight wrestling champion and Wayne Big Munn will meet with the athletic commission tomorrow to discuss the question of a referee for their title match Monday night at the Coliseum. However, neither Lewis nor Munn will know who the official will be until they step into the ring. All either of them can do is to ask that a man with years of experience and one who knows wrestling from every angle be the third man within the ropes when they clash.

BROWN NEVER KAYOED

Easterner Not Worrying Over Johnny Adams' Healthy Right Fist in Olympic Auditorium Go

A boxer who never has been knocked out in more than 125 fights, Harry "Kid" Brown of Philadelphia is not worrying about the heavy artillery which Johnny Adams, San Bernardine lightweight, will train on him in their ten-round fight at the Olympic Auditorium next Tuesday night.

Brown's record is remarkable and indicates how it happened that he was able to upset the dope a few weeks ago and win from Baby Joe Gans and Young Harry Wills. In addition to two no-decision bouts with Sammy Mandell and a draw battle with Sid Terris, the stocky Philadelphian has beaten Johnny Dundee, Jimmy Goodrich, Billy Wallace, Alex Hart, Archie Walker and other first raters.

HARRY "KID" BROWN

Brown fought on the Coast for the first time a few weeks ago, while Adams has never been in eastern rings. Adams's wins over Ace Hudkins and Tommy O'Brien in his last two bouts here have made him an even choice with Brown next Tuesday night.

Billy Harma, the middleweight knockout artist from San Francisco, has been made a slight favorite over the veteran, Billy Atkinson, whom he is scheduled to travel six rounds with in the semi-wind-up.

AL CORBETT VICTOR

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Al Corbett, Sacramento heavyweight, scored a decision over Larry Serratti of Jackson, Cal., in a six-round bout at National Hall here last night.

ROSENBERG POSTS FORFEIT TO MEET BUSHY GRAHAM APRIL 4

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—The boxing commission today accepted Charlie Phil Rosenberg's certified check for $2500 which the bantamweight champion posted as a forfeit for his title bout with Bushy Graham. Upon the champion's request the commission again changed the date for the clash, postponing the fray from January 14 to April 4.

However, the commission decided that everything would not be to Rosenberg's liking. The moguls decided that if Rosenberg does not make the 118-pound weight, he will lose his title regardless of the result of the bout. Should he fail to make the weight and be out-pointed by Graham, the latter will be recognized as the bantam king. If Rosenberg is overweight, but victorious, the title will be declared vacated.

COACHES CONVENE HERE

Coaches representing universities, colleges and high schools from all points west of the Rocky Mountains convene today at the Biltmore in the annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Association of the National Football Coaches' Association. Howard Jones, head football coach at U.S.C., is president of the Pacific Coast body and will preside at today's meeting. Actions of the recently concluded coaches' meeting in the East, at which Wills O. Hunter of U.S.C. and Bill Spaulding of Southern Branch were local delegates, will be discussed.

Lomski Gets Ready for Go With Flowers

Leo Lomski will box Joe Anderson in Portland on January 1 and immediately after the bout depart for Los Angeles to start training for his forthcoming bout with "Tiger" Flowers at Wrigley Field on January 22.

Eddie Eicher, Lomski's manager, has sent Dick Donald, promoter of the show, his signed contract and agreed to all of the promoter's terms. The Aberdeen lad is taking the bout with Anderson to prime him for his shot at Flowers.

The negro is in Marietta, Ga., and Walk Miller, his manager, has wired Donald that his signed contract is on the way to Los Angeles via air mail and it should arrive here either today or tomorrow.

Flowers has been resting since he lost his title and he wants the Lomski fight to ascertain whether or not he can come back.

DIRT DRIVERS SET FOR RACE

Banning Classic Attracts Speedway Performers

Twenty-seven Stars Entered in Annual Gallop

Seven Events Scheduled on Tomorrow's Program

With their motors tuned up high and awaiting the wave of Eddie Meyer's red flag, twenty-seven of the country's foremost dirt-track automobile racing kings are prepared for the race of their lives tomorrow afternoon at Banning.

The American Legion speedway, one of the finest west of Chicago, has been groomed into perfect shape and records on that kind of a track are certain to be established when these speed kings open up.

For tomorrow the Legion has sent for Mel Kneasley, world's champion dirt-track driver and the famous Hooker special. This youngster who hails from Miami, Fla., will find the field working against him and in that field of entries there are eight or ten drivers who will give him all the driving that Kneasley will want.

Johnny Vickers, who hails from Pomona, will bear watching. This lad has a very fast car and only recently turned the Ascot oval in twenty-eight seconds. Dale Pease of Redlands will have the whole town back of him. Mike Admire, Beaumont's champion, is another popular speed king.

But, the big fight lays between Lou Moore in his Frosty special, Ted Simpson in the "Dizzy 100," Speed Hinckley in Pop Evans's special and Ed Winnfield in one of his own creations.

The races are to start at 2 p.m. Seven events ranging from one to thirty laps are down for the program. According to reports from the auto club the roads are in excellent shape.

CHICAGO PROF MAKES ATTACK ON FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—Intercollegiate football was attacked today as a breeder of manifold evils by E. H. Wilkins, University of Chicago professor.

Speaking before the annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, he indicted the game on five counts, charging that it produces overexcitement among students, distorts their sense of values, intensifies the drinking evil, fosters betting and prompts surreptitious maintenance of players.

Prof. Wilkins suggested that these alleged conditions could be remedied by limiting players to only one year of competition, or two at the most; by cutting schedules to a four-game basis or providing only for competition between class teams.

EXPLORERS FIND MAPS OF WILDERNESS DISAGREE

Americans to Pierce Mountain Area of Abyssinia Where Savages Test Travelers' Nerve

[The scientific expedition into Abyssinia, sponsored by the Field Museum of Natural History, the Chicago Daily News, and North American Newspaper Alliance, of which The Times is a member, is now in Addis Ababa, capital of the country. The expedition consists of four scientists and Jack Baum, reporter.]

BY JACK BAUM

[Copyright, 1926, by North American Newspaper Alliance in United States and Canada; in Great Britain by the London Chronicle; in all other countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 25. (By Mail, Exclusive)—When doctors disagree it is time to call in the undertaker. But when maps disagree and one shows water where the other informs you there is nothing but sun and sand, there is no way to find out but to go and see for yourself.

We have been poring over English, German and French maps of Abyssinia. Each insults the other two. A mountain range, beautifully drawn, lies in a certain position on one. The other two have large streams flowing directly through that section. If the first is right then the streams must flow up hill, over the top of the range, and go rambling down the other side.

We are planning the route of our first hunt down in the Arrusi country and on south toward Lake Rudolph and the borders of British East. The Challalo Mountains of Arrusi are reported to be the home of the mountain nyala, or Queen of Sheba's antelope. The Field Museum must have a group of these. Whether to pass west of Lake Zwai, or east of that body of water, is a great question. West of the lake there is a caravan route but no game with the exception of small buck and common antelope. East of the lake there is reported to be more game but very rough going. The maps are totally at variance about this section. Is quite probable that none of them is right. We'll have to make our own map as we go, I suppose.

South of Lake Zwai is even more a terra incognita. The course of a stream called the Webi Shebeli is dotted clearly enough on our maps, but unfortunately, in a widely different place in each one. There is water on the Shebeli, so says rumor around Addis. But water only at certain places.

Report also has it that many lions, a plentiful sprinkling of leopards; greater jkudu, zebra, bushbuck, bushpig and rhino are found along the Webi Shebeli. But the course of the Shebeli can be found without much trouble, regardless of the disagreement of maps, by careful inspection of the country from the high peaks of the Arrusi or Challalo Mountains.

MUST AVOID KILLING GODS

The Shebeli rises in the deep canyons and flows out across the broad plains almost due eastward. All three maps seem to agree in placing it near enough to the mountains so its course, for a great distance, could be traced through the grass from the 12,000-foot peaks of Arrusi.

We intend to go southward from the Shebeli, circle a gigantic forest that is said to be so thick that it is necessary to hack your way through at the rate of two or three miles a day. We have no intention of wasting time in such a jungle. We can obtain the birds and animals that inhabit those sombre, wooded depths, by camping along its fringe and making short trips in. We hope to find condi ions of water, grass and native disposition such as to enable us to go on southwest toward Rudolph, almost as far as the Boran country.

The whole Arrusi trip, including the southward jaunt, will take, with luck, about three months. It should net us nyala, rhino, lion, several species of small antelope and gazelle, snakes, cobras, mambas and others for the museum, besides a lot of experience. There are many sections in Abyssinia in which the natives believe in the existence of a mythical monster, usually a huge water snake, inhabiting a swamp or reedy lake. In such places they sacrifice to the monster regularly, killing a sheep, goat or cow. Where such superstition flourishes you must be careful. Driven by fear of retaliation by the egre after the white men leave, the natives do everything in their power to prevent encroachment on the god's preserves.

If we run into such a hotbed of fanaticism and find it important to collect birds and mammals in the locality, the utmost diplomacy must be used. Natives who would not think of causing trouble in the ordinary course of events are liable to strange and dangerous seizures when you monkey with their venerated objects.

ABYSSINIAN HUMOR ROUGH

There is a somewhat trying form of Abyssinian humor, also, in vogue in some places to the southward. Abyssinians admire nerve, and they have a way of testing you out. It is not uncommon to have a horde of them rush your camp, shouting and brandishing spears, giving a perfectly good imitation of an attack, but with no intention of harm. They sometimes carry it to the point of shaking spears within six inches of your face, yelling like demons.

If you retreat into your tent, if in camp, or level a rifle, they laugh and the joke is on you. However, if you know them, face the racket with a bored expression, and don't bother to take the gun that your gun-bearer holds behind you, they acquire an instant respect and the first thing you know here comes a long line of carriers bearing gifts of chickens, tej, native bear, and even driving sheep or cows for meat.

The few killings of white men that have occurred and they are extremely few—have almost invariably been due to the white man's not knowing native customs; taking such a demonstration at its face value and starting trouble.

A Frenchman killed not far south of the Arrusi a short time ago was the victim of an unfortunate misunderstanding on his own part, according to all reports. While traveling through the country he got lost from his caravan and wandered around the hills for days. He finally came upon a group of Gallas, perfectly peaceful and friendly people.

LOOKED LIKE BRIGAND

His appearance, however, clothes torn to shreds by thorn and brush, helmet gone, a head covering of brush and leaves made by himself as a protection against the sun, led the natives to think he was one of a band of "shiftas," or brigands, operating at times in those parts. When he called to them they fled. He was in dire need of assistance, and perhaps partly out of his head from starvation. He shot, wounding one.

They returned and speared him. Then, sure they had killed a brigand, they bore the unfortunate man's body in triumph to the village. The local chief knew at once that the victim was a European and that things would be popping around there soon. There is nothing that Abyssinia hates more than to be mixed up with a European power in some such affair. The more intelligent chiefs are fully alive to the danger and, barring accidents and misunderstandings, a white man is safe enough.

SLAYER SAYS HE RESIDED IN WHITTIER

Hassell Denies He Knows Woman Who Wrote About Disappearance of Sister

LUBBOCK (Tex.) Dec. 30. (AP)—George Hassell tonight told Sheriff Faith of Plainview that he once lived in Whittier, Cal., where police are searching for bodies of a woman and three children whom Hassell said he killed ten years ago, the Sheriff said over long distance telephone. He declared, however, that in which Mrs. George Hofman of Pittsburgh, who wrote an Albuquerque newspaper that her sister disappeared from Whittier after Hassell, her husband, sent her pictures of his wife and children, saying she would "never see them again."

Hassell disclaimed all knowledge of the pictures in question, Sheriff Faith said, stating that Hassell refused to give his Whittier address or admit that the killings occurred there.

Hassell was taken to Plainview from Farwell, where his wife and eight step-children were slain, for safekeeping after he made a confession acknowledging their slaying and that of the California woman and children.

AMARILLO (Tex.) Dec. 30. (AP)—The name "Maggie," on the back of a photo, is the only available clew to the identity of four persons George J. Hassell confessed to slaying in California, the News is advised by its Farwell correspondent.

Hassell has thus far failed to divulge the names of his purported victims, whom he said he killed about ten years ago. Several pictures were found, the correspondent said, but only one bore a name.

Constable R. B. Way of Whittier last night scoffed at reports from Amarillo, Tex., to the effect that George J. Hassell confessed there to slaying four persons at Whittier.

Way, who has been a peace officer at Whittier for twenty-six years, says that in all that time there never was any report of any such crime having been committed or of four persons disappearing. Way, however, hunted through postal records and public utility records of Whittier but could find no trace of any family under the name of George J. Hassell.

COFFEE HOUSES TO COME BACK

Washington Pen Women Plan Revival

English Institution "Original Night Club"

Prominent Persons Seen at Old Establishments

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. (Exclusive) The District of Columbia branch of the League of American Pen Women will undertake next month to revive one of the famous institutions of the Elizabethan era—the coffee-house. It is an unusual experiment to determine whether there are in the national capital any considerable number of people who are interested in getting together at frequent intervals to discuss literature, art, music, politics, and similar topics. If it is successful in Washington the national organization of the Pen Women will undertake to establish the coffee-house in all the larger cities of the country.

Coffee-houses are spoken of as Elizabethan, but as a matter of fact the first one was not established until almost fifty years after the death of Queen Elizabeth, or about the middle of the seventeenth century. The exact date is not known. One authority says that a Cretan named Nathaniel Canopus first brought coffee into England and introduced it as a beverage at Balliol College, Oxford, in 1641. Another asserts that it was an English-Turkish merchant named Edwards who first brought the beverage into England, but that it was not until 1652 that he was serving it to the guests who gathered in his London home.

FIRST COFFEE HOUSE

According to this story, which is more detailed if not more authentic, Edwards found that the new drink was exceedingly popular, so much so, indeed, that burdensome demands were made upon his hospitality. Accordingly he arranged for his Greek servant, Pasqua Rosee, to open a place where the beverage would be sold and thus the first coffee house in London came into existence.

Within a few years there were coffee houses all over the city and they were looked upon very much as saloons or taverns came to be regarded two or three centuries later. Charles II tried to abolish them by a royal decree in 1675, but such a furore was aroused that he recalled his order within eight days. In 1683 it was estimated that there were at least 3000 coffee houses in London.

ORIGINAL NIGHT CLUB

The coffee house may be said to have been the first edition of the modern night club. At any rate, it was the first eating or drinking place to introduce the cover charge, to have the equivalent of a cabaret show, and to be presided over by a substitute for a hostess like Texas Guinan. It is true that the cover charge was only tuppence, that the cabaret show was nothing but conversation, and that the presiding genius was alway a man, but the coffee-house bears a comparison with the night club in at it was a place where folks went to see and hear the famous, conspicuous, or notorious persons of the day.

There was Will's, where poets, playwrights, wits, and actors assembled nightly, and where Dryden had the seat of honor for many years. Pope, when a mere lad, was taken to that coffee house merely to see Dryden.

JOHNSON'S FAVORITE INN

At the inn known as "The Devil" Ben Johnson held forth regularly, enjoying the worshipful attention of those who came to listen to his wit and wisdom even more than he did the black coffee that was served there, or the canary wine with which he regaled himself at the Mermaid Tavern across the way. At Button's Steele always entertained the company until he was tipsy, whereupon Addison would step into the breach and continue the entertainment until the small hours of morning. Savants gathered at the Grecian, and politicians at the St. James, the Turk's Head, and the Cocoa Tree. At Lockett's the gay and fashionable met to retail the gossip of the court.

The house known as Tom's boasted even more exclusive features. One could not crash the gate there unless accompanied by a member and then paying a fee of one guinea. There were 700 regular subscribers on the membership roll of Tom's at one time, and it was rumored that aside from sipping coffee the members not infrequently indulged in a bit of gambling at cards or at dice. Among the habitues were Dr. Samuel Johnson, David Garrick Arthur Murphy, Oliver Goldsmith, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Steele, Swift, Foote and other men of talent and fame.

The plaintiff contended that through her father's will in 1881, she was entitled to a fourth interest in the estate, of which, she says, she was deprived. The defendants contended that Miss Penfield's father, before his death, appointed a trustee for the property, with power to sell.

QUIET RULES ON METAL MARKET

Volume of Buying Fair at Unchanged Prices

Some Improvement Noted in Export Business

Copper for Future Delivery Slightly Higher

BY CHARLES F. WILLIS

(Editor The Mining Journal.)

Quietness prevailed in the metal market during the week before Christmas, with no material changes in price or in the strength of the prices as they stood. Copper sales continued in fair volume the activity of the former two weeks, with some improvement in foreign sales.

Copper is showing a slightly better price for future delivery, March sales, for instance, being handled at about an eighth cent advance over the present market, but there is no indication that the spring months will bring anything material in the way of price advances in copper.

According to some students of the silver situation, the recent decline in the price of silver is not wholly due to the recommendations of the Indian Currency Commission. The movement of prices downward has been heavily influenced by sales on account of China, where speculation in the metal has been in progress. The political and economic unsettlements in China have militated against an orderly consumption of silver, despite the fact that China has been a strong supporter of the market for more than a year. Unfavorable economic conditions in Europe have demoralized European currency and also contributed to the decline.

Silver has not alone declined in price, but has also been steadily dropping in production for several years. The monthly average production in the United States during 1926 is 5,050,000 ounces as against 5,116,000 ounces in 1925, 5,962,000 ounces in 1924 and 5,514,000 ounces in 1923.

SALES DROP EXPECTED

It seems certain that we may expect some falling off of domestic copper consumption. Construction contracts awarded in November showed a total of $487,012,500, a drop of 6 per cent from October business. While this is a considerable drop, it still shows very good business, even though a further decline may come.

Lead also is feeling the reaction of slower United States business, in addition to its relation to the silver slump. The stocks of refined lead on hand at 35,025 tons, which is a gain of about 10,000 tons in the last two months. This is in spite of the fact that crude production of lead has taken a considerable drop in the past month.

The monthly average production of lead during 1926 shows 58,054 for the United States and Mexico, as against 64,332 tons during 1925 and 59,501 tons during 1924.

France and Italy are reported to be almost out of the foreign market for copper, coming as a result of effort to stabilize their currency, and, upon the completion of that work, they should be back into the market heavily. Furthermore, this work will complete the currency stabilization for the major European countries.

Germany, Great Britain and Belgium are partly making up for the losses in foreign shipments to France and Italy, although there exists some resentment over the fact that European buyers of copper are paying more than the New York price for the metal, and they are slow in placing orders and will probably neglect buying until they absolutely must have the metal.

The Copper Exporters, Inc., are facing a difficult diplomatic problem in keeping European consumers in line and satisfied. Foreign deliveries during the past year have fallen 68,532 tons from the figures of 1925 and this amount has not been made up by increases in domestic consumption.

There has been a tendency on the part of United States copper mines to increase production slightly. The average monthly production for 1926 shows 72,764 tons, as against 70,176 tons average during 1925. The higher average for 1926 can be largely attributed to the three high months of March, 75,728 tons, October, 75,099 tons and November, 75,240 tons. The November production showed the highest daily average since the war, 2500 tons.

One analyst of the copper situation states:

"The statistical position of copper, as can be gathered from this analysis, is still strong, with only three months' virgin stocks on hand in the American mines, and with the big trouble of the copper situation in the past may be termed 'rivalry.' It was supposed that a more co-operative spirit would be in evidence as a result of the 'get-together' in the new association. Rivalry is not a bad thing in a situation where demand for any commodity is exceeding supply. Where it isn't, co-operation is by far the better procedure."

Investors Have No Cause for Complaint Over Economic Developments

BY RALPH HENDERSHOT

[Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Investors in this country have no valid reason for complaint over developments of the year now being brought to a close, with the possible exception that in a few instances they were obliged to turn in high-yielding called securities which it was impossible to replace.

The range of securities from which to make selections was the widest of any year in history, and in virtually every group of bonds the trend of prices was toward higher levels. Likewise, the year closes with nearly all types of bonds showing a larger margin of safety than ever before, due to the huge profits which were carried to surplus accounts.

All branches of the nation's industrial framework were prosperous beyond expectations in 1926, and this prosperity naturally found reflection in the security markets. Except for the power and lighting companies, the larger volume of business offered was handled with but an amazingly small amount of new capital outlay and even they were able to keep expenditures at a minimum through the interconnection of existing facilities. These factors played an important part in strengthening the investment position of their respective securities outstanding in the hands of the public.

DAIRY INDUSTRY IMPORT

In speaking of live-stock production and marketing, too little consideration is given to the important part of the live-stock picture occupied by the dairy section of the industry, states J. A. McNaughton, vice-president and general manager of the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards Company, in his weekly review of the live-stock situation.

"At this time there are some 700,000 dairy cows in California with a value of $46,400,000," his review states. "There are 1,300,000 beef animals in the State with the total value of $46,800,000 and 2,800,000 sheep worth $20,000,000 and 460,000 hogs worth $7,000,000, the total of which rounds out the live-stock valuation of California. The proportion of these figures applies to a large extent to other States where the development of the dairy industry has progressed to keep pace with consumer demand." The review continues:

"Despite the growth of the dairy industry in the Pacific Southwest it has not been sufficient to meet local demands which have, of course, expanded with the rapidly increasing population. The consumer demand in the Pacific Southwest not only absorbs the output of the California dairy industry, but looks to States as far east as the Rocky Mountains for supplies and this situation will undoubtedly continue for time to come, as everything indicates the continuance of the strides being made by the Pacific Coast population.

"The dairy cow bears out the truth of the statement that 'the prosperity of nations has always been in its flocks and herds.' In most sections agricultural crops are seasonal, but the dairy cow means a pay day every day and many times represents a

WALL STREET PARAGRAPHS

Performance of Atchison Revives Rumor of Dividend Boost

Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Atchison set a lively pace for the carrier stocks, advancing briskly for a gain of some 4 points, to levels near the best of the year. Resumption of aggressive buying in that stock naturally gave rise to a revival of gossip on the possibility of big developments at the meeting of directors set for next Tuesday. Officials have been more or less reticent to discuss that situation of late and in many quarters of the street belief gained that something important was in the wind. The majority view was that the stock would in all probability be placed on a $10 annual basis, against the $7 rate now being paid. That the road is fully able to order such a move is apparent from its records, but known conservatism of the board is a factor to be reckoned with.

Oils Hold Up

Despite the seriousness of the situation of oil companies with large producing properties in Mexico resulting from the refusal of that government to extend the time for the application of new regulations scheduled to go into effect on January 1, petroleum shares were quite strong as a group. Pan Americans, which is naturally most seriously affected, showed unusual strength and Standards were generally higher. Impressive buying of Marland and Union Oil of California featured the wholly domestic group.

Union Carbon and Carbide

Union Carbon and Carbide was the outstanding feature of the day among the specialties. Persistent buying lifted that stock to new high levels for the year and the street was discussing the possibilities of a further increase in the dividend rate in view of current high earnings. Only recently the company raised its dividend to $6 against the $5 rate theretofore, but, as it was currently estimated to be running at the equivalent of better than $9 a share after liberal charge-offs, many thought there was some foundation for current gossip.

Freak Southern Weather

Interesting to those who follow the weather map closely because of their activities in commodities, particularly cotton, was the more or less freak performance of the temperatures over the country. Incidentally it was remarked that such of the bear contingent in the stock market as had taken early departure for southern resorts would probably as leave have been nearer the scene of actual operations this morning. The freezing line today extended to the coast of Georgia and Alabama and lapped over into Northwestern Florida, with temperatures in some parts of that State falling under the ratios in parts of North Dakota and Minnesota. It was as low as 48 in Miami and down to 42 at Tampa.

Eastman Kodak Buying

Quiet accumulation of Eastman Kodak has been obvious for some time to those who have been keeping close watch on its action. Today it was remarked that demand was large-

LONDON, Dec. 30. (By Wireless)—The feature of the markets early today was the buoyancy in industrial stocks on the government loan, followed by a fresh government issue, and existing stocks, but the government contrived to center all the speculation on a £10,000,000 annual sinking fund, while the stock is at or under par. The actual price of the loan is of little clear. The sinking fund, however, virtually insures a constant demand, premium and tends to affect other stocks favorably.

Government issues were strong generally after the opening, while other securities were sympathetically checked. Rubbers were better and foreign issues were good.

Pan American Bank's Initial Deposits Large

Deposits of the Pan American Bank of California yesterday, the opening day, aggregated $9,128,285.17, the largest initial day's deposit total ever recorded by a new bank west of Chicago, according to a statement made late yesterday by officials of the new bank.

Commercial depositors alone numbered 815, which does not include the savings depositors. Tabulators stationed at the bank's entrances reported more than 24,000 visitors between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Resources of Building and Loan House Up

Resources of the Investment Building and Loan Association of Los Angeles, as shown by the balance sheet of November 30, last, aggregated more than $1,000,000, according to an announcement made yesterday by R. P. Ingold, vice-president.

To have attained the $1,000,000 mark in assets within the eight months of its existence is pronounced by Mr. Ingold as a noteworthy achievement in the building and loan field. As of November 30, the company showed a surplus and reserve of $17,500 and undivided profits of $18,067.15. Its capital is $280,000.

The Los Angeles Investment Company is one of the largest stockholders of the Investment Building and Loan Association. The laws of the State of California provide that the stockholders of a building and loan association are liable without limit to the certificate holders and other investors in such an association.

Officers of the building and loan association are in most cases officials of the Los Angeles Investment Company.

Cattlemen to Have Special Car to Parley

Two special cars will be attached to trains leaving Los Angeles and San Francisco the latter part of January, when California cattlemen leave to attend the annual meeting of the American National Live Stock Association to be held in Salt Lake City January 25 to 27, inclusive.

Secretary of Agriculture Jardine will meet in conference with permittees on national forests the day previous to the convention to discuss the question of grazing fees.

Hubbard Russell, president of the California Cattlemen's Association; Fred H. Bixby, local cattleman, national organization; C. C. Tannehill, Los Angeles, and George A. Clough, San Francisco, members of the executive committee, will head the California delegation.

An effort will be made to bring the 1928 convention of the American National Live Stock Association to San Francisco. In 1923 the convention was held in Los Angeles.

Work on Union Bank Addition Begins Tonight

Tonight at midnight, the work of tearing down the Wilcox Building, adjacent to the Union Bank Building at Eighth and Hill streets, will begin as the first step for the erection on the site of a limit height, Class A steel frame addition to the present building of the Union Bank and Trust Company. The addition will add a fifty-foot frontage on Hill street for the use of the bank, which will occupy the first two floors of the two buildings.

The existing Union Bank Building was occupied on January 2, 1922. Since that time deposits have trebled, and business has grown to the point where it was necessary to double the main floor space. It is expected that the new building will be completed by July 1, next.

Predicts Good Year Ahead in Oil Industry

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—The petroleum industry enters 1927 with every indication of continued increasing business and prosperity, in the opinion of Carl H. Pforzheimer, whose firm specializes in Standard Oil securities.

"New high records in production, consumption, earnings and dividends were established in 1926 and the new year opens with probably better prospects than any of the last five years."

LATIN AMERICA DRAWS BIDS

Bankers Vie for Positions in Southern Financing; Newer Houses Apt to Find Places

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Rivalry among American investment bankers for foreign loans has turned from Europe, it now appears, to the Latin American countries. Within the last few days the sale of $10,000,000 of Chilean notes, $8,000,000 Republic of Costa Rica bonds and the extension of a $10,000,000 credit to the Republic of Colombia attracted bids from an imposing list of bankers, some of whom have not heretofore been interested in Latin American financing.

Competition of the American bankers for Latin-American loans is a reflection, of course, of the improved credit status of the southern republics, and also indicates the scarcity of new financing. Bankers who have regarded their Latin-American positions as secure are likely to run into disillusionment, similar to the rude awakening that came to some of them near the peak of the European financing. At that time the competition became so keen that several of the leading banking houses were dislodged by some of the newer groups.

STILL HOLD PLACES

Looking over the syndicates offering the recent issues of Latin-American securities discloses most of the names that were associated with the pioneer financing in Central and South America. J. P. Morgan & Co., Blair & Co., F. J. Lisman & Co., White, Weld & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co., J. & W. Seligman & Co., Guaranty Trust, and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. are still represented in most of the syndicates.

The $10,000,000 Chilean notes were awarded the other day to a Kuhn, Loeb and Guaranty Company syndicate, two houses that had been handling most of the Chilean financing. Hallgarten & Co., however, seem to have crept into the dominant position in Colombian financing. This house was the successful bidder last week for the $10,000,000 credit, which will probably be followed by a bond offering, and also was awarded a $6,000,000 external loan of the municipality of Medellin. The same house with a Swedish group which offered another $6,000,000 loan, the obligation of the Department of Cundinamarca.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Hallgarten & Co., Halsey, Stuart & Co., Guaranty Trust and others were in the competition for the $6,000,000 Costa Rican loan announced last week. The successful bidder was J. & W. Seligman & Co., the bankers financing the famous Nicaraguan loan in 1909, along with Brown Bros. & Co. Included in the Seligman syndicate is F. J. Lisman & Co., bankers in the past for several of the Central American republics.

LOANS TO INDIVIDUALS

Because of the unstable conditions of many of the Latin-American countries prior to the crash only a few of the New York bankers have been interested in the purchase of their bond issues. Some of the early loans were negotiated with private bankers and individuals who were familiar with Latin-American politics and are willing to accept the risk in return for a large speculative profit. Even as late as 1922, some of the republics were still in the hands of private bankers. Bolivia entered into a contract with the Stabel-Nicolaus Investment Company of St. Louis for the sale of $19,000,000 of bonds in 1922, and in the same year, the Republic of Salvador sold a bond issue at 88 to Minor C. Keith, president of the United Fruit Company.

During and since the war, however, such loans as J. P. Morgan & Co., and Blair & Co., Inc., have competed for Argentine loans, while Kuhn, Loeb & Co., has successfully retained its hold on Chilean financing. Lee, Higginson & Co., has handled some of the Brazilian loans, and White, Weld & Co. has been dominant in Peru. F. J. Lisman & Co., except for the recent Costa Rican loan, has financed most of the Central American republics, including Honduras and Guatemala.

If the estimate of $300,000,000 in pending Latin-American loans is correct, it is likely that the coming months will see the entry of most of the large American bankers into the bidding, and the substitution of several new names for old ones at the head of the syndicate advertisements.

Oil Production in Kern County Shows Increase

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 30. (AP)—Kern county oil fields, the most productive in the State of California, produced more than 53,000,000 barrels of oil during the twelve months of 1926, figures compiled today showed.

The figures, representing an average monthly production of almost 4,500,000, shows a great increase over 1925, when wells in six big Kern county fields were shut in.

During the same period more than 230 wells were drilled in the county, with the figure greatly boosted by development in the new Foso district. Wildcatting throughout the county added its quota to the wells drilled.

STEEL STOCKHOLDERS TOTAL OVER 86,000

Common stockholders of the United States Steel Corporation totaled 86,034 when the books were closed for payment of the December dividend, 175 more than the quarter before. At the end of December last year there were 90,576 common shareholders. Preferred stockholders eligible for the November dividend were 73,421, a decrease of 530 from the preceding quarter.

Indian Cotton Growers Feel Competition

DELHI, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—Owing to the high exchange value of the Indian rupee on the London market and the growing demand in India for American cotton, the Indian growers are feeling the pinch of American competition. It is estimated that the exchange gives America a 12½ per cent advantage and in the last four months 350,000 bales of American cotton were imported.

The Indian merchants are insisting that the exchange value should be fixed at 1s 4d (32 cents) instead of at 1s 6d (36 cents) as it is now, asserting that the India office is keeping the price high to favor the British merchants.

November List of Corporation Permits Shown

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30. (Exclusive) During the month of November, 414 permits of various kinds representing practically all the major industries of California were issued by the State Corporation Department.

Figures compiled today by Clifford J. MacMillan, Commissioner of Corporations, show that issuances of all kinds during the month totaled 1873, a gain of 349 over October. This total includes the issuance of 491 agents' certificates, thirteen brokers' certificates and 139 miscellaneous orders.

Orders of revocation written during the month totaled 786. The great majority of the revocations were based upon the failure of the corporations to pay their State and franchise taxes for 1926. In addition the department issued twenty-eight suspension orders and entered four denials.

Rumor of New Deal in Miley Oil is Current

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—Apparently reliable reports were in circulation here today that the Miley Petroleum Exploration Company is planning to withdraw the balance of its stock from the market tomorrow in conformity with a reported agreement with a nationally known brokerage house to purchase and distribute the remaining shares at substantially higher prices. Official confirmation was lacking because F. W. Hartman, local sales manager, is in Los Angeles and other officials are out of the city.

The Miley company developed six producers in the Huntington Beach field from a purely wildcat venture and followed with successes that proved the Goleta field. Stock has been selling at $23 a share.

INGOT PRODUCTION NEARER CAPACITY

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—Steel ingot production of the United States Steel Corporation is at the current rate of 76 per cent of capacity, moving up from 70 per cent last week when the Christmas shut-downs were in effect. Independent steel companies average about 65 per cent, with little change anticipated in the next few weeks. The average for the entire industry is about 73 per cent, slightly above last week.

NOVEMBER INCOME OF RAILS HIGHER

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—November net operating income of seventy-two railroads aggregated $109,192,784, an increase of 8 per cent over returns of the same number of carriers in November, 1925, maintaining an earlier estimate that net for all Class I railroads would approximate $115,000,000 against actual net of $106,924,330 a year ago.

The Mercantile Trust will have twenty-one members on the board and the American Bank fourteen.

IRON INDUSTRY LULL SEASONAL

Survey Reports Outlook for 1927 Promising

Leaders Confidently Expect Early Revival

New Orders Show Increase in Last Few Days

CLEVELAND, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—Passing out of the greatest production year in its history the iron and steel industry is swinging into 1927 in the solid confidence that consumption shortly will attain the high average of the past year, and that buying on a comparable scale cannot be long deferred, the Iron Trade Review will say today.

Variations in production and shipments the past few weeks and the relatively light commitments of mill capacity are appraised as year-end phases and have not dimmed the general outlook.

New orders and specifications for iron and steel are measurably higher than production and shipments in the past few days. In some instances, notably pig iron, this improvement is partially at the expense of price. Some independent producers have been pressed to maintain 65 to 70 per cent operations, but the feeling is general that the low point has been passed and as January opens improvement will develop. The United States Steel Corporation subsidiaries are operating between 78 and 80 per cent.

Leading in market activity is the purchase of more than 38,000 tons of pig iron for first half-year delivery by the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company. This interest placed 20,000 tons for its Allegheny and New Brighton (Pa.) plants at a price understood to be $18.50, base valley, or 50 cents under what has been considered the market. For its Louisville (Ky.) plant 18,000 tons were placed with Southern Ohio makers at $19.75, Ironton. Light tonnages of iron also have been placed at Chicago.

By way of repercussion, Cleveland blast-furnace interests lowered their prices for local delivery 50 cents. Efforts of the American Steel Foundries to place 4000 tons of basic pig iron in the Mahoning Valley at $18, or 50 cents under the market, are understood to have met with no success.

Railroad business stands at the same point as a week ago, constituting the largest potential tonnage for the industry, but actual awards apparently have been postponed until early in the first quarter.

Demand for sheets, while still light, continues to pick up and has been augmented by releases from some of the automotive interests. Prices, especially for black sheets, are none too steady. The price of $2 a ton under established levels frequently is done, and some Mahoning Valley makers claim to have encountered concessions much deeper.

Tin-plate production, after a number of weeks at more than 90 per cent for the industry as a whole suffered from the holiday interruptions. Due to weakness in sheets and pig iron, another production has taken place in the Iron Trade Review composite of fourteen leading iron and steel products which stands this week at $38.08 compared with $38.12 last week and $38.50 last month.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—The cotton market was strong again today with prices working higher on renewed strength in Liverpool, further heavy exports and increasing conviction here and in New Orleans that so much of the late top crop will be left unpicked, the future ginning reports will fail to confirm the government's big crop estimate of 18,618,000 bales without linters.

Trading was only moderately active as the dry-goods trade and many spot houses are preparing for the year-end inventories, and the approaching holidays are holding down outside speculation. The market, however, showed a continuances of the recent good undertone of strength and readily absorbed further local profit taking and scattered selling. The rise averaged 10 points from yesterday's closing, January selling at 12.74 cents; March, 12.95 cents; May 13.13 cents; July, 13.27 cents; and October of the next crop, 13.43, a setback of 6 to 8 points from that rise at mid-day was followed by a renewed advance later.

At Liverpool spot cotton advanced 8 English points to 6.90d for middling. Futures there advanced 8 to 10 points early, but closed easier from profit taking, with the net advance 6 to 7 points comparing with 4 to 6 dua.

Private cables reported a much more optimistic feeling among Manchester and Lancashire mills over the new year's prospects for a broadening of general trade conditions from the present abundance of cheap cotton.

It was clear and cold all over the South today with freezing temperatures extending throughout the eastern half of the belt.

TRADE STUDIES DIVERGENT

Current Statistics Declared to Supply Ground for Pessimistic or Optimistic Forecasts

[Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—Most of the authorities that have made statements on the business situation of late, express confidence in the fundamentals of business, but in the current statistics on trade may be found ground upon which either an optimist or pessimist may stand. Not the least significant of the recent studies on trade conditions is that to be published in a day or two by the Federal reserve agent at New York on the position of wholesale and retail trade.

From a canvass of about 200 reporting wholesale houses in the New York district, the bank finds that sales during November averaged 10 per cent less than a year ago, notwithstanding the additional selling day this year. That substantial reduction represents declines principally in men's clothing, women's clothing, cotton goods, machine tools and silk goods.

It appears from the reports that stocks of goods on hand in some cases are smaller and in some cases are larger than a year ago. More silk goods, hardware, jewelry and diamonds are on hand now, but fewer cotton goods and shoe stocks. Collections during the month were somewhat better than for the corresponding month last year, and it may be added that accounts outstanding at the end of the period were nearly 6 per cent smaller. Thus it appears that while business was smaller in volume for November, the general credit situation was improved. Wholesale grocers in their report to the Federal reserve authorities declare that their sales were the smallest for any month in November in the last eight years.

Against this showing by the wholesale houses must be set a far different showing from the leading chain store system. These institutions during November were able to report no less than a 10 per cent increase in average sales per store over the corresponding month of the year previous. That is an encouraging sign, notwithstanding the advantage enjoyed by reason of the extra selling day this year. The best gains in average sales per store were reported by 5 and 10 variety, grocery and candy stores. Perhaps the most interesting part of the report to be made is, however, that the leading department stores in New York and vicinity did a heavier business from the 1st to the 24th inst. than ever in their history. This pre-Christmas trade in December averaged approximately 3 per cent more than last year, and "will substantially exceed sales in any previous December."

The Federal reserve authorities now reckon that the department store sales for 1926 will run 4 per cent heavier than last year when, it will be remembered, sales ran 5½ per cent heavier than in the year previous. "Stocks of merchandise in department stores at the end of November were 1½ per cent larger than a year previous," the report will say, "and the ratio of sales to average stock on hand during the month was slightly higher than in November, 1925. Collections on charge accounts were somewhat smaller than last year, and accounts outstanding at the end of the month were 10 per cent higher. Installment collections were larger than a year ago, however, and accounts receivable showed little change." Perhaps it is this general spurt in retail trade during December that has helped to improve general business sentiment within the last thirty days.

CROSLEY TO TAKE OVER DEFOREST

Bankrupt Radio Company to be Operated by Aid of New Capital

PATERSON (N. J.) Dec. 30. (AP)—Powell Crosley, president of the Crosley Radio Company of Cincinnati, will take over the management of the Deforest Radio Company of Jersey City for five years by an order signed today by Vice-Chancellor Vivian M. Lewis.

The Deforest company, one of the pioneers in the radio industry, went into bankruptcy on June 24, this year. Arthur F. Lord, receiver for the company, told Vice-Chancellor Lewis that the stockholders and creditors of the Deforest concern recommended that Mr. Crosley's offer be accepted.

Crosley's offer to take over the management of the Deforest company included an agreement to advance $300,000, which he asserted was necessary to permit the company to operate.

He also demanded for his work and the $300,000 advance that he receive 39,000 shares of the 211,000 shares of treasury stock outstanding, 3 per cent commission on the first $3,000,000 of annual net sales and 1 1-2 per cent on the net annual sales over that amount.

The treasury stock is to be placed in escrow in a Cincinnati bank until the stock earns $1.50 in any fiscal year when it is to become his property.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—A slight downward revision of bond prices today was traceable to a year-end readjustment of investment holdings and uneasiness over credit conditions.

An increase in the call-money rate to 6 per cent, coincident with the calling of $40,000,000 or more of bank loans, curbed buying activity in all divisions of the market except the foreign group.

In view of the tighter money situation the higher yielding European bonds attracted more attention than usual, several of them rising to new high records. Among the most active features were the new Belgian 7's, which sold for the first time at 101, French 7 1-2's and 8's, both of which scaled new peaks, all of the French Railway issues and the German 7's.

Disappointment over the failure of the Mexican government to delay the operation of the new oil regulations was reflected in the selling of Pan-American Petroleum 6's, California Petroleum, Union Oil and some of the Sinclair issues were fractionally lower.

Profit-taking and a disposition to adjust accounts before the end of the year explained the liquidation of several railroad liens without any serious setback to prices. Northern Pacific, Katy, Baltimore and Ohio, Big Four and St. Paul were among the issues to work lower.

Three new high records were established in the United States government list, by the first and third Liberty 4 1-4's and the Treasury 4 1-4's, before a late reaction set in.

The quotations represent sales or bands (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transaction, sales in small lots when same as high and both low and close when same as high.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 30. (AP)—Curious cross-currents of prices ran through today's curb market in reflection of the usual year-end shifting and closing out of speculative accounts. Trading showed a marked falling off in volume, and was almost entirely professional in character.

Heaviness of the oils reflected speculative disappointment over the refusal of the Mexican government to grant an extension of time on the new oil regulations which go into effect the first of the year. No urgent liquidation developed, however, and offerings generally were absorbed at slight concessions. South American issues were slightly easier.

A sudden jump of nearly 5 points in Land Company of Florida was one of the few features in the industrial list. The new Union and United Tobacco common was active on the announcement of a plan for the exchange of its stock for that of the Schulte Retail Stores Corporation but after touching a new high record at 90, it slipped back to 88½, off ½ net. Fulton Sylphon touched a new peak price at 42 and the Estey Welte issues were actively traded in around the year's high levels. Sharp recessions took place in some of the high-priced specialties such as American Piano, Curtis Publishing, Celotex, Ford of Canada and Tubize Art Silk.

Public utilities were irregular, with a 5-point break in American Light and Traction and the strength of United Gas Improvement as the contrasting features.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

OIL NEWS

BY EDWARD C. KEGLEY

...Standard Oil Company is ...about $50,000 on a con- ...ete and retaining wall for the ...ion of the pleasure beaches at ...ington Beach against oil pollu- ...according to reports from the ...The Standard has a line of ...ting along the ocean front, ...n the water and the Pacific ...Railway, and work already ...n started on a 2000-foot con- ...ete wall from fifteen to twenty feet ...gh, and extending from Sev- ...enth street to Twenty-third ...eet. The forms for the wall al- ...ready have been built, and the con- ...crete will be poured in a few days. ...The Standard is planning to utilize ...the wall in its development program ...as an ...prevention of pollu- ...tion as well as ...ll in the space be- ...tween the wall and the bluffs along ...the Pacific Electric Railway ...a distance in those places where ...a sufficient room at present ...exists between the tracks and ...the bluff, more room will ...be made. The wall is being solidly ...built with a foundation twelve feet ...deep and five feet deep to withstand ...the weight of possible high tides. ...Standard's policy at Huntington ...Beach is consistent with the poli- ...cies now generally all of the large ...companies observing in the conduct ...of development work. A similar ...policy is to be found at Seal Beach, ...where the Midland Oil Company has ...spent approximately $100,000 in ...the course of levees designed to ...prevent oil from polluting the ...waters of the lagoons in the adjacent ...State Park.

...Arcadia Acreage

...California-Eastern Petroleum ...Co., recently formed by the ...directors of the Julian Petroleum ...Corporation and the Marine Corpora- ...tion, has acquired a lease of 160 ...acres, definitely adjoining the prop- ...erties of the Miley Petroleum Explora- ...tion Company at Goleta, twelve miles ...west of Santa Barbara, according to ...a statement issued by officials of the California-Eastern. ...The discovery well has pene- ...trated more than 100 feet of oil- ...bearing sand since it entered a ...pay zone at 1527 feet, after drill- ...ing through a shallow high-gravity ...oil sand.

...Miley interests, with about ...$1,000,000 behind the Transcontinental Oil ...Company with 1000 acres and the ...California-Eastern with its new prop- ...erties practically all the acreage ...in Goleta structure tied up.

...Well Start

...Union Oil Company is start- ...ing new wells in the Richfield ...district and probably will be drilling ...next week, according to official ...reports. The new wells are Chaparral ...No. 2, which is moving in equipment ...including machinery, and Stearns ...No. 1, which is building a derrick. ...Both are in proven territory.

...Union has one well near com- ...pletion. Shell No. 8 is bailing at ...4000 feet, and is calling for 4500 ...feet. It is said to give indications ...of a good well.

...Well

...biggest well in Huntington ...district was brought in yester- ...day by the McKeon Drilling Com- ...pany on property in a 2000-f... ...portion on Olive street, be- ...tween Thirteenth and Twentieth ...streets. In the west end of the city. ...The well was drilled to 4370 feet, and ...the crew was showing a decided ten- ...dency to increase.

...Well Down

...Merrill Oil Company's Lawn- ...dale well which has been drill- ...ing out on for the past three ...days was shut down again a few ...days ago after it had worked on it ...a couple of days trying to ...clean out some crooked casing.

...Completion

...Shell Company expects to ...have well on production in ...the Rosecrans field within the ...next week or two days. Barnes No. ...1, drilling into the oil sand after ...a successful water shut-off.

...Barnes No. 101, the Shell is ...now in experimentation with ...the addition of dry gas into the ...casing under pressure. About ...2,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day, ...under a pressure of about 450 pounds ...is being introduced into the well ...for the next few months, but little ...change in the output of neighboring ...wells has been noted, according to ...company officials.

...Shell Producing

...Associated Oil Company, which is ...making a similar experiment on its ...Dean lease, on the other hand, ...has had a substantial increase in ...production in several neighboring ...wells.

...Well Figures

SHIPPING and Los Angeles Harbor NEWS

NEW CARGO LINE TO START TODAY

Arrival of Kerr Freighter Launches Service

Silverlarch to Take Cargo of 6000 Tons Here

With the arrival from the East today of the British motorship Silverlarch, Los Angeles Harbor gains another fast freight service to the Orient, to be known as the Kerr Line Pacific Coast-Oriental Service. Four fast, modern motorships will comprise this fleet, which will in effect make their home port at Los Angeles, although they continue to maintain their English registry.

The service will be monthly out of this port, the vessels proceeding to San Francisco and thence across the Pacific, to China, Japan, Dutch East Indies and the Straits Settlements, then returning here by way of San Francisco. They practically will duplicate the course maintained by the American Far East Line, operated out of this port until recently by Struthers & Barry.

The inauguration of the new service by the Silverlarch is a propitious one, as the ship will take on 6000 tons before she departs this port January 4 on her first voyage. She will be back May 17. Following her at monthly intervals will be three sister motorships, and more as trade develops, according to H. H. Birkholm, district manager for General Steamship Corporation, coastal agents for the Kerr Line.

At intervals in between their arrival and departure, six more British motorships owned by the same parties, will call westbound on globe-circling voyages for the Silverline, Ltd., also represented by General Steamship Corporation. These vessels are even larger and faster than the trans-Pacific fleet, maintaining a speed of fourteen to fifteen knots an hour throughout, and making Los Angeles the only port of entry on this coast.

Late in January the Dollar Steamship Company also will add Los Angeles as a port in its new trans-Pacific operating eight combination passenger and freight steamers to this port.

BETHLEHEM YARD TO REPAIR DAMAGED TANKER

San Pedro shipyards of the Bethlehem Corporation yesterday was awarded the job of repairing the Anglo-American Petroleum Company's tanker Prusten, which was torpedoed in the English Channel by a submarine during the World war. The vessel recently was also included in that figure.

At the ship already was at Bethlehem yards, the job was awarded without competitive arrangement with Superintendent and Williams of the company, who came out from the gulf to supervise the repairs.

The tanker was damaged at anchor at night late last week, following her arrival from the Orient. Her engine room was flooded, and the steamer Minnesotan struck her astibbord, cutting a hole from her top deck to the water line.

The vessel will be in Bethlehem dry dock a score of days, according to J. Birmingham, general manager of the yards. Her cargo of oil was still standing on the dry dock of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Corporation, adjoining facilities at the yard of the Bethlehem.

Joseph Pasky of 1114 West Ninety-seventh street, Los Angeles, died at a Long Beach hospital yesterday soon after receiving the last rites of the Catholic church. Pasky, a member of the crew of the steamer Wilmington two days before, was given up for dead in critical condition. Search for the body of the sailor, who fell overboard from the vessel, continued yesterday in waters near the Wilmington breakwater, but was abandoned late in the afternoon without success. Pasky, whose home is in Wyandotte, Michigan, was washed down the hatch and across pontoons, when dragged in the path of flames and steam in the engine room of the vessel.

Eleven passenger carriers of five nationalities arrived in port here during the last twenty-four hours, swelling the total of vessels in the harbor to seventeen, with a number of cargo carriers expected to arrive before midnight. Ships and sailors, lumber and sightseers, mingled in the various ports of call around the world. The Atlantic Mail sent in the Pennsylvania, Panama Pacific Line the Virginia, and the Admiral Oriental Line the Admiral Peoples, while the Admiral Line sent in the Admiral Rodman and the Admiral Hood, both of which ply around the world. Three long blasts sounded the one long and one short from the whistle of the War Department signal station on the breakwater, and the two white flags with the red ball in the center of the signal halyards, announced the arrival of the West Santa Cruz, Standard-Vacuum tanker, from Los Angeles and Richmond. The new steamer will be the last for pilots yesterday.

Two great Japanese liners of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha were in port yesterday, and both sailed from here at half-past 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the Asama Maru for the Atlantic Mail Line trans-Pacific service, and the Arabo Maru bound for South America and Europe. The departure of the two vessels was celebrated with much skill, and had prospects this season.

The Asama Maru sailed away at 12 o'clock, today with 391 Japanese, including sixteen tourists, and 1,000 tons of cargo. Among the tourists were Prof. Kenzo Adachi, of Tokio, and Prof. Kenzo Minobe, of Kyoto Imperial University, who passed through the Panama canal yesterday aboard with the Japanese consul to Los Angeles.

The Arabo Maru takes on 180 passengers and 1,000 tons of cargo at this port, including sixteen tourists bound for Europe. Among those aboard are Prof. Asakichi Kuno, of Tokio Imperial University, and wife, who came to Los Angeles.

Mail Line Plans Air Passenger Run to Chicago

CHEYENNE (Wyo.) Dec. 30. (AP)—If the Western Air Express is the successful bidder January 15 for the contract for the Chicago-San Francisco section of the transcontinental air-mail line, passenger service will be made available sixty days after it takes over the route, Harris M. Hanshue, president, said here today.

"Passengers who do not want to fly at night will be brought from the Coast to Wyoming and placed on a train to be picked up the following morning, possibly at Omaha, and flown to Chicago," Hanshue said. "This will make possible a passenger trip from the Coast to Chicago in thirty-four hours, compared to sixty-three hours for extra-fare trains. Rates for air travel will be about double those of the railroad, Pullman and extra meal costs considered, or about 15 cents a mile."

TELEVISION TO BECOME RADIO EYE

New All-Seeing Device Expected to Give Fireside View of World-wide Events

LONDON, Dec. 30. (Exclusive)—J. L. Baird's television machine was demonstrated here tonight before scientists of the Royal Institute. As previously announced, the invention, utilizing infra-red rays, does away with the hot, objectionable searchlights formerly necessary to illuminate the subject. Now the subject can sit in darkness while every motion can be seen clearly by observers sitting in another room, also in darkness.

Although all movements are distinguishable, the images projected are not yet sufficiently clear to distinguish the features of the subject.

It is asserted the invention makes it possible in war to play invisible infra-red rays on infantry or airplanes attacking at night and thus observe them closely while they are ignorant of being spied on. The device also can function through fog, it is said, permitting steamships to see other ships and icebergs.

It is predicted television soon will be in as general use as the radio, with a set in every home to receive, from central broadcasting stations, views of athletic contests and plays in connection with the radio.

INDUSTRIAL POWER RATE CUT PLANNED

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30. (AP)—The Coast Counties Gas and Electric Company today notified the State Railroad Commission that it planned a reduction of from 5 to 10 per cent in its industrial electric power rate in Santa Cruz, Watsonville, Gilroy and Hollister. The commission agreed to the reduction, which will be made at once. Increasing business was given as the reason for the reduction.

PARIS FEARS MONEY GETS DECORATION

Official Held on Charge of Demanding Price for Legion of Honor

PARIS, Dec. 30. (AP)—A scandal over some recent awards of the coveted Legion of Honor was threatened today.

The newspapers say that M. Ruotte, one of the secretaries in the Ministry of Commerce, arrested on a charge of demanding 100,000 francs for each Legion of Honor decoration, has decided to bare his knowledge of the matter.

M. Ruotte is understood, the papers say, to have transmitted to the Ministry of Justice a list of at least twenty new Legionnaires whom, he asserted, had not sufficient qualifications for the honor but whose nominations were imposed by prominent Parliamentarians.

He hinted that one honored with the red ribbon of the Legion had been condemned to two years' imprisonment for bankruptcy; another was decorated for "twenty years' direction of industrial enterprise," although he was only 23 years of age, and still another was beribboned despite the fact that he figured in police reports for trafficking with the enemy during the war.

It is charged that Ruotte used two intermediaries in his asserted bartering of decorations. Both these persons are also in custody.

Mexican Troops Seek Rescue of Kidnaped Pair

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 30. (AP)—Federal troops have been ordered by the Mexican government to pursue the bandits who kidnaped two American mining men, J. W. Wiley and R. B. Connors, near Parral, Chih., Tuesday. The Americans, whose home towns in the United States are not known, are being held prisoners for 10,000 pesos ransom.

The American Embassy learned of the kidnaping today and immediately sent a note to the Mexican Foreign Office making urgent representations to the Mexican government for the release of the prisoners and adequate punishment of the bandits.

The bandits called themselves revolutionists and carried off Wiley and Connors from the little mining town of San Francisco del Oro, where the Americans were employed in a British-owned mine.

PLANE WINS DEATH RACE FROM EAST

Chicago Hotel Man Makes Trip Wtih Mail Flyer and Finds Mother Improved

An airplane race with death from Chicago to Los Angeles was won by Ernest J. Byfield, president of the Hotel Sherman Corporation of Chicago, when he arrived here in a mail plane at 5:10 p.m. yesterday, to learn that his mother, Mrs. Joseph Byfield, was still alive.

Byfield left Chicago at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, and arrived at Salt Lake City shortly before 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Two brothers, Dr. Albert H., and Eugene Byfield arrived from Chicago yesterday morning on "The Chief," the Santa Fe Limited.

The flight to Los Angeles from Salt Lake City was made in five hours and forty-five minutes, according to the pilot, Capt. Maurice Graham, and the plane arrived at the airport almost a half-hour ahead of schedule.

Mrs. Byfield, the mother, who is 62 years of age, has been seriously ill of pneumonia for about two weeks at her apartment in the Ambassador and the crisis was believed near on Wednesday. Dr. Felger, at attending physician, last evening reported his patient was resting well and her condition "fairly satisfactory."

ISLANDERS IN TRIBUTE TO PATRIOT

Three Hundred Filipinos Hold Service in Memory of Dr. Jose Rizal

Tribute to the memory of Dr. Jose Rizal, Filipino hero and patriot, was paid last night by more than 300 of his countrymen who attended a program given in his honor at Bovard Auditorium, University of Southern California. The meeting was given under the auspices of the Filipino Federation of America. Yesterday was the thirtieth anniversary of Dr. Rizal's death.

The program opened with a selection of native Filipino songs and was followed by speaking from members of the federation. Manuel Tierra told of the sacrifices of Dr. Rizal in trying to establish the first adequate school system in the Philippine Islands. Hilario Moncado, president of the organization, also paid high tribute to the memory of the patriot.

The celebration concluded with those present rising and singing "The Star Spangled Banner" and each waving an American flag.

TRAFFIC AMAZING TO VISITOR FROM EAST

Driving an automobile in Los Angeles takes more brains than in most cities, said a visitor yesterday who was amazed at traffic congestion and volume. He was Dr. E. A. Arrington, Rochester, N. Y., former secretary of the American Optometric Association. The visitor is a guest at the Lankershim. He will address the Los Angeles County Association of Optometrists at its meeting next Thursday.

HAS IT OCCURED TO YOU

—that the everyday scenes which greet your eye are subjects of absorbing interest to your eastern friends;

—that the palm-lined streets, oil wells, orange groves, snow-capped mountains, to which you give but a passing glance, are pictures that will thrill the folks back home;

—that the facts and information which have become commonplace to you—living conditions, crops, industries, harbor, mining, boulevards and a thousand details of life—are fascinating to the far-away reader!

What more fitting gift from California than a beautiful set of magazines which tell and show these things—one! two! three! four! five! six!—all enclosed in a decorated wrapper. A gift that seems to lock in its pages the very atmosphere of the Southland, and, once arrived in the East, releases it for the joy of the recipient.

Yesterday's sale of Midwinter Numbers slightly exceeded the tremendous sale of the opening day. Make today the biggest day of all! Providing names are furnished to The Times or its agents, copies will be mailed anywhere in North America, postage paid, for 25 cents.

CELEBRATION TO BE DRY TONIGHT

Lid to be Kept on New Year's Eve Festivities

Federal, County and City to Combine Forces

Scores of Parties, Dances and Banquets Planned

As a reception committee of a couple of million or so Southern Californians prepared last night to give the infant 1927 a greater and better welcome tonight city, county and Federal authorities took steps to see it was at least a safe and sober reception.

To keep the party dry, or at least as dry as it can be kept, Federal, county and city officials will unite forces for the evening, it was announced. Their intention is to cover the county and particularly the joy haunts and cafes but to model their actions after the axiom that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

There will be no unnecessary raids, it was promised, but county or federal agents or police officers will be stationed in every cafe and roadhouse to serve as a check on the merrymakers and to prevent the flowing bowl from flowing too copiously.

The plan, as announced yesterday, will enroll the forces under Prohibition Administrator Frith and his assistant, Maj. Dixon, Capt. Contreras, head of the county dry squad, Capt. Benton, in charge of the Sheriff's office liquor detail, and the police vice squad into one mobile unit to "help people not to violate the law."

Capt. Benton will be in charge of the northern half of the county and Capt. Contreras of the southern half. Federal agents will aid them as necessary.

ALL POLICE ON DUTY

In the city, the police vice squad will be on duty with Federal agents mingling with them. They will have the help of all regular officers as the entire force will be on duty tonight.

As a precaution against rowdyism, Chief of Police Davis also announced late yesterday that confetti, paper dusters and smudge sticks will not be permitted on the city streets tonight. The order directs the officers to arrest any merchants selling these adjuncts to merrymaking or merrymakers using them in public.

The festivities, from indications yesterday, will start early, shifting rapidly into high gear as the hours march toward midnight and the birth of the New Year. They will center in Los Angeles and particularly on Broadway, between Third and Eighth streets.

In this area, no vehicular traffic will be permitted tonight and the entire street, from wall to wall, turned over as a playground to local members of the reception committee. Tomorrow, the New Year festival will have its chief setting in Pasadena with the Tournament of Roses parade and the football game.

Innumerable New Year parties, balls, banquets and entertainments will be given tonight to greet the infant year in the immemorial manner and to speed the departing 1926.

Virtually all of the cafes and roadhouses in and about the city have organized special programs for the night. The greater majority of these, including clubs and hotel dining-rooms, are already swamped by reservations and refuse to accept any more.

A dinner and dance for members and their friends will be given at the City Club. The Los Angeles-Alhambra Club, composed of former New Yorkers, will also give a dance at Fraternal Hall.

Disabled war veterans will conduct a public installation of their recently-elected officers at the Disabled Veterans' Hall, 324 South Hill street. Knights of Columbus will celebrate the advent of the New Year with a dinner-dance and frolic in which many stage stars will participate.

OTHER CELEBRATIONS

At the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium members of both the Y. M. and Y. W. will conduct a New Year's Eve party to which all young men and women of the city are invited. Canadian and British subjects will celebrate with a dance and entertainment at the Staten' Society Club, 1127 South Hope street.

A masque party and dance will be given by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West at the club rooms of the Ramona Parlor in Patriotic Hall. The Caledonian Club will welcome the New Year with what they call a "Hogmanay Party," at Foresters' Hall, Ninth and Olive streets.

A rather lively time apparently is anticipated by the Breakfast Club. It's announcement states that hot coffee, bromo seltzer, aspirin and quinine will be served at 1 o'clock tomorrow morning. Dance music will be furnished between midnight and daybreak by two jazz bands, and at 4 a.m. a balloon ascension is planned.

ISLE RESORT TO BE BUILT OFF COAST

Amusement Place Will be Under Mexican Laws and Cater to Americans

A project to develop the Coronado Islands, Mexican territory in the Pacific Ocean twelve miles southwest of Tia Juana, was announced yesterday. It is planned to make this area into an amusement and residential center.

Work is scheduled to start within ninety days on the first unit of the improvement, including a yacht harbor, clubhouse and hotel buildings, casino, water system, street pavements and sewer, and power, fuel and light plants. It is expected that this work will involve more than $1,000,000.

The islands embrace approximately 200 acres, according to McGinnis & Kendall, local engineers in charge of construction. Mr. McGinnis pointed out that a syndicate comprised of American and Mexican capitalists had been organized, and the island leased from the Mexican government.

The lease is for three periods, each ten years, the engineer declared. It has been recorded in the Judicial Department of Zargoza, northern district of Lower California.

"The syndicate was formed under the laws of Mexico," Mr. McGinnis declared. "All necessary money has been assured and no sale of stock or membership is scheduled. The concern intends to operate the holdings under its own management. The public will be invited to participate in the pleasures afforded by the island."

At present there are boats plying to the island from San Diego. With the completion of the first unit of the Coronado Islands project the schedule will be increased, according to yesterday's announcement. Attempt to establish service from Los Angeles Harbor probably will be made.

Chinese Party in Convention Here Tomorrow

Representatives of Kuo Min Tang, the Chinese Nationalist party, will hold a six-day convention opening tomorrow noon with a meeting in the Mandarin Theater, 823 Jackson street.

In addition to Chinese speakers, the convention will be addressed by Judge P. M. Lineberger, speaking on "Personal Recollections of Dr. Sun," and by Robert S. Norman of Oakland, former adviser to Dr. Sun. Mr. Norman will discuss China's progress under the Kuo Min Tang administration.

FILM COMPANY HEAD WILL MARRY TODAY

The marriage of Herman Nicolai Rankow, 30 years of age, and Anne Maria Vilgoyen, 30, of 1817 Taft avenue will be solemnized at noon today by Superior Judge Hanby. Mr. Rankow on his marriage license application gave his occupation as president of a cinema film corporation.

CANADIANS TO CELEBRATE

French-Canadians will celebrate New Year's Eve with a dance and luncheon at their Auditorium Frontenac, 10915 South Figueroa. Luncheon "a la Canadian" will be served at midnight.

EXPLORER GOING TO INDIA

George Bistany, Here on World-Girdling Liner, Seeks Ovis Poli in Himalaya Region

Of all the 400 passengers arriving at the port yesterday morning from New York aboard the Red Star liner Belgenland on her third successive world cruise, the most notable was George M. Bistany, naturalist-explorer, who came into world prominence last year when he returned from Central Africa with a live specimen of Balaeneeps Rex, or shoe-bill stork, for which he had searched intermittently for twenty years.

On this trip Mr. Bistany is en route to the Himalayan regions of Upper India in search of the ovis poli, the big-horn sheep from the Roof of the World, which, he says, Col. Theodore Roosevelt missed on his recent expedition for the Field Museum.

Accompanying Mr. Bistany are Fred Bartels, New York naturalist, Mike and Joe, two 3-year-old chimpanzees which are on their second trip around the world, and Toto, a moon-faced monkey.

NOTED LAWYER ABOARD

Mike is to go Ceylon. Joe goes to the Bombay Museum, while Toto, rarest of all South American simians, is to be presented to the Sultan of Jahorse, Indian potentate on whose domain Mr. Bistany this winter will hunt Bengal tigers.

Mr. Bistany, who probably has visited more out-of-the- way spots than any living man, carries the scars of thirty-six wounds inflicted by wild animals, ranging from three cobra bites to scars from the claws of Uganda lions.

The Belgenland this season is in command of Capt. Thomas Howell, veteran of thirty-three years of service under the flag of the International Mercantile Marine. Yesterday's call was his first visit here on the southern coast since 1887, when he came around the Horn as a seaman on the British bark Fort George. The old windjammer was 120 days in running from London to Martinez. The Belgenland is making a 30,000-mile circuit of the globe in 130 days.

Samuel Untermeyer, New York lawyer, is making the cruise, chiefly to satisfy a lifelong desire to visit China. Just before sailing Mr. Untermeyer was appointed chief counsel of the New York Transit Commission and he has in his stateroom eight wooden chests containing 18,000 sheets of a typewritten report on the

SOUTHLAND STRIDE AMAZES

Good Roads, Panama Canal and Better Train Service Important, Says Rail Director

The growth of California and especially of Southern California is amazing to one that has been away for any length of time and the growth is destined to continue, aided largely by such transportation factors as the good roads program, the Panama Canal and constant bettering of railroad service.

This was the opinion expressed yesterday by C. N. Markham, chairman of the board of directors of the Illinois Central Railroad, prior to his departure in his private car. While here he visited his son, Fred S. Markham of 1048 East Mariposa street, Altadena.

Discussing the growth of the automobile industry and its effect on railroads he said that on the whole it had resulted in much greater earnings not only for the railroads but for all concerned. There were isolated cases, he said, where the use of the automobile affected the railroads adversely but from a broad point of view those were negligible, he added.

In explanation he pointed out the tremendous amount of materials from forests and mines needed to supply the demand for automobiles with the greater demand for labor all along the line. He declared the automobile was to be considered in the light of an evolution of transportation which he sketched briefly from the days of pack animals to the use of the airplane.

The good-roads program had been largely instrumental, he said, not only in facilitating transportation but also in developing the natural resources of many sections and linking those areas up with the rails.

He declared that the Panama Canal was an important factor in the present and future development of the entire Pacific Coast in which Los Angeles must benefit largely because of its harbor facilities.

Mr. Markham entered the railroad business in New Mexico with the Southern Pacific.

MERCURY ASCENDS TO 76 DEG.

Warm Day Signals End of Cold Snap With Moderate Temperatures Forecast

Sunshine of the true Southern California winter variety boosted the mercury in Los Angeles up to 76 deg. yesterday and brought an end to the brisk weather of the past week.

The record for the month of December is 80 deg. Even last year there were nine warm days, with one of them seeing 82 deg., registered on the thermometer.

According to Col. H. B. Hersey, in charge of the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, all danger of frost has passed for the time being, with nothing on the horizon to

Pasadenans Expect 700,000 to 800,000 New Year's Visitors; Instructions Given to Avoid Congestion

PASADENA, Dec. 30.—Three months of intensive preparation have brought everything in readiness for the thirty-eighth annual Pasadena Tournament of Roses on New Year's Day, officials of the association announced today, as each committee head reported the completion of the work of his department.

All that now remains is for the 700,000 or 800,000 spectators, which the tournament is expected to attract, to take their places along the line of march. In order to speed out the crowd and give everyone a chance to witness the parade in comfort, Chief of Police Kelley is urging that spectators coming into the city head toward the eastern end of the parade route, that is, on East Colorado street, between Lake and Hill avenues.

Chief Kelley also advises that those who use the Pacific Electric come via Oak Knoll instead of on the Short Line, inasmuch as the latter route terminates on Raymond avenue near Colorado street, which is ordinarily the most congested part of the city on New Year's Day.

Rigid inspection of reviewing stands by the municipal building department resulted today in the condemnation of three stands which had been erected. Two of these will be approved, however, Building Superintendent Putnam said, if their owners make certain specified changes by tomorrow.

The stands this year will be the safest and best which ever have been erected along the line of march, Putnam believes. Experts are aiding the department in making their inspections. Twenty-three stands were built.

M'PHERSON CASE STAYS UP IN AIR

Grand Jury Hears Woolley Deny Wiseman Story

Keyes Declares Prosecution Will be Continued

Pastor Admits Letter Sent to Mrs. Ormiston

Whether Dist-Atty. Keyes will dismiss the felony conspiracy charges now pending against Aimee Semple McPherson, Kenneth G. Ormiston and other co-defendants in the disappearance case or will bring new charges against them following a grand jury investigation of the newest assertions hurled by Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman was problematical last night.

The grand jury started its investigation of the new charges in the McPherson case by calling Mrs. Wiseman as the first witness at the morning session. She again repeated the sensational story she told to Mr. Keyes several days ago when she named Roland Rich Woolley, formerly personal attorney of the evangelist, as the instigator of the Carmel "Miss X" hoax.

FORECAST HEARD

Immediately following yesterday's session of the grand jury Mr. Keyes issued a short statement in which he denied that the case will be dropped against the evangelist, Ormiston, her former radio man at Angelus Temple, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, her mother, and against Mrs. Wiseman.

It openly was forecast about the District Attorney's office and the Hall of Justice yesterday that the present conspiracy charges will be dropped and the defendants indicted on perjury and subordination of perjury charges.

This forecast was based on a statement issued Wednesday by Mr. Keyes in which he termed Mrs. Wiseman "a turncoat" and "a perjurer" on account of her new statements. She asserted Mr. Woolley and a relative were connected with the plan by which she says she was engaged to manufacture false evidence to vindicate Mrs. McPherson of the Carmel charge that she occupied a bungalow at the seaside resort with Ormiston for a period of ten days between May 19 and 29, last.

KEYES'S STATEMENT

Referring to the newest developments in the case, Mr. Keyes said:

"Emphatically, I will not drop this case. While Mrs. Wiseman has changed her original story in part, it is not diametrically opposite to that she told on the witness stand during Mrs. McPherson's preliminary hearing. Instead, it is more of an elaboration of the vague parts of her previous testimony."

Attorney Woolley was the first witness called into the grand jury chambers when the afternoon session of the grand jury convened and he was followed on the witness chair by Leonard Hamner, formerly a deputy District Attorney, formerly a was employed in the defense of Mrs. McPherson at the preliminary hearing.

"I was excused from the customary oath of secrecy," Mr. Woolley said as he emerged from the jury room, "and I wish to divulge my testimony in my own defense."

"Concerning Mrs. Wiseman, who made the charges against me, I again gladly told the grand jury the same story I related in a former investigation; that Mrs. Wiseman came into the McPherson case against my advice to my client and that I always felt that her story of being at Carmel was false."

DENIAL VOICED

Mrs Woolley denied that he had conspired with Mrs. Wiseman to manufacture the Carmel svidence or that he had a so-called "brother" named Jack Woolley, who Mrs. Wiseman said first approached her in San Francisco with the proposition to stage the Carmel hoax.

The former McPherson attorney was questioned concerning assertions by the hoax woman that she attended a school in Salt Lake City with him. He denied that he had ever seen her until she appeared in

The Lancer

ARISTIDE BRIAND, Foreign Minister of France, says that 1927 will see the dawn of world peace and general disarmament.

Which certainly belongs among the list of wild New Year resolutions.

There never can be secure world peace until—or unless—some systematic method of adjusting difficulties be adopted. Some kind of League of Nations that means something.

Or until and unless there is a world alliance of two or three nations of such terrific and overwhelming power that nobody else even dares to think about war.

Meanwhile M. Briand's remarks may be placed among the pleasant holiday sentiments.

WASTED SELF-PITY

A young highbrow friend of mine says that he has been investigating the afflictions of the world.

And that the worst is a wife who goes to sleep in the middle of your wails of self-pity.

And, if—with crushing dignity—you get up and dress and go to sit up in the living-room just to show her what a lack of sympathy means to a lonely soul . . .

And she goes right on sleeping.

A GAME LOSER

It takes a life-sized man to take a licking.

And I have never known any other person to rise from defeat with the gameness and unwhimpering courage of Jack Dempsey.

The truth is, Dempsey at his best could have licked Gene Tunney as easily as the fair and tempestuous Lenglen cleans up Mary Browne.

But—although he must realize this more clearly than anybody else—he has never let out a squawk to that effect. He says he was licked because he was licked. And lets it go at that.

WHIT

In only one point is he making a mistake—in trying to train to take the championship back.

For a long time he was the champ. He won it heroically from a fighter big enough to eat him alive. He held it valiantly; and made enough money to finance a European war.

Were he to win it back now, it would only mean losing it again later on to some one else—so what's the use?

THE TALENTED SUZANNE

As to Lenglen—she gave an interesting exhibition of ripping good tennis. But it is a bad thing for sport.

In the exit professional tennis will inevitably lead to crooked methods.

There would be no permanent box-office value to a champion against whom no other professional had the remotest chance of winning.

POLICE DOGS

Among the after-Christmas reflections—

A new thoroughbred police dog pup of ancient and high degree is more responsibility than a baby.

These dogs are of such quivering sensitiveness that you can ruin them almost with a harsh word—not to mention a blow.

GRAND JURORS HEAR WOOLLEY

Attorney of Pastor Denies "Martin" Dealings

Evangelist Says She Wrote to Mrs. Ormiston

Radio Man Attends Hearing But Doesn't Talk

Los Angeles August 21, last, declaring she was the woman at Carmel and not Mrs. McPherson—as the State contended at the preliminary hearing.

He met all of Mrs. Wiseman's assertions concerning the asserted Carmel hoax with emphatic denials, he said.

Mr. Woolley emphatically denied that he had been dismissed from the evangelist's defense counsel rather, he stated, he withdrew from the legal ranks on the advice of his counselor, Attorney Lawlor, shortly after the preliminary hearing.

Attorney Hanner was called to the stand to substantiate portions of Mr. Woolley's testimony concerning his warnings against Mrs. Wiseman at the time she entered the case.

"I simply said," Mr. Hanner declared, "that Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. McPherson's mother, called me to the temple at the time Mrs. Wiseman appeared and asked me to investigate her story, because she said she did not trust Mr. Woolley's judgment on the matter and that he had advised against having anything to do with Mrs. Wiseman.

CAUTION GIVEN

"Mrs. Kennedy cautioned me at that time to say nothing of my efforts to Mr. Woolley."

Attempts also were made in the grand-jury room to question Mr. Woolley concerning negotiations with Mrs. McPherson over the payment of her legal bill with him, he said. Mr. Keyes, Mr. Woolley said, declared that the negotiations had nothing to with the investigation at hand.

Attorney Oscar Lawler, who handled the fee-payment negotiations for Mr. Woolley, said "that's Mr. Woolley's business" concerning a reported split with Mrs. McPherson when he offered to settle the bill.

Mr. Keyes announced the grand jury investigation into the matter will be resumed next Tuesday.

Mrs. Viria Kimball, twin sister of Mrs. Wiseman, who recently arrived in Los Angeles from Oakland, declared she believes her sister is "telling the truth."

"When my sister first confessed in this mess," Mrs. Kimball said, "I advised her at that time to tell all the truth. I believe she finally has seen the light and now is telling the whole truth as far as 'Mr. Martin' is concerned."

Mrs. Kimball has instituted a $1,-500,000 slander suit against Mrs. McPherson because of the asserted efforts of Mrs. McPherson's attorneys at the recent preliminary hearing to prove she was the "Miss X" in the case.

LETTER ADMITTED

Mrs. McPherson admitted yesterday that she wrote a letter to Mrs. Ruth Ormiston, estranged wife of her former radio operator, but denied it was "impertinent," as Mrs. Ormiston contended in a story printed exclusively in The Times Wednesday.

"It was just an ordinary letter with no more significance than any one of the thousands of letters I send out every month to my friends and acquaintances," Mrs. McPherson said.

"I simply dictated that letter to my stenographer with many others similar in tone and feeling.

"I have instituted a search of my files for a carbon copy of the missive. I think we will find it and I won't mind in the least having it made public. It explains itself—just an ordinary, every-day, friendly letter.

"I don't remember, of course, when I dictated the letter but I believe it was several days prior to May 18, last."

According to dispatches received by The Times from Sydney, Australia, where Mrs. Ormiston is living with her father, a wealthy ice-cream manufacturer, she said the letter was written and mailed to her by Mrs. McPherson on May 18 when the evangelist says she was kidnaped from Venice.

PLEDGES TO SHOW IT

Mrs. Ormiston described the letter as "most impertinent" and declared she will produce it, as well as a farewell letter she said she received from her husband. In the letter from Ormiston, she said, he told her he loved her; that he was going "to live on memories," and that the reason he separated from her was because of his tubercular infected leg which he said doctors told him would affect his spine. Mrs. Ormiston, dispatches said, asserted her husband had passed a severe insurance policy test before he wrote the letter.

Mrs. Ormiston declined to disclose the contents of the May 18 letter and it now reposes in a safety deposit box in a Sydney bank. It will be brought by her, together with Ormiston's farewell letter, as exhibits in her desertion divorce case against her husband to be prosecuted between January and June in Los Angeles.

MORE TESTIMONY

Further testimony will be taken by the jury at its next session scheduled for Tuesday.

Among those who are expected to be called then is Ormiston, who yesterday waited in the corridors of the Hall of Justice during the entire day, but he was not called before the jury.

The former Angelus Temple radio man displayed little interest in the dispatches from Sydney in which his wife was quoted as saying that she had received an "impertinent" letter from Mrs. McPherson.

"I know where that stuff came from," Ormiston told interviewers. "and it doesn't worry me in the least."

Ormiston then sat down to a typewriter in the District Attorney's office and issued the following statement:

"Concerning the statements attributed to Mrs. Ormiston, I wish to say that since they are untrue in regard to matters of which I have knowledge, that I am firmly of the belief that such statements were not made by her. Furthermore, I have had positive information from my wife expressing an attitude very different from these remarks purporting to have been made by her. I naturally know nothing of the alleged correspondence."

STORY REPEATED

Walter B. Lambert, Mill-street habergasher, voluntarily appeared before the jury during the latter part of the morning session and retold his story of having seen the evangelist entering a downtown hotel in which Ormiston then was registered under the name of George McIntyre.

It was through Lambert the State sought to prove that the evangelist met her former radio operator in the hotel on the morning of May 18, the day of her disappearance, and by which it hoped further to cement the evidence said to connect Mrs. McPherson with the ten-day sojourn of Ormiston in a Carmel bungalow with the mystery woman who Ormiston later designated only as "Miss X."

Five deputy district attorneys, most of whom comprise Keyes' so-called "board of strategy," took part in the jury proceedings yesterday. They were Deputies Dennison and Murray, who have handled the McPherson case for Keyes; Bonner Richardson, Lickley and Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Davis. None of them would make statements on the status of the case.

VIVISECTION DENOUNCED BY ARLISS

English Actor in Talk to California Organization Also Hits Use of Serums

Multiplication of serums to cure disease is only increasing the number of hospitals and hospital inmates, declared George Arliss, English actor, now at a local theater, in an address at a meeting of the California Anti-vivisection Society at the Biltmore yesterday.

Mr. Arliss and his wife, both ardent antivivisectionists, were the honor guests at the meeting, which was presided over by Rosamond Mae Wright of Los Angeles, president of the organization.

The point stressed by Mr. Arliss was that antivivisection, aside from being cruel and immoral, is unnecessary and that despite numerous serums evolved from experimentation on animals, disease is increasing.

"The opposition to vivisection is growing not only among the laity, but even in the medical profession," said Mr. Arliss. "Many doctors would denounce the system if they dared speak their minds. In my opinion, it will never cease to exist, however, until the public thoroughly understands how barren of results the practice is."

The actor commended the work against vivisection being accomplished in California.

"You have gone farther in creating a sentiment against this practice than any other State," he declared. "There is a strong movement in England against vivisection, but the English are looking to California for leadership in the fight to stamp out this evil for all time."

Both were treated at the Receiving Hospital by Police Surgeon Carey. The child later was taken to the General Hospital.

SIXTY-FOUR DAMAGE SUITS FILED

Sixty-four damage suits growing out of the collapse of a grand stand last New Year's Day at the annual Tournament of Roses at Pasadena were filed yesterday. Fifty-five suits, asking approximately $2,000,000, were filed in Superior Court, and nine suits, asking $403,600, were filed in United States District Court by persons residing outside the State.

The suits filed in Superior Court were directed at the city of Pasadena, the Tournament of Roses Association, Paul F. Mahoney, contractor, who was tried and convicted as a result of the accident, and more than a score of other individuals. With the filing of the suits, it was announced that forty more will be filed today, the last day for presenting claims. The suits were filed by Attorneys George W. Padgham and Bertrand J. Wellman.

The suits filed in Federal Court, by the same attorneys, accuse the city of Pasadena and the Tournament of Roses Association of permitting the grand stand to be erected without requiring proper plans and specifications. It is asserted competent inspectors were not employed, and that despite prior knowledge that the stand had been faultily constructed and was dangerous, no remedial effort was made.

The Federal suits named thirty-eight defendants, including the city of Pasadena, the Tournament of Roses Association, officials of both workers, and Mahoney, the contractor, and E. B. Lockwood, asserted owner of the lot at the southeast corner of Colorado and Madison streets where the stand was erected. Among the Pasadena officials named are City Directors Franklin B. and A. N. Cole, Easterbrook, Thomas, Loomis, Wadsworth and Newcomer, City Manager Orbison, City Inspector Shaver and Chief of Police Kelley.

PACIFIC ELECTRIC URGES EARLY TRAVEL

Announcing completion of plans to handle traffic to the Pasadena Tournament of Roses and Football game New Year's Day, the Pacific Electric yesterday urged visitors to start earlier this year.

Two-minute service will be given during the rush period and special trains will be operated from practically every city on the Pacific Electric lines. About one-third of the local railway's passenger equipment has been set aside for the Pasadena movement. Service to other points on the system will be curtailed until noon.

Beginning at noon special three-car trains for the football stadium will leave the Sixth and Main-street station every few minutes, continuing up to the start of the game. To expedite train movements the front section of the station will be used exclusively for Pasadena-bound trains. All movements to Pasadena will be made north on Main street.

PATH PAVED TO END LIEN EVILS

for all public improvement bonds. The proposed extension may be more than five years but not to exceed thirty years.

OTHER PROTECTIONS

City Attorney Stephens is at work on a number of amendments to the public improvement acts to protect the property owners who have been assessed less than $25 for an improvement. It is these small assessments that are purchased by the sharks and excessive costs added for the property owner. One provision will be the requirement that personal service must be made on the property owner whose delinquent assessment has been purchased by the assessment dealer. The cost of the service will be so much greater than the fees allowed by law that the amendment is expected to make it unprofitable for the sharks to purchase many assessments.

Another of City Attorney Stephens's proposed amendments provides that when an assessment dealer sends a bill of fees and charges to a property owner whose assessment is delinquent before the dealer has brought suit in the courts, then the property owner by filing an affidavit with the City Assessment Bureau, setting forth the attempted extortion, will be relieved of paying anything and the city will cancel the assessment. The shark thus will lose the money he gave the city when he purchased the assessment.

MAY END PROFIT

In other words, the amendment provides that the assessment sharks must proceed according to law, file suit, obtain personal service on the property owner and then go into court in the regular manner. The cost of all this will be so great, it is expected, that the purchasing of delinquent assessments of less than $25 will become an unprofitable business.

Councilman Golden is at work on an amendment to the State law and changes in the city's own procedure which will enable the city to purchase all delinquent assessments with idle money in the City Treasury. While the interest earnings on this money will be 10 per cent, the delinquency penalty provided by law, and the city earnings will be large from this source, the saving to the assessment payer also will be great, as the interest charge is trivial compared to the fees exacted by the sharks.

By the time the Legislature meets, the City Attorney and the Council plan to have ready for presentation at Sacramento a complete program of legislation designed to correct all of the most serious phases of the unpaid assessment evil.

interest last summer, when the Council had withheld Contractor Gadd's $1,086,000 for the West Adams improvement but ceased this interest when the West Adams case was transferred to the courts.

SKELETON HINTED

The most interesting testimony of the afternoon was given by Melville Dozier, Jr., executive secretary of the local chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America, who told the circumstances preceding the adoption of a resolution by the chapter recommending that the City Council end the delay over paying Contractor Gadd the money due for the West Adams improvement.

At one time there was a flare-up between Contractor Gadd and Dozier. The latter was at one time State flood control engineer and Gadd was employed in the State department. Reference to this past employment of Gadd was made by Dozier, Gadd, who had been seated in the seat of the Councilmen with his feet on the Councilman's desk, became enraged and shouted something inaudible to Dozier, who hotly replied:

"If Gadd wants me to make public his record with the State flood control department, I'll make it public. I'll tell what I know about you if you want me to. I have kept silent so far but I have the records and if you want the facts to be known, Gadd, I'll tell them."

Gadd's attorney flew to his rescue, everybody talked at once and there was much hubbub. Finally Deputy City Attorney Neal ruled that Gadd's past was of no concern to the committee and so the incident was concluded.

TAMPERING HINT IN SLAYING

Witnesses Balk on Stand and Court Halts Hearing; Grand Jury Inquiry May Be Asked

Balked by the sullen refusal of two witnesses to testify, the preliminary examination of Francisco Velasquez, 39 years of age, lancer at a local country club, who is accused of the murder of Jose Martinez, asserted unwelcome suitor for the love of the defendant's daughter, 15, yesterday was halted by Municipal Judge Blake. The two witnesses were ordered held as material witnesses and date for resumption of the hearing was set for next Monday.

The preliminary hearing came to an abrupt recess when Juanita Velasquez, around whom the crime is said to have been centered and who had proven an excellent witness at the Coroner's inquest, refused to tell her story on the stand. Her action followed a similar refusal on the part of Jesus Cabral, 22, against whom co-defendant charges of murder had just been dismissed by the court.

In ordering the witnesses held, Judge Blake declared that apparently both had been tampered with in some way. Later it was shown that the girl had visited her father in the County Jail on several occasions before yesterday's hearing.

Judge Blake ordered the girl held in Juvenile Hall and Cabral, said to be the favored suitor, confined in the County Jail. Following Judge Blake's action it was intimated that the sudden change in the attitude of the witnesses may be brought before the grand jury for investigation.

Martinez, the asserted unwanted suitor, was slain on the 21st inst., following an altercation with Velasquez. The murdered man was stabbed twice by the latter, according to the prosecution, once in the cheek and again in the abdomen. His body was found the next day beside a fence over which he had attempted to crawl.

Velasquez's defense will be based on self-defense, according to his attorney, Joseph R. Marquette, Jr.

The case against Cabral, who was with Velasquez at the time, was dismissed for lack of evidence, according to Judge Blake's ruling.

Frankie Bailey Under Knife at Local Hospital

Frankie Bailey, former Broadway favorite and lately motion-picture actress, underwent a serious operation yesterday morning at the Pacific Hospital and last night was reported resting well.

During her New York experience she was associated with Weber and Fields and was once reputed to have possessed the "most perfect legs in the world." Twenty years ago any girl having unusually shapely legs was said to boast of "a pair of Frankie Baileys."

While on location with a motion-picture company some six weeks ago Miss Bailey met with an accident which seemed not serious at the time. Wednesday night her physician, Dr. Louis Levin, pronounced her condition critical, and she was hurried to the hospital.

Recently she has appeared in pictures with John Barrymore, Colleen Moore and other stars. She has been doing screen work since 1922.

De Mille Denies Economy Wave Sweeping Studio

Assertions in a theatrical publication that the De Mille studio is curtailing expenses, has discharged a number of employees, is planning to discharge others and is working on no productions other than "The King of Kings," because that film cost far more than had been expected, were denied yesterday by Cecil De Mille and other studio officials.

"The King of Kings, they declared, is costing very little more than had been expected. It has cost $2,000,000 now and is practically finished. It had been estimated to cost $2,000,000. It had been agreed this expense was to be no object in making the film.

Two other companies are working, it was said. Jetta Goudal in "White Gold" and a company on location making "Rubber Tires." It is planned to start four more pictures in January, including a special production in charge of William De Mille.

Denial also was made that there has been any discharging of employees beyond the ordinary turnover.

Last-Day-of-the-Month Sale Friday

THE-LAST-DAY-OF-THE-MONTH SALE for December is also the LAST-DAY-OF-THE-YEAR SALE. It gains importance by reason of this fact. It is a clearance with a double incentive, a compound motive. The desire to close the month, and especially the year, with all stocks clear of broken lines or incomplete assortments finds expression in an exceptionally thorough-going selection of goods for clearance.

Quantities in most cases are limited. Hence it is not practical to give extensive itemized lists.

ING MYSTIC AIDS HUSBAND IN WIFE HUNT

Occult Powers Enlisted After Note Threatening Suicide Comes to Light

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 30.—Placing his faith on occult powers, Jay Sprague, for whose wife police and Sheriff's officers have been searching the beaches since the missing last night of a note in which Mrs. Flora Sprague threatened to commit suicide, has hired a Hindo psychic. Accompanied by the psychic he has been searching for her since her disappearance.

The police advance the opinion that Mrs. Sprague is alive inasmuch as she was reported seen at Alhambra since the finding of the asserted suicide note. She is said to have had her baby girl, Phyllis, with her.

Investigation of an automobile parked on Ocean avenue near Marguerita avenue, Ocean Park, led to the discovery of the note, according to a police report by Lieutenant Bray.

The note addressed to Ira advised looking for Mrs. Sprague's body along the beaches after 9 o'clock and intimated that friendship with other women on the husband's part prompted the wife's decision to go away with herself. She is 28 years of age and the family resided at 1331 Pennsylvania avenue, Monota.

The note signed Flora, reads:

"I have taken all the money and bestings from you I am going to."

The woman's husband and a brother-in-law were sent for last night and assisted the police in the search but no trace of a body was found on the beaches.

According to the police Mrs. Sprague was to have appeared in court yesterday on peace disturbance charges and to have arisen out of an altercation in Gardena with another woman. The police said she may be slain and that dread of appearing in court may have led to her disappearance.

Corsage Proves Poor Place for Hiding Narcotic

A large bunch of violets she wore as a corsage failed as a safe hiding place for a quantity of morphine and a hypodermic needle, for possession of which Mrs. Bessie Gibson and her husband, Montey Gibson, yesterday were held to answer to the Superior Court by Municipal Judge Ambrose.

The violet corsage figured largely in the testimony of Policeman Bernhardi, the arresting officer, who said that he found the narcotic and the needle after he had arrested the couple as they drove up before a house at 1874 La Brea street last Monday night.

In holding the pair to answer charges of violation of the State Poison Act, Judge Ambrose set bail at $2500 each.

AUSTRALIAN TRADE TO BE DISCUSSED

Two Government Experts Coming Here to Talk With Los Angeles Shippers

Australian market possibilities for goods manufactured in Los Angeles will be discussed by prospective local foreign traders with E. C. Squire of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, who is detailed to Sidney to supervise the work of the bureau in that country. Mr. Squire will arrive here on Monday.

In a message received yesterday by Clarence Matson, manager of the trade-extension department of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Squire stated that he will do all possible to stimulate interest in the coming "foreign trade week," January 24 to 31, during his stay here, and he is particularly anxious to learn the problems of Southern California firms interested in marketing their goods abroad. He will make his headquarters in the trade-extension department of the chamber while here.

Mr. Squire for the past three years has been trade commissioner in charge of the bureau's work in Hamburg, Germany.

Coincident with the visit here of Trade Commissioner Squire, Trade Commissioner Elmer G. Pauly, reassigned to Melbourne after having been in charge of that office for three years, will also make his headquarters at the Chamber of Commerce. He will likewise discuss opportunities for Los Angeles goods in the Australian trade area. He is thoroughly familiar with markets for local products in the Melbourne district.

Both visitors will welcome interviews by manufacturers and chamber officials have requested that local firms take advantage of their presence in the city.

Miss Banks recently returned from New York, Chicago and Kansas City, where this thoroughbred won international trophies and titles.

Following the show a horse show ball will be given at the Beverly Hills Woman's Club. It will be the first event of its kind in the Southland.

GIRL DROWNS IN BACKYARD POOL

Police Strive for Hour In Vain Effort to Resuscitate Child-Victim

Police of the Seventy-seventh street division worked over the child with a pulmotor for an hour before hope was abandoned. The body was taken to the Mexican mortuary on Whittier Boulevard.

COLLEGE EDUCATION URGED

The views of educators who regard with alarm the rapid increase during recent years of the number of college students, are not shared by Dr. Albert Britt, president of Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., who maintains that the increasing demand for higher education will result in ultimate benefit to this nation.

Dr. Britt, who arrived at the Biltmore yesterday, is here to greet the Knox alumni, of whom there are several hundred in Los Angeles. On next Tuesday evening he will be the guest of honor at an alumni banquet to be given at the University Club.

"No doubt many persons enter college who would be better off without such training, but up to this time no infallible system to bar the unfit has been devised," said Dr. Britt. "A boy often enters college whose high-school record is far from excellent and yet he may suddenly wake up in college, become a brilliant student and go out in the world better equipped to live and more useful to society than if he had been deprived of a college education.

"To say that a fine line should be drawn between those who should go to college and those who should not is almost like suggesting a line of demarcation between persons who should be permitted to live and persons who should not. A college career is, in some ways, a life in miniature and the success or failure of one who undertakes it is governed, broadly, by much the same sort of principles."

Referring to the hue and cry as to the moral evils in colleges and universities today, Dr. Britt insisted that the modern college student is no better and no worse than the student of thirty years ago.

"From my observations of college and university life," he said, "I should say that 99 per cent of the students are as clean, decent and hard-working as they were in the so-called old days. Lurid tales in regard to college profligacy that occasionally become current are usually the result of the escapades of two or three incorrigibles and by no means a reflection of general conditions."

Robert Judy to Wed Miss Clark This Afternoon

Constance Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Herbert Clark, will kneel at the altar of the Church of the Angels, Avenue 64, this afternoon at 4 o'clock beside Robert Parsons Judy, head of the department of personnel for the Southern California Telephone Company. Miss Clark's marriage will come as a surprise to her friends, who have known of her engagement for the last two years and of her plans to be married in June. Less than two days ago she determined to show the world that a university co-ed can keep house and get a bachelor's degree at the same time.

The bride is an Alpha Gamma Delta, has been a student at Mills College and is now completing her course in University of California, Southern Branch. Mr. Judy is a graduate of Stanford University.

Miss Clark will be attended by her sister, Mrs. John P. Romacher, as matron of honor. Mildred Robinson, Tony Munro and Constance Crookshank of Santa Ana.

Boy Goes Astray on Search for Electric Globe

Search for a light globe for an electric train he had received at Christmas is said to have led Emmett Lee Baldwin, 11 years of age, son of Harry Baldwin, 1012 East Maple street, Glendale, into the wanderlust, according to a report yesterday to the Sheriff's office. Attired in blue overalls, Boy Scout shirt, gray coat and a black cap, he left his home Monday evening. He is a pronounced blond, with three warts on his left hand.

Passenger on First Railway to Coast Dies

When the first passenger train left Kansas City for San Francisco, after the Southern Pacific Railway was completed in 1869, one of those on board was Mrs. Emma M. Montague, 82 years of age, a pioneer resident of Los Angeles, who will be buried today.

She was a native of New London, O., and had planned to come to the West by wagon, but postponed her departure that she might make the trip by rail. On her arrival in San Francisco, she continued the journey to Los Angeles by boat and stage and has lived here ever since at 122 East Twenty-eighth street. Her husband, Newell S. Montague, died two years ago.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Miller of Los Angeles and Mrs. Minnie M. Merrill of Lankershim; one son, Edwin Montague of Live Oak, and a grand-daughter, Mrs. Mildred M. Guerin of Ottawa, Ill. There are also two great-grandchildren.

The funeral service will be conducted at 1:30 p.m. today at the Rosedale Cemetery chapel.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Sarah P. Vawter, he leaves a brother, John C. Vawter of Helena, Mont., and a sister, Mrs. E. Barnes of Rockport, Ill. The body is at Edwards Brothers.

INDIAN GIRL HAS ALIBI IN DEED FRAUD

Attorney Declares She Was Not Even Present During Drawing Up of Paper

When Annie Dupes, Cherokee Indian, comes up for preliminary examination January 11 on charges of forging a deed and offering a false statement for record, testimony will be introduced that she was not even present when the original deed she is accused of altering was made, nor was she mentioned in it, it was said yesterday by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ham and Investigator Sprankling.

The deed originally was from E. B. Mathias and his wife Rilla to J. E. Phillips, who, under the name of John E. Smith, was Mrs. Dupes's employer, and was for lot 81, Tract 1230, of Map 17, of the county records only, it was declared. When the deed was recorded, according to the investigators, it contained descriptions of more than 100 pieces of real estate in all parts of town, and the name of Annie Dupes. The property it appeared to convey was worth more than $1,000,000.

The recording of this asserted forbery clouded many titles, among them that of Albert Erickson of Burbank, who had owned a piece of property since 1901 and had never heard of Phillips or the Dupes woman. He discovered it when he tried to sell. The deed was made to Phillips and acknowledged before John E. Smith, as a notary public, and it was not discovered until there was a contest of the will of the supposed Smith that Phillips and Smith were the same person, according to the investigators.

GEST TO BE WELCOMED HERE TODAY

Members of Producer's Staff Announce Plans for Reception Complete

Plans for the reception to be tendered Morris Gest, producer of "The Miracle," who is scheduled to arrive in Los Angeles today, were completed last night, according to members of his staff. Other members of the reception party will be representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, members of the producer's staff and several personal friends.

Mr. Gest will go into conference immediately with committees in charge of the presentation of the spectacle at the Shrine Auditorium in January. Another matter which will engage his attention is a conference with Max Reinhardt, creator, and Karl Vollmoeller, author of "The Miracle." They are now en route from Vienna and are expected to reach Los Angeles early next week.

The spectacle will end its run in San Francisco on January 15, 1927, following which it will be presented in this city.

Wife Charges Spouse Loved 'Sight Unseen'

Letters purporting to have been written to a woman friend of his wife, whom he had never seen, played a prominent part in the contested divorce action of Mrs. Clarabel W. Long and S. O. Long. The woman named as the recipient of the letters was Miss Antonia Meunier, now deceased. Judge Rosencrans denied a divorce to Mrs. Long, granting the decree yesterday to her husband, who had filed a cross-complaint.

Mrs. Long, in her complaint, charged her husband with becoming infatuated with her friend, whom he had never met. Long countered with a cross-complaint charging desertion and asserting his wife took their child and secreted it from him. Mrs. Long was awarded the custody of the child.

EX-CRIMINAL TO SPEAK

Reformed Pickpocket Will Lecture at Immanuel Church

R. W. (Razor) Fenton, once as slick a pickpocket as ever filched a pocketbook, but now reformed and a lecturer, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, and will speak in the Immanuel Presbyterian Church, Figueroa and Tenth streets, Sunday night on "Crime From the Criminal's Viewpoint."

The reformed man declared that prohibition had nothing to do with the crime wave. Instead, he said, it was created by the carelessness of the public. People handle money and valuables much more carelessly now than before the war, he declared. The crook's path, therefore, is made much easier.

Fenton was once associated with Herb Wilson, mail bandit, now serving a life term in San Quentin for murder of a cellmate.

EX-KAISER NOT IN FILM ROLE

Laemmle Denies Report of Contract With Former Ruler and Wife

There is absolutely nothing in the published story that the ex-Kaiser and his wife, Empress Hermine, are to play leading roles in a motion picture to be made by Universal, Carl Laemmle, president of that organization, said yesterday.

To The Times, he said in discussing the story:

"The first time I heard anything about it was in this morning's paper. There is absolutely nothing in it and you may quote me to that effect or that I denied it absolutely."

Miss Colby looked once shrewdly at him in the dim light on the ferry-boat. But he did not have the perfidious smirk or the brazen swagger of the lady-killer. Sincerity and modesty shone through his boreal tan. It seemed to her that it might be good to hear a little of what he had to say.

"You may sit down," she said, laying her hand over a yawn with ostentatious politeness; "and—mind—don't get fresh or I'll call the steward."

The Man from Nome sat by her side. He admired her greatly. He

"Miss," said the Man from Nome, with deeper earnestness and monotony, "I never saw anybody I liked as well as I do you. I know you can't think that way of me right yet; but can't you give me a chance? Won't you let me know you, and see if I can't make you like me?"

The head of the Girl from Sieber-Mason's slid over gently and rested upon his shoulder. Sweet sleep had won her, and she was dreaming rapturously of the Wholesale Fish Dealers' Assistants' ball.

The gentleman from Nome kept his arms to himself. He did not suspect sleep, and yet he was too wise to attribute the movement to surrender. He was greatly and blissfully thrilled, but he ended by regarding the head upon his shoulder as an encouraging preliminary, merely advanced as a harbinger of his success, and not to be taken advantage of.

One small speck of alloy discounted the gold of his satisfaction. Had he spoken too freely of his wealth? He wanted to be liked for himself.

"I want to say, Miss," he said, "that you can count on me. They know me in the Klondike from Juneau to Circle City and down the whole length of the Yukon. Many a night I've laid in the snow up there where I worked like a slave for three years, and wondered if I'd ever have anybody to like me. I didn't want all that dust just myself. I thought I'd meet just the right one some time, and I done it today. Money's a mighty good thing to have, but to have the love of the one you like best is better still. If you was ever to marry a man, Miss, which would you rather he'd have?"

"Cash!"

The word came sharply and loudly from Miss Colby's lips, giving evidence that in her dreams she was now behind her counter in the great department store of Sieber-Mason.

Her head suddenly bobbed over sideways. She awoke, sat straight, and rubbed her eyes. The Man from Nome was gone.

"Gee, I believe I've been asleep," said Miss Colby. "Wonder what became of the White Wings!"

DAVID WALLOPS GOLIATH AGAIN

Little Boy South Gate Lays Giant Los Angeles Low With Pebble Furnished by Judge Shaw in Fight Over Power-Line Rights

The little town of South Gate is right and the city of Los Angeles is wrong in the quarrel that has raged between the two municipalities for the last several weeks over the city's attempt to run a power line through South Gate, Judge Shaw of the Superior Court ruled yesterday.

The Legislature was wrong too, according to Judge Shaw's decision, for he held that the act under which the city was trying to proceed is unconstitutional.

Los Angeles brought suit against South Gate under an act passed in 1923 which provided, among other things, that when one city wishes to run a power line across the streets of another, and the two municipalities cannot agree upon terms and conditions, the court may make a judgment setting forth terms and conditions.

Los Angeles, in the complaint, recites that it had purchased right of way for a high-tension line connecting the power station at Central avenue and Ninety-sixth street with the receiving station at Main and Power streets, that this line would pass through South Gate, and that the two municipalities had been unable to agree upon terms and conditions for the right to cross the streets of South Gate.

The City Attorney of Southgate demurred on the ground that the act of 1923 was unconstitutional. Judge Shaw heard arguments on the demurrer.

"I am of the opinion that the act is unconstitutional in that it attempts to confer legislative powers upon the court," Judge Shaw said. "Here the court is seemingly required to draw from thin air a set of terms and conditions for the use of certain streets for certain purposes. Grave questions of public safety are involved, and the manner of control of power-line conditions is one of policy, which lies with the legislative branch of government to determine.

"The demurrer therefore will be sustained without leave to amend."

Exercises Mark Start of Work on New Theater

While great steam shovels gouged the site of Warner Brothers $1,500,000 theater building now under construction at the northeast corner of Hollywood Boulevard and Wilcox avenue, ceremonies marking the beginning of Hollywood's newest theater were held yesterday afternoon.

Many of the leading figures in the film city participated. Motion-picture cameras ground out a permanent record of the occasion.

Among those who figured in the activities were officials of Warner Brothers studio, including Jack L. Warner, Raymond L. Schrock, Darryl Francis Zanuck and William Koenig.

Dolores Costello, Monte Blue, Louise Fazenda, Patsy Ruth Miller and William Demarest were among the players present. There also were several directors present, among them being Michael Curtiz, Paul Stein, Lloyd Bacon and Roy Del Ruth.

Henry G. Watkins, Head of Howard Park Company, Dies at 63 Years of Age

Henry G. Watkins, 63 years of age, president of the Howard Park Company, and prominent in realty circles here for a score of years, died yesterday of heart disease at his home, 3809 Briar Cliff Road. He had been ill for some time, but remained at his office until a few days ago. Watkins was the principal developer of Athens-on-the-Hill, and was connected with other prominent promotions.

HENRY G. WATKINS

He was born in Joliet, Ill., and came to California thirty years ago, locating at Hemet, where he was a rancher and real estate man. In 1909 he came to Los Angeles and became president of the Howard Park Company in 1910.

He leaves his widow, three brothers, W. E. Watkins of Los Angeles, Robert Watkins of Joliet and Milton Watkins of Denver, and one sister, Mrs. Angie McCann of Michigan.

Funeral services will be conducted at Pierce Brothers' chapel tomorrow at 2 p.m., followed by cremation. Frank James, former president of the Los Angeles Bar Association, will make the principal address.

MANUAL ARTS NIGHT CLASSES TO REOPEN

Manual Arts Evening High School will reopen next Monday with many new classes in art metal, typewriting, geometry, bookbinding, dramatics, mechanical drawing and other courses. A ten weeks' course in salesmanship and a new course in architectural drawing also will open January 3. English for foreigners and a short course in the alteration of commercial patterns to suit the figure and pocket making can accommodate additional students. All courses are free of charge.

"Times" Daily Short Story

THE FERRY of UNFULFILMENT

By O. HENRY

AT THE street corner, as solid as granite in the "rush-hour" tide of humanity, stood the Man from Nome. The Arctic winds and sun had stained him berry-brown. His eye still held the azure glint of the glaciers.

He was as alert as a fox, as tough as a caribou cutlet and as broad-gauged as the aurora borealis. He stood sprayed by a Niagara of sound—the crash of the elevated trains, clanging cars, pounding of rubberless tires and the antiphony of the cab and truck-drivers indulging in scarifying repartee. And so, with his gold dust cashed in to the merry air of a hundred thousand, and with the cakes and ale of one week in Gotham turning bitter on his tongue, the Man from Nome sighed to set foot again in Chilkoot, the exit from the land of street noises and Dead Sea apple pies.

Up Sixth avenue, with the tripping, scurrying, chattering, bright-eyed, homing tide came the Girl from Sieber-Mason's. The Man from Nome looked and saw, first, that she was supremely beautiful after his own conception of beauty; and next, that she moved with exactly the steady grace of a dog sled on a level crust of snow. His third sensation was an instantaneous conviction that he desired her greatly for his own. Thus quickly do men from Nome make up their minds. Besides, he was going back to the North in a short time, and to act quickly was no less necessary.

Down Twenty-Third street she glided swiftly, looking to neither side; no more flirtatious than the bronze Diana above the Garden. Her fine brown hair was neatly bobbed; her neat waist and unwrinkled black skirt were eloquent of the double virtues—taste and economy. Ten yards behind followed the smitten Man from Nome.

Miss Claribel Colby, the Girl from Sieber-Mason's, belonged to that sad company of mariners known as Jersey commuters. She walked into the waiting-room of the ferry, and up the stairs, and by a marvelous swift, little run, caught the ferry-boat that was just going out. The Man from Nome closed up his ten yards in three jumps and gained the deck close beside her.

Miss Colby chose a rather lonely seat on the outside of the upper-cabin. The night was not cold, and she desired to be away from the curious eyes and tedious voices of the passengers. Besides, she was extremely weary and drooping from lack of sleep. On the previous night she had graced the annual ball and oyster fry of the West Side Wholesale Fish Dealers' Assistants' Social Club No. 2, thus reducing her usual time of sleep to only three hours.

The Girl from Sieber-Mason's was in that relaxed, softened mood that often comes to the independent feminine wage-earner. It is a mood most propitious for the man who would woo her. Then she has yearnings to be set in some home and heart; to be comforted, and to hide behind some strong arm and rest. But Miss Claribel Colby was also very sleepy.

There came to her side a strong man, browned and dressed carelessly in the best of clothes, with his hat in his hand.

"Lady," said the Man from Nome, respectfully, "excuse me for speaking to you, but I—I—I saw you on the street, and—and—"

"Oh, gee!" remarked the Girl from Sieber-Mason's, glancing up with the most capable coolness. "Ain't there any way to even get rid of you mashers? I've tried everything from eating onions to using hatpins. Be on your way, Freddie."

"I'm not one of that kind, lady," said the Man from Nome—"honest, I'm not. As I say, I saw you on the street, and I wanted to know you so bald I couldn't help followin' after you. I was afraid I wouldn't ever see you again in this big town unless I spoke; and that's why I done so."

Miss Colby looked once shrewdly at him in the dim light on the ferry-boat. But he did not have the perfidious smirk or the brazen swagger more than admired her. She had exactly the looks he had tried so long in vain to find in a woman. Could she ever come to like him? Well, that was to be seen. He must do all in his power to stake his claim, anyhow.

"My name's Blayden," said he—"Henry Blayden."

"Are you real sure it ain't Jones?" asked the girl, leaning toward him, with delicious, knowing raillery.

"I'm down from Nome," he went on with anxious seriousness. "I scraped together a pretty good lot of dust up there, and brought it down with me."

"Oh, say!" she rippled, pursuing persiflage with engaging lightness, "then you must be on the White Wings force. I thought I'd seen you somewhere."

"You didn't see me on the street today when I saw you."

"I never look at fellows on the street."

"Well, I looked at you; and I never looked at anything before that I thought was half as pretty."

"Shall I keep the change?"

"Yes, I reckon so. I reckon you could keep anything I've got. I reckon I'm what you would call a rough man, but I could be awful good to anybody I liked. I've had a rough time of it up yonder, but I beat the game. Nearly 5000 ounces of dust was what I cleaned up while I was there."

"Goodness!" exclaimed Miss Colby, obligingly sympathetic. "It must be an awful dirty place, wherever it is."

And then her eyes closed. The voice of the Man from Nome had a monotony in its very earnestness. Besides, what dull talk was this of broom and sweeping and dust? She leaned her head back against the wall.

TOO MUCH FUSS

An English doctor says that we make too much fuss over things that are unimportant, but possibly he got his idea from watching the cheer leaders at the football games going into action.

BOSH STILL NEEDED

Page one headline: "Rep. Butler Prescribes New Navy." Radio sermon headline: "Prince of Peace Points Way to World Desire." There are nearly always two roads to any great goal and often both are necessary.

SEEING THINGS DARKLY

Dean Inge was unable to tell the difference between a Democrat and Republican while in this country, but the Democrats would like to draft him to write the platform of their party. He could dig up matters that could properly be viewed with alarm.

RABBITS GALORE

During the first three months of the present year the United States imported more than 1,000,000 rabbit skins. In the hands of furriers these skins change names and serve expensive purposes. To supply such increasing demands bunnies have to be prolific.

ADIOS, CHINCHILLAS

Those furry little creatures, which supplied the royal robes the ancient Incas wore and have since been helping clothe the fashionable women of the world, have had their day. The few that are left belong in that sad procession of vanishing American animals.

MUCH MARRIED

Over in Warsaw a man who had seven living wives was recently sent to prison for bigamy. The funny thing was that all of the wives were on hand at the trial. They all said they loved him and would be waiting for him when he came out. There is one guy who won't be anxious for a parole.

APPROPRIATE

Newspaper make-up is a fine art in itself. The short article headed "Swedish Divorce Laws Explained," printed the other day, would have been skipped by practically every reader if run on the market pages or the sports pages. But it was used to plug a hole on the motion-picture page and doubtless was read with interest by many.

COSTLY COURTING

The woman to whom a New York masher proposed proved to be a member of the police court, a sort of decoy duck, it seems. The masher now complains that the cost of courting on street corners is becoming prohibitive. A police magistrate fixed the cost at $15. So it is not always the woman that pays when affections are trifled with.

AN OLD-TIMER

Congressman Thomas S. Butler of Pennsylvania, who is the father of Gen. Smedley Butler, in entering upon his sixteenth consecutive term in Congress. This is the best-sustained record in either branch at the present time, although Representative Cooper has been in the House for a greater number of years. The senior Butler has been in Congress ever since Bryan first began to run for the Presidency.

HISTORY IN PICTURES

At Northwestern University a series of some thirty-six motion pictures give the students their perspective of American history. Nothing but verities are shown in the films. There is not an incident or an implement that is not established as a fact. The costuming is historically correct and in many cases the settings correspond with the original. Certainly no fault can be found with this manner of teaching the story of America and the beauty of it is that the picture is more impressive than the printed word.

JHL IN THE PULPIT

Women are admitted to the pulpit on equal terms with the men in the Baptist, Congregational and Unitarian churches and now there is a general movement to bring about like consideration in most other denominations. In spite of what St. Paul said, the womanly capacity for sermonizing cannot be denied. With the briefest text and very limited preparation a woman is frequently able to deliver a most potent and vigorous discourse. In telling sinful man where to get off or where to go women are marvels of efficiency.

PERILS OF PRODUCTION

Henry Ford seemed to have the idea that a five-day week would speed up production and, therefore, he favored it and introduced it in many of his departments. Senator Couzens, who used to be a partner of Ford, is urging the five-day week for a different reason. He wants to slow up production. He says our national output in most lines is becoming top heavy. We are creating too much and the Senator fears that unless there is a gradual and modest retrenchment the great problem of a surplus will be encountered in many lines.

"PEACE ON EARTH—"

Italy and Germany have negotiated a new treaty of amity and arbitration. It is one of many such treaties between European powers signed during the last two years; and their import marks a new departure in European diplomacy.

While the uninformed may ask why such treaties are necessary when the World Court is a tribunal for composing national differences, those who have followed the trend of affairs in Europe since 1919 see in them a new proof of the potency for the preservation of friendly foreign relations of the League of Nations and the World Court.

These treaties show how far the powers of Europe have progressed in justiciable settlement of national differences. The World Court exists as the court of last resort. For two nations to take their differences to that tribunal is like two individuals going to law. Suits are seldom brought in a friendly spirit and, with peoples as with individuals, it is always better if the differences can be compromised by amicable agreement. Nevertheless, courts of law are necessary for cases where the individuals cannot agree; and the World Court is necessary for those cases where peoples cannot agree.

Under these arbitration treaties the governments seek to avoid inflaming public opinion, a process that preceded almost all the wars of the past. The two governments appoint their representatives for a conference. These representatives appoint neutral arbiters to sit with them; and it is stipulated that these arbiters must not be nationals of either of the nations involved. Representatives and arbiters meet in private conference to consider the disputed points. If the two governments concerned accept the findings the controversy is ended; but either of the parties to the dispute has the right of appeal to the World Court.

This process marks the greatest stride that has yet been taken in the direction of international amity. Justice and not force becomes the arbiter, and right does not rest with the side with the heaviest armament. It is approaching what only a few years ago would have been styled as too ideal a state for weak and erring human peoples. It was then held that the stronger nations would never forego the advantage of their superior military and economic force.

But the existence of these arbitration treaties is visible and convincing proof that the outlawry of war is actually taking place. A nation that refused to accept the verdict of the committee of arbitration and that again refused to accept the verdict of the World Court would find itself ostracized by the other nations of the world. There is no country so strong as to resist successfully the combined force of the other nations of the world. The isolation in which it would be placed would relieve the necessity of actual warfare.

All the governments of Europe—possibly excepting that of Russia—realize that the decisions of the World Court, backed by the League of Nations, are not to be evaded; just as individuals realize that the decisions of the courts under whose jurisdiction they reside must be final.

The idea of arbitration treaties was first brought to prominence by our own government. For a time its acceptance was slow, but it is now almost universally adopted. It is very possible that war among great powers has finally been abandoned, that it already belongs to the past, like dueling. Wounded honor, of nations as of individuals, no longer demands an effusion of blood.

Peoples once died for ideals; now they live for them.

ADDING 'EM UP

Suckling babes who can sit up in the cradle and give the square root of 47,239 without using a pencil form the new ideal for the American home. Instead of the immemorial "da-da" and "ma-ma" as the first words of prattling infants it is hoped to substitute "Log-a-rithm" and "Cal-cu-lus." Catch 'em young and teach 'em the metric system is the new shibboleth. Then we will be a nation of mathematicians and able to count our accumulating wealth in terms of weights and measurements as well as money, say proponents of the new order in arithmetic.

Members of the Metric Association, in convention assembled, after counting noses by tens, affirmed their belief in the necessity for a radical change in methods of teaching kindergarten children. They pointed with appropriate gestures to French urchins who at a tender age are able to add up the appalling length of a French loaf of bread. With equal facility the immature garcon pridefully can announce the weight of a bushel of potatoes—if he and his family are not so hungry that they eat them instead. Indeed, it was said, so adept are the foreign youngsters reared under the kindly auspices of the metric method that there is almost nothing they cannot figure in their heads. Some of the more ambitious even are planning to wrest from their ignorant little American cousins the incautious francs which somehow have adopted the semblance of dollars. What, ask the convention delegates, could demonstrate more forcefully the need for immediate embracing of metric figures?

While there undoubtedly is something in the argument of the learned gentlemen, it remains to be seen whether the corner grocer and the ice man will start using a "furrin" system of counting. Americans for so long have depended on the trusty yardstick and foot rule and the equally widespread if somewhat complicated system of pounds and ounces that it is no simple matter to substitute therefor a decimalised group of measurements and weights. What, for instance, could take the place of the 100-yard dash and the ten-yard markers on the gridiron? Mr. Smith of U.S.C. might dash madly over several other enthusiastic and opposing young gentlemen for a gain of four meters and seven centimeters in a hectic clash at the Coliseum. But what of it? One hardly can expect football fans to work themselves into a frenzy over a thirteen-meter forward pass. And Charley Paddock would have to go out of business. He has this 100-yard business down to a fine art. He wouldn't know where to stop otherwise.

It might even be necessary for a long time to have two systems of numbers working at once. It is possible that the younger generation can be brought up in the way it should count, but it would be hard on father and mother. Trades people trying to sell things by the quart, the yard, the foot, the centimeter, the hectometer, the hectoliter, the centiliter and the hectogram would fill our asylums in no time. Human nature can stand only so much.

Anyway, Uncle Sam need not lie down and die with shame because he can't count like Europe does. He at least has something to count. Europe hasn't; except war debts. And it's terribly ignorant on that subject.

UNLOOKED-FOR LIBERALITY

Surprising as is Great Britain's note to the Washington treaty powers setting forth her new Chinese policy, an outline of which has been cabled from London, it will probably be satisfactory to all of them, with the possible exception of Japan. It is as much in the nature of a right-about-face as any diplomatic move made by the British Foreign Office in years, and there are those diplomats who will wonder at the why and wherefore of the adoption of a policy of conciliation so little in keeping with the former British attitude toward China.

In brief, the note to the powers contains as its main proposals or recommendations the following: No foreign control of an unwilling China; readiness to negotiate the revision of treaties; immediate levy of the Washington surtaxes for the benefit of China, and amendment of the extraterritorial system of which the Chinese so bitterly complain. The surtaxes referred to are from 2½ to 5 per cent on imports in addition to the regular 5 per cent tariff on both imports and exports, and are intended to give China more revenue than she is receiving under the imposed restrictions.

With reference to the growth of the nationalist movement in China, which seeks an equal place for that country among the nations, the British note states that "any failure to meet this movement with sympathy and understanding would not respond to the real intentions of the powers toward China." The nationalist movement has strong adherents in both the Communist and anti-Communist factions. The note also makes a plea for tariff autonomy for the Chinese and the modification of the traditional attitude of rigid insistence upon the strict letter of treaty rights by the powers. The American government is urged to accept reasonably satisfactory assurances from the Chinese government as to the uses it proposes to make of its new revenues, and Britain asks that the surtaxes should forthwith be authorized, so that China may be given an early opportunity to enjoy the benefit of them.

All this is the more mystifying because it was the obstinacy of Britain and Japan, who were unable to reconcile their conflicting interests in the Orient, that wrecked the Peking Tariff Conference of the powers last summer and caused it to adjourn without reaching a decision on tariff autonomy and other matters after ten months of deliberation. Japan objected to the increase of Chinese customs duties because the Chinese take one-third of her exports and because she was trying to expand her already-large sphere of influence in their country. Britain thought she stood to gain by the failure of the conference because she controlled more Chinese commerce than any other nation and was in charge of the machinery for collecting the duties. British investment in China amounts to $1,000,000,000, and the British have larger territorial and other concessions than any other country. But something has happened since the breaking up of the conference and that is the loss of trade by the British in China. This may be accountable for the reversal of their policy from an exacting to a liberal one.

America has been pursuing a more generous course, and our prominent business men have received assurance of a great future market for the overflow productions of their mills and factories. Britain sees that this policy is a winning one and worthy of imitation.

There may be more behind this new British attitude than what has just been set forth. But it is unlikely that it will appease the Chinese Nationalists, who are so bent upon complete autonomy that they may not accept the provisions of the British note, liberal as they may seem in London.

PSEUDO-PRINCE

Nobody seems to know just who the personable young man is who has been traveling about the Pyrenees and other parts of France as the Prince of Wales. It is a question that is puzzling the authorities of Perpignan and other towns where they do not know whether to lock him up or take off their hats to him and graciously extend the honors due to or expected by royalty. In a large open car he passed through Perpignan to the bows and smiles of the populace and later his arrival at Barcelona was heralded. But somebody had the prying perspicacity to send a telegram to London asking about the true whereabouts of Wales, and the reply was made that he had not left England.

However, there is such a thing as official error, and the French people, recognizing this fact, continued to do honor to the young traveler, who at last accounts was scheduled for a dinner at the British Embassy at Paris, though the said embassy confessed it knew nothing about such an affair and said the people were being imposed upon by a faker.

If there remains any doubt in the minds of the Frenchman as to whether or not the man is the real Prince they might mount him on a fairly frisky nag and turn him loose to leap a few hurdles. If the rider stays in the saddle he is probably not the Prince—if his mount falls at the first high jump they can run up their flags and prepare their after-dinner speeches.

PATERNAL GOVERNMENT

Senator Pat Harrison wants it fixed so that the government can loan $1,200,000,000 to the farmers to help them hold or move their crops. Why not fix it so that any citizen can step up to a glass window and get all the money he wants? If we have a government, why not make it worth something to us?

THE WORM TURNS

A New Jersey man gets a decree of divorce on his showing that he was brutally spanked by the wife. This is a painful indignity to which no spirited benedict will conform. Any wife who so forgets her tender vows as to paddle her partner in the panties is no lady.

A SIGH OF RELIEF
By James J. Montague

Because I was no economic student
I lately feared for our financial health,
And held that we were utterly imprudent
To let one class absorb the country's wealth.
Each day with bated breath I watched the ticker
To catch the earliest symptoms of a crash,
To follow when the men who deal in liquor
Had sapped the banks of every cent of cash.

I knew—of course, by hearsay—what high prices
These people made men pay for what they sold,
I also knew that there must be a crisis
When in their hands was gathered all the gold.
I made a long and careful calculation
Based on the rates for doctored alcohol
And shuddered with alarm and trepidation
To think how soon these lads would wreck us all.

But larger fleas have lesser fleas to bite 'em—
So runs the shrewdest of our ancient saws—
This process carries on, ad infinitum,
And thus preserves our economic laws.
I now have learned that these great liquor vendors—
I do not need to mention any names—
Are not alone extremely lavish spenders,
But fall for bucket shops and bunko games.

So, day by day their vast accumulation
Is melted—easy come and easy go—
The gold they got returned to circulation
And finances go back to status quo.
I'm glad I gave up puzzles and the comics
And mastered, toiling far into the night,
This complicated thing called economics,
For now I'm sure the country is all right!

PEN POINTS

No country is any better than its sorriest judges.

Freedom: A peculiar monopoly of white races.

In these times you get a royal flush about as often as royalty is flush.

"I care not who makes the country's laws if I can pick the juries."

Economy, Federal style: Postpone mending the leak in the roof.

Let's hope the winter will bring forth a dance middle-aged folk can do without wheezing.

You can learn to be dignified, but a solemn ass is just born that way.

"We shall mount up in the air as the eagles." Still, the prophecy may have referred only to Europe.

If all men talked and dressed alike, as they might, there wouldn't be any howl for "equality."

Americanism: Passing laws to make oneself be good; breaking the laws with a clear conscience.

The agreement was to scrap part of the Navy, not to let all of it die of dry rot.

The next generation will have some exercise for its wits. There'll be the Muscle Shoals question.

Suggestion to Chicago and environs: Another good safety device is a railway ticket.

If minerals can't think how does a temperamental fountain pen know you have on your best coat?

Monkeys seize new things quickly and as quickly lose interest. Isn't evolution awful!

Here's the rub. Any true panacea for the farmer will give everybody else a pain.

But why did New Jersey blue-law enforcers think those poor reporters were following a "gainful" occupation.

Future culprit where Will Rogers is Mayor: "But, Mr. Mayor, that law is so funny I thought it was meant for a joke."

Correct this sentence: "I've worn this frock forty times," said she, "but I still like it as well as ever."

No man was ever able to forget the most foolish thing he said or did in his lifetime.

Even the man who married for looks usually gets them when he comes home late to dinner.

One temptation most men quickly learn to resist is the temptation to talk back to their wives.

A wife worries almost as much about the wrinkles coming on her face as her husband does about the vanishing of the hair on his dome.

Crime Wave Subsiding

TUJUNGA, Dec. 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] One hears nowadays much discussion of the so-called "crime wave." The truth is, however, that, despite the opposite claims of the calamity howlers, there really is no "crime wave." On the contrary, there is an abundance of statistical proof that, aside from certain crimes such as bank hold-ups and automobile thefts, lawbreaking in general is decreasing. Sanford Bates, Commissioner of Correction of Massachusetts, says, "The general volume of crime is on the downward trend." S. J. Flaherty, Inspector of the Boston Police Department, reports that "during the five years from 1919 to 1923 the prison population of Massachusetts decreased 69 per cent." Chief of Police Davis said recently of conditions in Los Angeles, "While some classes of crime show a slight increase over last year, the majority of infractions of the law are actually on the decrease."

There can be no doubt that a large percentage of the crime in the United States is attributable to "the failure of the law and its administration to bring criminals to justice." A well-known American statesman and jurist has said that "the administration of criminal law in the United States is a disgrace to civilization." While there is no doubt that crime conditions in the United States are not so bad as some of our pessimistic friends would have us believe, the fact remains that the crime-dealing machinery of the present day is badly in need of reorganization. Shyster lawyers, sob sisters, abuse of the parole system, the law's delay, indeterminate sentences, leniency of judges, juries of untrained and unintelligent citizens—these are some of the factors that contribute to the perversion of justice and make efficient enforcement of the law impossible.

HERBERT G. THOMPSON.

New Penology

OAKLAND, Dec. 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] One of our California dailies reports that 15 per cent of the State's convicts violate parole and that parole violators repeat crimes, proving the need of a character-analyst to determine the eligibility for parole of convicts by means of psychological tests designed to ascertain whether they have overcome the weakness or defect in character which resulted in their imprisonment.

Freedom is the right of those who respect the rights of others.

Until convicts atone their crime by voluntary service in behalf of their fellow-men, thus working out their own salvation, they should be denied freedom.

Without the aid of a character-analyst and vocational guide to determine their eligibility for parole and to ascertain requisite qualifications for specific trades which the industrialization and rehabilitation aims of the new penology propose, by our efficient State Board of Prison Directors necessitates, the board is seriously hampered.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of California, North, at its forty-fifth annual convention, formulated resolutions to petition Gov. Richardson to fill such a need.

It is hoped that before he retires from office and the board is once more confronted with the duty of paroling the scores who seek release each month that the vacancy on the board will be filled.

Ex-Secretary, California Unit, G.R. P.R.I.

Erin Go Bragh!

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] One of the outstanding features of the present time is the bad government of our cities. It seems to be growing worse instead of better. Giving the franchise to women, which was expected to improve matters, has not helped in the slightest degree. Not until the mass of voters take as much interest in good municipal government as they do in prize fighting, football, baseball, movies, etc., will there be any hope for improvement.

British cities that used to be noted for their good city governments are fast going the same way as American cities and are being run solely for the benefit of the employees, law-breakers and corrupt contractors. It seems the lower the qualifications for voting the lower the personnel of the City Councils.

The Irish Free State has had to abolish the Mayor and City Councils of Dublin, Cork, Limerick and Waterford, owing to their grafting and the high taxes which they levied. Commissioners were appointed by the Free State government and already taxation has been reduced one-half and the citizens would not think of going back to Mayors and elective councils again. THE DISH WASHER'S RECORD

BY LEE SHIPPEY

Only four dishes have been broken at the White House during the last eight years!

What a testimonial to domestic family life!

And what a demonstration of the meticulous carefulness of those some dishwashers are credited with!

What a proof that nothing is impossible! For if dishwashers can make a record of only one broken dish, on the average, in two years, what else can be considered impossible?

What a reminder to peek into the kitchen sink!

What an inspiration to sometimes uninspired diplomatic corps!

What an illustration of the high achievement within the reach of ordinary toilers!

Richard Whittington, three times Mayor of London, rose from the ranks of the dishwashers; but it is doubtful that he ever had such a record to boast of.

This is, indeed, great stuff greater than comes out of Washington every day. It touches the whole life of the nation. Women who employ maids will add it to the attention of their employees. Those who do not will hammer it on their husbands. It will open a new vision to the whole problem of domestic economy. In hotels and restaurants it will set new standards—will stand as a challenge to a new era.

The dining-room and kitchen help of the White House force ought to be awarded Congressional medals. Many will think that they ought to be called to their present posts to deal with the crisis in China. But that would be a mistake. They are worth too valuable where they are.

ANNI LABUNTUN

BY HARRY ROWLING

Give—for the sunshine pours
Give—for the hour grows late
Time on the shortening hours
Has closed another gate;
Set love lamps in the window
Spread flowers along the way
Ye cannot seed tomorrow
The fair fields of today.

Give—while the grass is growing
Give—while the roses bloom
Garlands to grace a bier bring
Not wreaths to hide a tomb;
For unmeant slights that rankle
For debts that love cheats pay,
Ye cannot speak tomorrow
The word unsaid today.

Another flag at half-mast
Tells of a year gone by;
More ships are sailing westward
Into the sunset sky;
Each vessel carries onward
Some soul we thought will stay . . .
Ye may not grasp tomorrow
The warm hand of today.

Sad voices in the chimney,
Dim faces in the flame,
Ashes of incense offered
To years that never came,
Thoughts from the soul's fall to Vesta,
Gifts from the heart's rich store
Are seeds that flower in Death
And bloom for evermore.

Divorce Applicant Tells of His Wife's Fondness for Fisticuffs

Fisticuffs, with himself on the receiving end and his wife in the role of prize fighter, was more than Albert C. Beck could stand as a regular part of married life, according to a suit for divorce filed yesterday by Beck against his wife, Adeline Augusta Beck.

In his complaint Beck charges that his wife frequently hit him in the face, not only at home but also on the street, that she was in the habit of using profane language and continually nagged him to such an extent that he was unable to sleep and did not only been forced to leave his bed but also to seek peace with others.

THE DISH WASHER'S RECORD

BY LEE SHIPPEY

Only four dishes have been broken at the White House during the last eight years!

What a testimonial to American family life!

And what a demonstration of the meticulous carefulness of which some dishwashers are capable!

What a proof that nothing is impossible! For if dishwashers can make a record of only one broken dish, on the average, in two years, what else can be considered impossible?

What a reminder to paste over the kitchen sink!

What an example to Congressmen and Senators of how delicate matters ought to be handled!

What an inspiration for our sometimes uninspired diplomatic corps!

What an illustration of the high achievement within the reach of ordinary toilers!

Richard Whittington, thrice Lord Mayor of London, rose from the ranks of the dishwashers; but it is doubtful that he ever had such a record to boast of.

This is, indeed, great news, greater than comes out of Washington every day. It touches the whole life of the nation. Women who employ maids will call it to the attention of their employees. Those who do not will impress it on their husbands. It will bring a new vision to the whole realm of domestic economy. In hotels and restaurants it will set new standards—will stand as a challenge to a new era.

The dining-room and kitchen help of the White House really ought to be awarded Congressional medals. Many will think, too, that they ought to be called from their present posts to deal with the crisis in China. But that would be a mistake. They are entirely too valuable where they are.

ANNI LABUNTUR

BY HARRY BOWLING

Give—for the sunshine passed
Give—for the hour grows late!
Time on the shortening toll-road
Has closed another gate;
Set love lamps in the window,
Spread flowers along the way;
Ye cannot seed tomorrow
The fair fields of today.

Give—while the grass is growing
Give—while the roses bloom
Garlands to grace a hearthstone,
Not wreaths to hide a tomb;
For unmeant slights that rankled,
For debts that love should pay,
Ye cannot speak tomorrow
The word unsaid today.

Another flag at half-mast
Tells of a year gone by;
More ships are sailing westward
Into the sunset sky;
Each vessel carries seaward
Some soul we thought would stay . . .
Ye may not grasp tomorrow
The warm hand of today.

Sad voices in the chimney,
Dim faces in the flame,
Ashes of incense offered
To years that never came.
Thoughts from the soul's full harvest,
Gifts from the heart's rich store,
Are seeds that flower in Paradise
And bloom for evermore.

ANOTHER BANDIT

The bandit Durkin followed courses evil, and when the sleuths had captured him at last and brought him home, there was a great upheaval, the crowds turned out, the multitudes were vast. He rode in state, like some returning Caesar, this man who'd piled with diligence his gats; and men went wild hurrahing for the geezer, and women waved their handkerchiefs and hats. He looked around upon the cheering creatures and felt so was a most pronounced success; and happy smiles chased 'round among his features, the gyves he wore caused him but small distress. A hero he, no prison bog could hold him, he soon would exit triumphant from the jail, and in their arms the flappers would enfold him, and maudlin men would load him down with kale. So in his cell he journeyed cheery-hearted, his star was bright, his guest was hanging high; before six months or seven had departed he'd be abroad and make the flapper fly. But maudlin men and sentimental sisters soon weary of the idol out of sight; they do not shed the tear that scalds and blisters, however bleak and wearisome his plight. So now behold the bandit lone and friendless led out of court, his sentence to begin, a stretch of bondage that to him seems endless, the well-known sin. For wage of also well-known sin. For three decades and more he'll doomed to labor within the prison, dark and cold and grim, to wield per curses to his convict neighbor and have that convict hiss them back to him. Where are the smiles that he was lately wearing, what of the jests that he so lately spread, what of the crowds, admiring, and staring, and of the garlands by the flappers flung? They of are gone; the world is fast forgetting the name that once was blazoned through the land; his portion now is toil, remorse and sweating, the warden's frown, the turnkey's heavy hand.

IRELAND GOING DRY

To anyone who knows Northern Ireland well the progress of total abstinence during the last twenty-five years is very marked. A quarter of a century ago the twelfth of July was an occasion for an orgy of drunkenness; today the sight of a drunken man is rare, and a drunken member of the procession is hardly to be encountered. Then the majority of males are at a public dinner in Belfast drank wine or spirits; today those who do so are in a minority. The change has been due to persuasion and reason.—[Irish Statesman.

Marriage Announced

The delightfully planned Christmas tea with which Mrs. Burtron Fleming Yarnell, Jr. (Dorothy Johnson,) entertained at her home in South Norton avenue, Wednesday afternoon was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the Yuletide, and was especially interesting to local society as Mrs. Burton Fleming Yarnell, chose this occasion to announce formally the marriage of her attractive young daughter, Miss Virginia Yarnell, to Ensign Neil Goldenson, U.S.N., the wedding having been a quiet one, taking place October 23, just before the young officer left with his ship the U.S.S. Arizona for northern waters.

As the guests arrived the hostess presented them with a miniature bridal bouquet to which was attached the tiny cards bearing the names of her sister-in-law and Mr. Goldenson, and the date of their wedding. The hostess was most charming in a frock of beaded green chiffon, with corsage of orchids while Mrs. Yarnell, Sr., wore an imported gown of black chiffon heavily beaded with silver, while Mrs. Goldenson was lovely in white georgette embroidered with crystal and pearls and carried an arm bouquet of white orchids, gardenias and lilies of the valley.

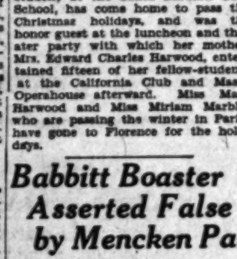
MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN



Too Excited to Eat

One Mother Says:

When there is any unusual or exciting event approaching my little girl is too excited to eat. Her father held the opinion that she should eat her regular meal, but it seemed to me far more advisable to let her sip some warm milk and munch a cracker or two. After trying both ways, he agreed with me. A child of such temperament can seldom be forced into anything, so it is better to guide it into meeting any situation calmly.

The New Year's Eve festival tonight at the Hollywood Monmartre Cafe, 6757 Hollywood Boulevard, promises to be the most elaborate in the annals of the cafe.

Besides the regular dancing, a large repertoire of vaudeville acts will be staged throughout the evening on the order of the famous night clubs of New York. A midnight supper will be served and the entertainment program will continue into the small hours of New Year's Day.

On Tuesday of next week the choicest works of Bertha Lum, the only American whose prints have been purchased by the British Museum, will be placed on exhibition at the Montmartre. These include screens, oil and water-color paintings and Chinese wood block prints.

The supper, which is an innovation this year with the Hotel Virginia, will be featured by entertainment by singers and dancers, interspersed with dancing in the dining-room by guests.

AT PLANTATION CAFE

The Plantation Cafe in Culver City has prepared for the most pretentious New Year's celebration in the history of the cafe, and revelers who watch the New Year in at the inn are assured "a night of nights." Helena Justa and her splendid cast have prepared a new show. Confetti, favors and prizes will be much in evidence and, of course, the management expects to outdo itself in the way of a delicious southern menu for which they are famous. Sonny Clay's Brunswick Recording Orchestra, famous throughout the Southland in musical organizations, will provide the dance music.

It will begin at 9 o'clock this evening, when a banquet will be served in the great hall and dining hall, each party having its private table, the decorations to be those of the Christmas season gathered from the woods around the lodge. The grand ball will last into the small hours of the morning, with music by Lake Arrowhead Lodge Orchestra and entertainment by musicians and Spanish dancers from the Mission Play, who have been engaged by E. CHEF WYMAN'S Suggestions for TOMORROW'S MENU

A NEW-YEAR TABLE

Oyster Bundles
Roast Turkey — Cranberry Jelly
Ham Baked — Mint Jelly
Chicken Salad, Mayonnaise Dressing
Beaten Biscuits
Almond Cake — Almond Icing
Apples — Grapes
Raisins
Chocolate Punch — Cider Punch

OYSTER BUNDLES

Make some good pie crust, roll out thin, and cut into strips six inches long by three inches wide. Lay on each strip a slice of bacon, one good-sized oyster and a teaspoonful of the following sauce: Take a cupful of cold boiled shrimp, mince very fine and add to it a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, a teaspoonful of finely chopped tarragon leaves, a dessertspoonful of chutney syrup, a little melted butter and a very stiffly-beaten egg white. Lay a teaspoonful of this on each oyster, roll up the bundles, put them in well-buttered baking dishes, and bake until the crust is done. Have ready a rich heavy, smooth tomato sauce, and put a small quantity on each bundle as it is served.

BAKED HAM

Choose a short, thick, heavy, sugar-cured ham, place it in a ham pot with enough cold water to cover it, bring it gradually to boiling point, and after it has boiled for half an hour have ready a kettle of boiling water and throw off the first water, adding the fresh. Then let it boil evenly until done. A ten-pound ham will take four hours. When the ham is done remove it from the fire and let it stand in the water until the water is cool enough to have stopped steaming. Remove the ham, skim and trim it, dredge the top with a little bit of brown sugar, put a paper frill around the bone and send to table garnished with watercress.

If the ham is to be served cold, then it may remain in the water until it is quite cool; cooling it in this way the juices are kept in and make the meat more tasty.

If the ham is to be baked, then remove from the boiling water when done, trim and skin it, and after skinning sprinkle the fat on top with sugar; stick it thickly with cloves, dust lightly with a little mignonette pepper, place it in a baking pan with half a cupful of the water it was boiled in, mixed with a quarter of a cupful of honey. Bake for about an hour, basting very often.

CHICKEN SALAD

(Six Portions)

Six pieces lettuce, six slices tomato, one cupful diced cooked chicken, one-half cupful diced celery, one-fourth of a cupful chopped pimientos, one-fourth cupful green peppers chopped, one level tablespoonful finely chopped onion, two level teaspoonfuls salt, a half level teaspoonful paprika, one cupful mayonnaise.

Arrange the lettuce leaves on salad plate. Place a slice of tomato on each piece of lettuce. Mix the chicken, celery, pimientos, green peppers onion, salt and pepper. Place portions of this mixture on top of the tomato slices. Add the mayonnaise and serve at once.

ALMOND CAKE

Blanch and pound one-half a pound of sweet almonds to a paste; separate the whites from the yolks of six eggs, beat the yolks with the almonds, stir in eight tablespoonfuls of sugar, grated rind of one lemon, three ounces of butter that has been beaten to a cream, mix well, and add the beaten whites of the eggs; put in a well buttered chimney pan, and bake from one and a half to one and three-quarters of an hour; invert the pan on a cake plate and when it cools the cake will come out on the plate.

ALMOND ICING

Equal quantity of ground almonds and icing sugar, about one-half pound of each, sufficient yolk of egg to make into a stiff paste, and work well together. The yolks should be beaten with a wooden spoon, the paste worked with the hand, kept very smooth and not too soft. Straighten the top of the cake, brush it over with white of egg, and then put on the icing, which should be made the same size as the cake. Decorate with burnt almonds.

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.—Jewish Proverb.

Mrs. H. wants to know the following:

(1.) In giving babies egg yolks as early as the ninth month (or younger if they are anemic,) how should they be given—hard-boiled, soft or raw?

(2.) Is there any harm in giving orange juice in small amounts three times a day or in one amount in water? (She does this in order to coax her baby to drink water which she won't touch unless it has some orange juice in it.)

(3.) When I say vegetable juice, do I mean the juice of raw vegetables or vegetable broths, and what kind of vegetables are most suitable for babies to begin with?

Answers: (1.) Egg yolks may be given in all of these forms, Mrs. H. The soft, or raw, or pulverized hard-boiled can be mixed in with the whole amount of the milk formula so that he gets only part each time, or it can be given mixed up in the cereal.

Raw egg yolks contain more of the vitamins, and in that way they are more valuable. Egg yolks are especially valuable in vitamin A, which apparently has to do with growth and the integrity of the membrshes of the body. The raw yolks are also helpful in preventing rickets, although they are not so good a cure of rickets as is cod-liver oil.

Eggs spoil rather easily and stale eggs are dangerous, so eggs must be fresh and should be kept in the coldest part of the refrigerator. They should also be washed as the shell of the egg is porous.

(2.) No, you can give the baby her orange juice as often as you like, Mrs. H., and in water; but I'm afraid that there is a little determination in that baby of yours to have her own way in her food tastes, which you should curb! It won't always be convenient to have water with orange juice in it, so she must learn to like it plain. I think it's a good idea to insist upon it now.

Babies can and should have orange juice as early as the second month, beginning with a teaspoonful in water, and working gradually up to the amount of a half orange or so. Orange juice is rich in the antiscurvy vitamin.

(3.) Raw vegetable juices, especially that of cabbage, turnips and tomatoes (which are also effective cooked,) must be given to the baby if she does not get orange juice. These vegetables are for the antiscurvy vitamin.

The cabbage or turnips should be grated fine and the juice squeezed through a clean cloth, and with clean hands, or through a vegetable press. The amount given is the same as the orange juice; that is, it is begun with a teaspoonful and gradually increased to an ounce (two tablespoonfuls) and preferably more. These can be given, between some of the meals or with the meals.

We have a list of modern books on the subject of child feeding which you may have by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request. All those in care of children, should have a good book on the subject of feeding.

Mrs. T.—We have an article on Worms which you may have by enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for it.

Tomorrow—New Year's Day.

My readers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on canning and canning is the only one for which you must inclose 10 cents in stamps extra. Address your letter to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 300 words, and type or write them legibly with pen. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to give personal advice or answers personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The question you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible if you are of general interest. Don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

The label tells the story

Even before you open the tin, you know Heinz Oven-Baked Beans are oven-baked. Why? Because the label on the outside of the can speaks right out and says "Oven-Baked" in big letters.

Then, the moment you open the tin, you can tell that Heinz Oven-Baked Beans are oven-baked. They look baked, they taste baked and they have the unmistakable aroma of baked-in-ovens beans.

Unless beans are really baked in ovens, they cannot be labeled "Oven-Baked." The Heinz label tells the story. It says "Oven-Baked" and that means baked-in-ovens and nothing else.

BLAST PLOT DROPPED IN HOTEL QUIZ

Police Reverse Opinion on Explosives Found on Top Furnace in Basement

After an all-day investigation concerning twelve sticks of dynamite, half a gallon of nitroglycerin and a gallon of kerosene found yesterday in a smoking cardboard box on top of the basement furnace in the Winslow Hotel, Detective Lieutenants Savage and Pruitt last evening relinquished an earlier opinion that an attempt had been made to wreck the Spring-street hotel.

Heavy dust on the containers and the fact that a fire in the furnace was lighted the first time this winter on Wednesday night, led the two investigators to cast aside the plot theory. Instead, they expressed a belief that the explosives had been hidden weeks, if not months ago, possibly by those who wished to get rid of them.

Discovery of the explosives and kerosene was made by a clerk, John Newman, when he went to stoke the furnace. He found the cardboard box smoldering and inside the box lay the dynamite sticks, and the two dusty jars containing the nitroglycerin and kerosene.

A. Burnside, proprietor of the hotel, told police he had no enemies to his knowledge, and knew of no one who would wish to destroy the building.

PROTEST ON DRAIN UNIT SET ASIDE

Way Cleared to Award Contract for Section No. 2 of West Jefferson Work

Protests against section No. 2 of the West Jefferson-street storm drain were denied by the City Council yesterday, thus clearing the way for the adoption of the final ordinance and the awarding of the contract.

This section will cost about $300,000, and will be a lateral extending as far north as Eleventh street, to provide drainage for this northern part of the large West Jefferson-street storm-drain district.

The storm waters from section No. 2 will drain into the main outfall, which was section No. 1, recently completed, at a cost of $2,500,000. In all, the storm drain for the large district is divided into five sections, and the total cost of the five sections will be about $5,000,000.

With the principal section completed, and the protest against section No. 2 denied yesterday, the Council will next advance the proceedings for the other three sections, so that the entire system should be completed and in operation next fall, before the rainy season arrives.

Date of Hearing Set for Woman in Bunko Case

Apprehended in Yuma, Ariz., only a few days ago and returned to Los Angeles on a criminal complaint issued last June, Mrs. Mary Williams, alias Mary Langhorn, 58 years of age, yesterday was arraigned before Municipal Judge Blake and preliminary hearing set for next Tuesday.

Mrs. Williams is charged in the complaint with having bunkoed Mrs. Markaret Nonemacher of Highland out of $2000 while both were guests at a local hotel here last April. The asserted victim declares, according to Dep. Dist.-Atty Glover, that Mrs. Williams represented to her that she held the original $500,000 contract in the Prairie Oil and Pipe Line Company. The investment was to apply on stock in that concern, Mrs. Nonemacher asserts.

In setting date for preliminary examination Judge Blake set bail for the woman at $5000.

Get-Together Banquet Given Rail Employees

About 150 officers and employees of the Southern Pacific in Los Angeles attended the annual Christmas season get-together banquet of the traffic departments last night at Central Station. Plans for still closer cooperation in service to travelers and shippers were discussed at the meeting.

A turkey dinner that included all the fixings was served by the dining-car department under the direction of F. K. Shilling, manager of the station restaurant, who also sang for his fellow-railroad men.

The program was carried out under direction of J. E. Light, district freight agent, and Henry Monahan, district passenger agent. Every department in Los Angeles was represented.

Much "More than an Ordinary Clearance"

This is not merely a Clearance of our own stocks, comprehensive though such an event would be. It is also a clearance of the mills and warehouses of a number of manufacturers, jobbers and wholesalers of America and foreign lands who, months ago, sold us their stocks at decisive price concessions, in order to clear their shelves.

Since that time, carload after carload of this new, fresh, wanted merchandise has been pouring into our warehouses to be unpacked and marked by us at prices of extraordinary advantage to you.

M.-G.-M.'S NEW COMEDY TEAM

George K. Arthur and Karl Dane Will Split the Laughs; Evelyn Brent Wins With Brilliant Work; More Players for "Seventh Heaven"

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

This gold dust twin business of teaming up comedians to clean up the laughs seems to be spreading, especially since Wallace Beery and Ray Hatton have been so great a success.

GEORGE K. ARTHUR

Now it is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer who come forward with the announcement that Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, two screen comedians who have appeared in a large number of box-office attractions during the last year, are to be introduced soon as a comedy team. Harry Rapf gave forth the news yesterday.

The two comedians will make their debut in "Red, White and Blue," a new production based on the Citizens' Training Camps activities, which is to be directed by Sam Wood from an original story by Byron Morgan.

Karl Dane, whom, of course, you remember in "The Big Parade," will have the role of a hard-boiled regular Army sergeant and Arthur will play the leading male role, Marceline Day, as already announced, will be featured in the leading feminine role.

Evelyn Brent's Fine Role

When Evelyn Brent returns to Hollywood from New York she will find awaiting her one of the biggest opportunities of her screen career. She will play the leading feminine role in what promises to be one of the foremost pictures of the coming year, viz., "Underworld," from Ben Hecht's story, which he wrote directly for the screen. B. P. Schulberg yesterday announced that Miss Brent had been signed for the part.

Paramount expects to make "Underworld" a great screen epic of gangster life from the inside. The author has laid the scene of the story in Chicago, where for thirteen years as a star reporter for the Journal and the News he came into first-hand contact with every phase of underworld life.

Miss Brent is to play the role of the sweetheart of the underworld chief, which part, it is declared, gives her the opportunity for a characterization of exceptional power. She won the role as a result of the brilliant work she has done in three successive Paramount pictures made at the Long Island studio.

The actress went east three months ago to play the leading feminine role in "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em," in which she scored a personal triumph. Afterward she played, in "Love's Greatest Mistake," and she has just begun work on Thomas Meighan's forthcoming starring vehicle, "Blind Alleys," opposite the star.

"Underworld" is due to go into production about February 1.

Victor McLaglen Loaned

If all goes well First National is going to borrow from Fox Victor McLaglen, the brilliant actor who is playing Capt. Flagg in "What Price Glory" at the Carthay Circle, for a star role in a picture in which he will be co-featured with Anna Nilsson.

The story is called "Lily of the Laundry," and is a baseball yarn, with McLaglen, of course, as a star baseball player.

Ray Cannon's New Job

And speaking of "Lily of the Laundry," no less gifted a screen writer than Raymond Cannon has been engaged to write the adaptation.

Which leads up gracefully to the further announcement that Cannon has been signed on a long-term contract with First National to write stories and adaptations for that organization.

Cannon formerly was identified with Douglas MacLean and later with Universal. Following the completion of his Universal contract, he received many offers from different companies, but has accepted the First National engagement.

Edith Roberts With Keaton

Maybe you haven't heard of Edith Roberts, that favorite little screen actress of yours, for a while. But if nothing happens you are going to see her playing opposite Buster Keaton in his next comedy.

Up to late yesterday the papers had not yet been signed, but as all the signs are favorable that they will be signed, we are joyfully letting you in on the same.

Norma Shearer War Heroine

It looks like a busy year for out young friend, Norma Shearer. Before ever she can start playing her role of Katie in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Old Heidelberg" she is going to have to play in one of her own starring vehicles. At least she will start work in it, though she may have to live up to the title of it, which is "Tell Her to Stop," by stopping in the midst of it to begin her Heidelberg role.

NORMA SHEARER

"Tell Her to Stop" is a war picture, but something of a departure, inasmuch as it has to do with a heroine rather than a hero. The heroine is an ambulance driver in France, and this is the role which Miss Shearer will play.

Dave Butler In It

Believe it or not, after all the delay, but you are in a fair way after all to hear all about the cast for "Seventh Heaven" before you go to heaven, or anywhere else, that they have made arrangements for you to go.

Two principal parts were cast yesterday. They are the roles of Papa Boul and Gobin, the street washer. Albert Gran is to play Boul, while to David Butler has gone the part of Gobin.

The lovely Janet Gaynor, as you will remember, is to play the heroine role, and Frank Borzage will direct.

The starting date of the production has been set for January 3 of the new year.

Universal Buys Play

A plum in the way of a highly filmable play has just been purchased by Universal. It is "We Americans," written by Milton Herbert Gropper and Mark Siegel, and its popularity is attested by the fact that it has been running for some time now at the Sam Harris Theater in New York.

Edward Sloman is to direct the filming of the play, and the cast which will appear in it will shortly be announced.

Actor Triply Busy

Talk about your double lives, Arthur Edmund Carewe is leading a triple one, but professionally speaking, of course. He is playing three roles simultaneously for Universal.

ARTHUR EDMUND CAREW

Under the terms of a contract signed yesterday the actor started work in the leading role in "The Claw," Cynthia Stockley's novel, which Sidney Olcott is directing.

Carewe is completing the set of three by playing also in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "The Cat and the Canary."

Renaud Hoffman Switches

Renaud Hoffman will make the Metropolitan studio the center of his activities as soon as production now going on at Universal is completed. He has already moved his office to that center of art, and has decided, so well did "The Unknown Soldier" succeed, to discontinue production of any but personally directed pictures.

James Hall Comes Home

James Hall, one of the busiest young leading men in pictures, returned to Hollywood from New York yesterday to resume the rush work that has allowed him a grand total of fifteen days' rest between pictures since he made his camera debut last July.

He is now to be the leading man in "Ritzy," Betty Bronson's next starring vehicle for Paramount, which is a creation of Elinor Glyn's. Production is to start immediately the new year is successfully launched.

Goldwyn Returns

Sam Goldwyn, his wife, Frances Howard, and Vilma Banky arrive in Los Angeles this morning aboard the Santa Fe Chief, following a gay and giddy tour of the east coast and a six weeks' absence from Hollywood.

VILMA BANKY

During the tour Sam is reported to have given the New York City play market the once-over and to have returned purchased at least a couple of big hits for his famous team of lovers, Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky. He is expected to announced his 1927 production schedule within the next two weeks.

HE'S BEAU BRUMMEL

Fortune Hunting Count of "Castles" Is Mirror of Fashion

Sergei Arabeloff, the fortune-hunting Count Drago in Edward D. Smith's musical comedy success, "Castles in the Air," at the Mason Theater, has been acclaimed the Beau Brummel of Los Angeles.

Aspirants to the title accuse him of employing unfair methods by wearing imported clothes, but unjustly. Sergei buys his smart suits here, but he knows what to buy, and declares that the clothing designed here surpasses in class that of the European capitals.

He ought to know, for after the World War he went on the stage as a dancer, and tangoed his way in the cafes of Brussels, Belgium and cities in other European countries.

His Russian accent and his faculty of wearing clothes well made him a logical choice of the producer for the part he plays, but he is not really a fortune hunter, for he has found his fortune, which is Mrs. Arabeloff. She is Darry Welford, sister of Nancy Welford of "Nannette" fame.

LUPINO WILL HAVE GUESTS IN TO CALL

Helen Ferguson and William Russell, will appear at the Special Midnight Matinee of the Hollywood Music Box Revue on New Year's night, as guests of Lupino Lane, star of the revue. They will appear in the show in a novelty number or sketch.

These midnight matinees begin at 11:45.

TOM CAN GO NOW

Tom Mix is ready to visit Chicago the first time work at Fox Films West Coast studios permit him to make the trip. Mix fans in Chicago have insisted that he visit them, but he has always refused on the grounds that Chicago was too wild and woolly for a real westerner. In sending these refusals Tom always accompanies the letters with a press clipping about gang feuds and taxicab battles. Among the 846 Christmas packages which the western star received was one containing a machine gun, 1000 pounds of ammunition and the blue prints showing a special war tank which was being constructed for his use when he visits Chicago.

BACK FROM BAY CITY

Raymond McKee, who took a little holiday jaunt to San Francisco in the interests of Mack Sennett and the Smith comedies, has just returned from that location trip. Ruth Hiatt, Mary Ann Jackson and other members of the Jimmy Smith company went thither by boat immediately after the Christmas festivities were over and have just come back for the finishing touches at the Glendale Boulevard studio.

TWO SHOWS AT EGYPTIAN

A program replete with surprises is announced by Sid Grauman for the two special New Year's Eve performances of "The Better 'Ole" at the Egyptian tonight. The two shows start at 7 and 10 o'clock, respectively. Grauman expects to utilize some novel stage spectacles in addition to the regular Vitaphone program.

TAXI GIVES ATMOSPHERE FOR COMEDY

Morosco Leads Rehearse in Cab on Busy Corner to Get "Spirit"

Rehearsing in a taxi is part of the regular routine this week for some of the members of "The Kiss in a Taxi" company which opens at the Morosco Sunday afternoon. John Litel and Alma Tell, who play the leading roles in the three-act comedy, and James Durkin, the director, have rented a cab by the week from one of the local companies and drive to a busy corner on Broadway where they go through the scenes of the play.

Al Woods, the New York producer, brought the farce to New York after seeing it in Paris. It ran for two years in the French capital and a whole season at the Rita Theater in New York.

It is said by many critics to be funnier than "The Girl in the Limousine," "Getting Gertie's Garter," "Up in Mabel's Room," or other hits of Mr. Woods.

"The Kiss in a Taxi" is said to be original in theme and situations, for it has neither bedroom, bath or even a bathtub which are so popular in most farces.

ASSISTANT DRY CHIEF QUITS POST

Prohibition Staff Honors Maj. Dixon With Dinner Following Resignation

The resignation of Maj. Blaine Andrew Dixon, assistant prohibition administrator for Southern California and Arizona, becomes effective at 12 o'clock tonight. Maj. Dixon, who had charge of the enforcement division, has not been informed who his successor will be.

On Wednesday a testimonial dinner was given him by employees of the prohibition office in Los Angeles. The dinner was held in the chemistry laboratory offices of the department, which had been decorated for the occasion. Tributes were paid to Maj. Dixon by fellow-workers. Robert Stirling, chief field agent of the Los Angeles forces, gave the testimonial address.

Maj. Dixon in response said that he regretted severing his friendly relations with his co-workers. His future, he said, will be devoted to several private business enterprises.

Miss Dorothy Hornung, for the last two years in charge of the department personnel bureau, has tendered her resignation, effective today. She will return to her home in Brownsville, Tex. Girls of the department presented her with a handbag.

Aged Veteran's Funeral Rites Will be Today

Funeral services for Benjamin F. Johnson, 82 years of age, Civil War veteran who died last Wednesday at his home, 3715 Princeton street, will be conducted at Trinity Baptist Church, First and Hicks streets, at 10 a.m. today. He leaves his widow, one son, Cyrus C. Johnson, Los Angeles police sergeant, and three daughters.

Mr. Johnson had been a resident of this city for the past thirty-seven years. He was the first superintendent of Odd Fellows Cemetery, a position he held for thirteen years.

FORMAL OPENING OF BUILDING SCHEDULED

Three days of celebration will mark the formal opening of the new Beaux Arts Building at Beacon and Eighth streets February 15, 16 and 17, according to tentative plans announced by officials of the Force-Pettebone Company, owners and builders. On the first day the building, which is of limit height, Italian architecture, and represents an investment of $1,000,000, will be thrown open for inspection by the public. Formal opening of the structure will be held the evening of February 16 in the auditorium and speakers and musicians of Los Angeles will take part in the program. The Beaux Arts Building has 220 studios, an auditorium, two rehearsal halls and is expected to become the music center of the city because of its quiet location, sound-proof studios, and numerous facilities.

BALL TO CONCLUDE CHARITY CAMPAIGN

The drive of the Los Angeles Home for Incurables to finance its new home will come to a close on the 10th inst. with a ball to be staged at the Cinderella Roof, according to an announcement made today by executives of the organization. With the directors and members of the ladies' auxiliary heading a small army of volunteer workers, it is hoped that the raising of the $18,000 sought by the institution may be celebrated with appropriate festivities at the ball.

Finlinson Warns Autoists to Lock Cars Securely Against Revelers

A warning that joy riders will be numerous on New Year's eve and day and that car owners should lock their cars securely or place them in a garage or private parking station was uttered yesterday by Inspector Finlinson in his daily traffic talk from KNJ.

Police will have orders to arrest all persons seen tampering with cars, so it will be necessary for all drivers to be able to identify themselves property. He advised having the driver's license handy for this purpose.

Tschaikowsky Symphony and Bori Are Highlights of Concert

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

The Tschaikowsky fifth symphony and Lucrezia Bori's singing of an aria from Debussy's "L'Enfant Prodigue" were the richest gifts offered the audience at last night's concert of the Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted by Walter Henry Rothwell.

The Tschaikowsky "Fifth" is well known and well loved in Los Angeles because of its frequent repetitions at the Bowl and because the wood-wind and brass sections of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra are exceptionally well equipped in artists who can perform its difficulties.

Those who revel in the magnificently orchestrated Russian folk songs which abound in this work when they hear it out-of-doors should hear it within a suitable inclosure and polished to the last degree of brilliance and beauty as it was done last night. In the Bowl it is at times overwhelming and stunning—in the auditorium it is magnificent and of a sophisticated elegance. Refinements of melodic loveliness entirely lost in the bowl come to the ear in a new revelation under the direction of Mr. Rothwell.

Mme. Bori met a keenly expectant audience and the enthusiasm with which her Mozart arias were greeted was so spontaneous and general that it left no doubt as to the realization. Her Mozart was freely interpreted, having that swing of the innately rhythmical and musical being that stamps an artist of attainment and her voice was effective and pleasing.

The Debussy "Air de Lia" was her own particular triumph, however. Here the opulent richness of temperament and voice was poured forth and her truly surpassing dramatic powers had opportunity.

Mme. Bori has the stage manners of an assured favorite and bestowed the honors of her smiles impartially upon the audience the conductor and the orchestra alike. It is a matter of regret that she is not to sing in recital here on Monday night as previously announced.

The Weber-Weingartner "Invitation to the Dance" was a delightful interlude between the scintillating appearances of Bori and they were played with the suave elegance and touch of aristocratic revelry that a Viennese waltz should have and always receives from the baton of Mr. Rothwell.

Signal System Saved Day for Herbert Brenon

The American army semaphore signal system saved the day for Herbert Brenon one terribly windy day during the filming of "Beau Geste" on the Great American Desert.

With nearly 2000 riders spread across the sand dunes, Director Brenon would have been unable to communicate his orders to them had it not been for the flags, operated by eight former Army Signal Corps men who had been brought to the camp for that particular purpose.

Megaphones and loud speakers would have been useless in the gale, and to dispatch messengers to each group would have taken too long, but with the aid of the Signal Corps men orders were given and acted upon promptly during the filming of this particular scene for the picture, "Beau Geste," which is now playing at the Forum Theater.

"Beau Geste" is the picturization of Percival Wren's tale of mystery and adventure in the French Foreign Legion. Ronald Colman plays the title role, and is supported by Neil Hamilton, Ralph Forbes, Noah Beery, Alice Joyce, William Powell and Norman Trevor.

Charles Ray has been signed to play the lead in "The American," the first natural vision stereoscopic motion picture to be made by George K. Spoor, head of the historic Essanay Company, and J. Stuart Blackton, founder of Vitagraph.

The film is taken from the original story by Jewell Spencer, "The Flag Maker," with adaptation and continuity by Marion Constance Blackton.

Cameramen for the new stereoscopic cameras will be Spoor and Conrad A. Luperti. Four of the new natural vision cameras were brought to Los Angeles this week by Blackton from Chicago.

Production will start tomorrow. Blackton will wield the megaphone with Wilfred North, assistant director.

OREGON SNOWSTORM PROVES HIS UNDOING

After never having missed a performance during his thirty years on the stage, Ivan F. Simpson, who acts the elder Pillin in "Old English" with George Arliss in the Biltmore Theater, saw his record broken a few weeks ago in Portland, Or.

Simpson is making his first visit to the Pacific Coast and is exceedingly susceptible to the wonders of nature. While in Oregon he made an automobile trip to Mt. Hood. The car stalled in a snowstorm. Simpson set out to walk to the nearest camp, supposedly two miles distant. It proved to be twelve miles over bad roads in a storm that grew worse as time went on. Exhausted, he finally arrived at a forestry camp to discover that he still was nearly fifty miles from the theater where he was expected within an hour.

There was nothing for him to do but to telephone the management his predicament and to see his unusual record smashed.

MENJOU HAS TOO MANY WIVES

Adolphe Menjou is starred in "Blonde or Brunette," a Paramount picture which opens today at the Metropolitan Theater for a week's run. The picture was directed by Richard Rosson and was adapted by John McDermott from the French play, "An Angel Passes."

The story deals with Henri Martel, a young Paris attorney, who is disgusted with the whirl and frivolity of Parisian society. To escape it, he goes away to a small village where he meets an old-fashioned, demure young girl. He succumbs to her charms completely when he learns she doesn't drink or smoke, and never even heard of the Charleston.

They are married, and Martel takes his wife to Paris. The city has a remarkable effect on her, however, and one day, when he returns from an extended business trip, he finds her completely transformed into a superflapper.

Disgusted, Martel obtains a divorce. He falls in love with another woman—a brunette this time. They are married, but Martel soon regrets it when his wife persists in playing the harp in a dim religious atmosphere.

The father and mother of Henri's first wife arrive about this time. They have not heard of the divorce, but the news is broken to them by a blundering detective. The task then is to keep the news from Grandma who will probably disinherit everyone if she finds out about the divorce. When the old lady arrives on the scene comedy situations are made to develop in rapid-fire order as Henri finds himself with two wives.

In addition to Menjou the cast includes Greta Nissen and Arlette Marchal.

CHIEF O'BRIEN DOES NOT KNOW OWN SON

George O'Brien's father came to town yesterday for a holiday visit. George was on hand to greet his dad, but Chief of Police Dan O'Brien of San Francisco gave him the once over with no gleam of recognition. In fact, the Chief did not know his own son. Introductions were in order.

O'Brien is hiding behind a dense and luxurious growth of facial sagebrush and he needs a haircut. He has grown his own make-up for the role of the peasant fisherman in Fox Films version of "Sunrise," the F. W. Murnau production in which he plays the leading role opposite Janet Gaynor. He is the antithesis of the snappy, well-groomed George his dad knows best.

BORI MUST CANCEL CONCERT ON MONDAY

Called east tomorrow by unavoidable circumstances of an imperative nature, Lucrezia Bori, who was scheduled for a recital next Monday evening on the Auditorium artist series, will make her final appearance of the season in Los Angeles at the Philharmonic Orchestra concert this afternoon, at which she is soloist.

Those holding tickets for the Bori recital of Monday, January 3, can exchange them for the San Carlo Opera Company, due later in the month.

JOHN POLE-VAULTS OVER HIS ENEMIES

John Gilbert had to add pole-vaulting to his list of athletic accomplishments for use in "Bardelys the Magnificent," the King Vidor production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer which is to be held over for a second week at the Criterion Theater.

One of the most thrilling stunts of the picture is when Bardelys, charged by a corps of pikemen, uses a spear for a pole and vaults over the heads of his pursuers. This required a twelve-foot vault. Eleanor Boardman is the leading woman of the picture and the cast includes Karl Dane, George K. Arthur, Roy D'Arcy and Arthur Lubin.

Loew's State to Have Extra New Year's Eve Show

Loew's State Theater is making plans for the presentation of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture—"A Little Journey," which comes to the screen today where it will be co-featured with Whiting and Burt, stage headliners, and Fanchon and Marco's Hollywood Beauties.

Next Monday night, Claire Windsor and Harry Carey are scheduled to make a personal appearance at Loew's State Theater. Tuesday night will be "Railroad Night," and the various railroads which have their termini in Los Angeles will be represented at the theater.

Wednesday will be "Hollywood Beauties Night," when the Fanchon and Marco beauties, will be hosts for a galaxy of Hollywood stars and feature players.

As a feature of the "Little Journey" campaign, a gala New Year's Eve carnival and frolic will be held at Loew's State Theater with Fanchon and Marco presenting an early morning show consisting of their best acts that can be obtained from all over the West Coast Theaters circuit.

The New Year's Eve carnival will be presided over by the stage headliners—Whiting and Burt and the Hollywood Beauties, while Jan Rubini will provide the musical entertainment. Gene Morgan, orchestra leader and comedian will act as Master of Ceremonies.

Denny is Star of Attraction Now at Uptown

The combined entertainment announced for the New Year's week by the West Coast Uptown Theater, Western avenue at Tenth street includes Abe Lyman, the leader and composer with his Brunswick Recording Orchestra and Reginald Denny, the star comedienne in his feature attraction entitled "The Cheerful Fraud."

This show starting today will continue for one week. "The Cheerful Fraud" is Reginald Denny's latest picture and was directed by William A. Seiter who has given us Denny before in such plays as "What Happened to Jones" and "Skinners Dress Suit." The cast included Gertrude Olmstead, leading woman, Otis Harlan, Gertrude Astor, Emily Fitzroy, Charles Gerrard and others.

Arrangements are being made by the management of the Uptown for the personal appearance of the stars this evening.

"GLORY" PRAISED BY DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS

Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford were recent visitors to the Carthay Circle Theater to see "What Price Glory."

Mr. Fairbanks is enthusiastic about the picture and expresses it by saying, "I know of no contemporary achievement in the theater, in literature, on canvas or on the screen which is more graphic or more entertaining than 'What Price Glory'."

This tribute from Mr. Fairbanks, who at the present time is planning to give to the world a picture of the history of the ages, is one cherished by William Fox, producer of "What Price Glory," by Fred Miller, who secured it for the world's premiere, by the director, Raoul Walsh, and by the cast, which is headed by Edmund Lowe, Victor McLaglen and Dolores Del Rio.

HANDEL INSPIRING

Church Choral Union Gives Fine Rendition of "Messiah"

Appropriate to the holiday season and inspiring in its effect was the performance of Handel's Christmas oratorio, "The Messiah," by the Hollywood Congregational Church choral union on Wednesday evening. The production was given at the Hollywood Congregational Church with DeWitt Durgin Lash directing.

The soloists who assisted were Mabel Hayes, soprano; Clemence Gifford, contralto; Roscoe Bell, tenor, and John A. Patton, bass.

The chorus gave a very creditable performance, singing with a finish that was unusual for so new an organization. When it is taken into consideration that the organization started in September with a choir of seven voices, one can appreciate all the more fully the results which have been accomplished, especially in view of the fact that the majority of the participants are under 30 years of age.

Mr. Lash exerted a remarkable sway over his choristers. His magnetic personality combined with his evident appreciation and understanding of the work kept the chorus on the qui vive and every flourish of his baton met with ready response.

In his conducting he also showed a keen appreciation and regard for the solo performances, allowing each singer ample opportunity to interpret his selections in his individual way.

Each of the soloists sang his part well and shared in the honors accorded a successful performance.

The choral parts were sung with fine precision and clear enunciation throughout. Occasionally there was a slight suggestion of strain on the part of the soprano, but all in all, the presentation was very commendable.

The accompaniments played by Eugenia Patten Snow, organist, and Mollie L. Paul and Frances Stults Campbell, pianists, also pleased.

Puritan Stage Prologue Uses Fine Musicians

A thorough search for the best available talent was made by Managing Director Frank L. Newman when planning "A Puritan Prelude," the atmospheric prologue to "The Scarlet Letter," now in its second week at the Million Dollar Theater.

Some of the best-known artists in Los Angeles at the present time are a part of the stage presentation. Marguerite Le Grabd, concert pianist, has appeared in concert work throughout the United States and the capitals of Europe. She has recorded many numbers for the Welte-Mignon, and is now under contract to record compositions for the Ampico.

Elsa Grosser, violinist, has been concert mistress of a number of prominent orchestras. In addition, she has toured two of the largest vaudeville circuits as a soloist. M. Dubin, Russian tenor, has appeared in Great Britain, Russia, America, France, Italy, Germany and Austria Percy Riker, basso cantanta, although still in his twenties, has long been a prominent artist in Southern California.

Florence Purdy, recently arrived in California, is a mezzo-soprano known throughout the East and Middle West. Olga Atti, harpist, is a graduate of the Imperial Conservatory at Odessa with high honors. Corisen Wells, soprano, recently toured America, and was acclaimed by all music critics for her splendid vocal quality.

Name Cast for First Play of Woman Producer

Ruth Helen Davis, who will produce plays at the Belmont Theater, Vermont at First street, has announced the complete cast for "Sitting Pretty," a comedy drama which will open January 15.

ROY STEWART

Among those who will appear are Lillianne Leighton, Roy Stewart, Kathleen Kirkham, Mia Marvin, Paris Hughes, Jeffrey Williams, Eric Mayne, Solly Carter, Tudor Owen, Virginia Thornton, Sidney Harris and Doris Mortlock.

If Otto Lederer finishes his assignment in "The King of Kings" at the De Mille studios, he will also appear in the production.

Midnight Show is Premiere of 'Nervous Wreck'

A "midnite matinee" tonight at the Broadway Palace at 11:30 will be the first western showing of "The Nervous Wreck," Al Christie's comedy.

This feature-length is the picturization of Owen Davis's farce of the same name.

The cast includes Harrison Ford, Phyllis Haver, Mack Swain, Vera Steadman, Hobart Bosworth, Chester Conklin, Paul Nichols and Charles Gerrard. Scott Sidney who wielded the megaphone for "Charley's Aunt" directed this group of fun-makers.

All seats will be reserved for this special New Year's Eve performance.

Today is the last day of "The Last Frontier," the last show starting at 9 p.m.

DESERT "OLD STUFF" TO LEADING PLAYERS

The desert is "old stuff" to Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky, the Samuel Goldwyn players who are co-featured in "The Winning of Barbara Worth," at the Rialto Theater now.

In the previous picture of each, all of the action was laid in the desert, and although the pictures were wholly distinct and separate, oddly enough it was the same desert. Colman was in "Beau Geste," made in the great American desert near Yuma, Ariz. And Vilma Banky was Rudolph Valentino's leading lady in "The Son of the Sheik," made in the self-same desert. As a matter of fact, Vilma said hello to Ronald as her company followed his on location.

"The Winning of Barbara Worth" was filmed in Nevada, on the Black Rock Desert.
